China Born In 1980s Does Their Fortune Run Out:

China Guang Wu, 2014 In recent years a newly created word appeared in the Chinese language ba ling huo which refers to the people who were born in the 1980s In Chinese society this generation became a social problem because the older generations and mass media blamed them although they are the first generation under single child policy This book analyses this social problem and uses two measures to determine whether the 80s generation ran out of luck to define their relationship with China to discuss their future and what they can do in their future to determine reasons why the 80s generation suddenly find themselves out of favour in Chinese society and to explore the Chinese culture Chinese tradition and Chinese civilisation's role in the rise and fall of the 80s generation Critical Issues in Contemporary China Czeslaw Tubilewicz, 2024-09-11 The third edition of Critical Issues in Contemporary China offers an in depth and up to date analysis of Xi Jinping's strategies to address critical domestic and international challenges facing China in a new era This book joins the current debates about Xi Jinping's new era reflecting upon the continuity and change in the CCP's domestic and foreign policies under Xi's leadership and Xi's capacity to realize the Chinese Dream of national rejuvenation The international team of contributors evaluate such pressing issues as Xi's re centralization of power and securitization of domestic politics the Chinese economic model state civil society relations Xi's gender policy and return to the traditional family values Beijing's responses to unrest in Xinjiang and Hong Kong Xi's evolving unification strategies towards Taiwan the Belt and Road Initiative and the deterioration of US China relations Providing readers with rich empirical assessment of Xi's responses to the political economic social and international challenges facing contemporary China the third edition of Critical Issues will be an essential resource for students of Chinese politics economy society and foreign relations The Chinese Dream and Ordinary Chinese People Mai Lu, 2021-02-27 This collection of interviews explores how the Chinese Dream is fueling the aspirations of individuals in China today and presents 40 representative cases that showcase the journeys that ordinary people undertake in pursuit of their dreams as well as their extraordinary achievements The authors identify autonomy self awareness and hard work as the most fundamental driving forces in individuals taking control of their own lives and achieving their dreams with family and social support as further important factors Despite the vast differences in the interviewees dreams and experiences in pursuing them there is a common thread in their stories namely the impact of major changes in the country on their lives The future of individuals is closely linked to the future of the country a bright future for the country means a good life for all People's longing for a better life is the basis and a central element of the Chinese Dream which is the dream of the nation and the dream of every citizen This book will appeal to a wide audience including ordinary people The Chinese State's Retreat from Health Jane Duckett, 2012-08-21 Over the post Mao period the Chinese state has radically cut back its role in funding health services and insuring its citizens against the costs of ill health Using an analytical framework drawn from studies of state retrenchment in industrialized democracies and in post communist Eastern Europe

Jane Duckett argues that the state's retreat from health in China was not a simple consequence of economic policies and market reform. Just as important were the influences of health policies, reform era political institutions, communist party ideology and bureaucratic stakeholders. Through her analysis, Duckett maintains that by studying retrenchment in China, the world's most populous nation and now a major global economic power, we can better understand international transformations in the role of the state and the politics that shape that role. The Chinese State's Retreat from Health both extends research on retrenchment politics to a major authoritarian state and contributes to piecing together understanding of the Chinese state's changing role across the economy and other social policies including housing and education. It will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese politics, social policy and the Chinese health care system as well as to those with a comparative interest in health welfare states and the politics of retrenchment. Jane Duckett is Professor of Chinese and Comparative Politics at the University of Glasgow, UK.

Aging Families in Chinese Society Merrill D. Silverstein, 2021-09-05

Declining fertility rates and increased life expectancies over the last few decades have conspired to make China one of the more rapidly aging societies in the world. Aging Families in Chinese Society focuses on the accelerated social and demographic changes in China and examines their implications for family care and support for older adults. Contributors to this landmark volume portray various challenges facing aging families in China as a result of reduced family size, changing gender expectations, rapid economic development and urbanization, rural to urban migration and an emerging but still underdeveloped long term care system. Divided into four thematic areas: Disability and Family Support, Family Relationships and Mental Health, Filial Piety and Gender Norms, and Long term Care Preferences, chapters in this volume confront these burgeoning issues and offer salient policy and practice considerations not just for today's aging population but future generations to come. Combining quantitative data from social surveys in China, comparative surveys in Taiwan and Thailand, and qualitative data from in depth interviews, Aging Families in Chinese Societies will be of significant interest to students and researchers in aging and gerontology, China and East Asian Studies, and population studies.

Chinese Family Business and the Equal Inheritance System Victor Zheng, 2009-12-17 This book disputes the traditional argument that the equal inheritance system hinders the growth of Chinese family business approaching this not only in terms of economic capital but also in terms of human capital such as education and leadership and social networks Zheng argues that most of the family business patriarchs only focus on the passing on economic capital but give little attention to human capital and social capital when they come to the stage to transfer control to the next level It further elaborates that the equal inheritance system itself isn't the destructive force that weakens family business competitiveness but can assist economic development by generating dynamism and capital Based on extensive primary research the work discusses how equal division encourages sibling comparison analysing how such comparisons initially generate stress and anxiety but will ultimately galvanize competition benefiting the business The author also assesses how family division can offer initial economic human and social capitals that can motivate siblings to start their own businesses and be free from the subjugation sometimes associated with a family firm Through the evaluation of these issues the book argues that the equal inheritance system can be regarded as the origin of the self employment mentality which not only fosters the growth of Chinese family business but plays a crucial role in promoting economic development Providing a valuable contribution to the field this work will be of great interest to all scholars of Chinese and Asian business
