Chinas Foreign Investment Diplomacy International:

China's Foreign Aid and Investment Diplomacy, Volume III John F. Copper, 2016-04-29 Today by many accounts China is the world's foremost purveyor of foreign aid and foreign investment to developing countries. This is the product of China's miracle economic growth over a period of more than three decades together with China's drive to become a major player in world affairs and accomplish this through economic rather than military means. This three volume work is the first comprehensive study of China's aid and investment strategy to trace how it has evolved since Beijing launched its foreign aid diplomacy at the time of the founding of the People's Republic of China in 1949. Volume III offers an analysis of China's foreign aid and investment to countries outside of Asia in Africa, Europe, the Middle East, Latin America and Oceania. Africa was and is the most important of these regions and it is given special treatment. In the concluding chapter Copper reviews the findings of previous volumes, delineates China's most important victories and setbacks and notes opposition to and criticism of China's aid and investment diplomacy. Copper gives evidence that will be shocking to some of the reality that China's financial help to developing countries is one of the most salient trends in international politics and constitutes a formidable challenge to the United States, Japan and Europe as well as international financial institutions.

This is the product of China's miracle economic growth over a period of more than three decades together with China's drive to become a major player in world affairs and accomplish this through economic rather than military means. This three volume work is the first comprehensive study of China's aid and investment strategy to trace how it has evolved since Beijing launched its foreign aid diplomacy at the time of the founding of the People's Republic of China in 1949. Volume I examines the definitions, origins, nature and scope of foreign aid and investment by other countries. Using that background John F. Copper then traces China's financial assistance to developing countries from the Mao period when China gave meaningful foreign aid despite its own economic struggles through the beginning of China's post 1978 economic boom and during subsequent decades of rapid economic growth. Copper shows that China has a more salient history in giving foreign assistance than any other country in the world while China's objectives in giving foreign assistance have changed markedly over time. China has always been driven by efforts to realize its foreign policy objectives and expand China's external influence.

Since the mid 1990s the Chinese authorities have gradually come to embrace multilateralism to realize their basic foreign policy objectives in maintaining a peaceful international environment and enhancing China's international status and influence This embrace is largely based on pragmatic considerations There is no denial however that elements of liberalism and constructivism gradually enter into the considerations of Chinese leaders They accept for example that non traditional security issues can only be tackled through genuine multilateralism This volume carefully examines China's increased participation in multilateral organizations and mechanisms and its efforts to initiate and develop its own discourses on global affairs straddling Asia the Middle East Africa and the Latin American continents China's presence in international multilateral organizations has been providing developing countries a better chance to maintain a balance of power Since China has no ambitious plan to transform the existing international order its increasing enthusiastic engagement of multilateralism is likely to be accepted by the international community      China's Foreign Aid and Investment Diplomacy, Volume II John F. Copper, 2015-12-07

Today by many accounts China is the world's foremost purveyor of foreign aid and foreign investment to developing countries This is the product of China's miracle economic growth over a period of more than three decades together with China's drive to become a major player in world affairs and accomplish this through economic rather than military means This three volume work is the first comprehensive study of China's aid and investment strategy to trace how it has evolved since Beijing launched its foreign aid diplomacy at the time of the founding of the People's Republic of China in 1949 Volume II provides an analysis of China's foreign aid and investment to countries and regional organizations on the Asian continent covering all of its major sub regions during the period from 1950 to the present day Copper considers motivating factors such as the Korean War the Vietnam War and China's desire to challenge the West and later the Soviet Union Also important to China and driving its aid and investment was China's pursuit of Communist Bloc solidarity a search for secure borders and competition with India for influence in the Third World Securing its imports of energy and raw materials and markets for its products came later Marginalizing Taiwan and defeating it diplomatically constituted another goal of China's foreign aid and foreign investment analyzed here      China's Foreign Political and Economic Relations Sebastian Heilmann, Dirk H. Schmidt, 2014-01-09

This balanced and thoughtful book presents a thorough analysis of the dynamics of China's foreign relations Sebastian Heilmann and Dirk H Schmidt provide a comprehensive and discriminating view of the complex often competing factors domestic influences regional tensions global uncertainties that shape Chinese foreign policy They portray the PRC as a land of multiple identities a nation that is becoming more assertive in East Asia as it explores novel approaches to its foreign economic policies while simultaneously displaying thin skinned sensitivities when confronted with international criticism The authors argue that unconventional approaches to foreign relations in particular a unique combination of long term strategies with multilevel policy experiments are driving Chinese global expansion The provocative and challenging final chapter designed to spur discussion considers China s imperial identity warring against the decentralized activities conducted in the shadow of the empire Illicit transnational guerilla like networks have thus become powerful driving forces behind the continued development of China s foreign policy as well as its foreign trade relations The authors contend that the activities of these niche nomads with their largely invisible or chameleon like presence constitute the most alarming dimension of China s foreign relations as they gain ground and resources in many parts of the world with the potential to shake the very foundations of other societies China in the Global South Theodor Tudoroiu, Anna Kuteleva, 2022-04-23 This book scrutinizes the frequently ignored agency of Global South sub national actors in their interactions with China using a multidisciplinary approach and eleven case studies Contributors examine China s presence in the Global South on a country by country basis analyzing how various non state and sub state actors are responding to the rise of China and whether they are attracted by the cooperation models that China proposes or deterred by its new assertiveness Contributions cover diverse and heterogeneous geographies of the Global South ranging from Papua New Guinea to Argentina and from Madagascar to the Russian Far East Examining such diverse cases contributors focus on two interrelated questions What is the actual economic political and social impact of China s growing presence in the Global South And critically how do the citizens of the Global South understand and interpret China s rise Taken together the case studies develop a comprehensive picture of a complex and sometimes problematic process of China s inclusion into the economic social and political realities of the Global South This book identifies and fills the gaps in the existing literature on China s rise by offering a nuanced perspective on China s relations with the countries of the Global South that captures such variables as social context intersubjective meanings and identities By focusing China s relations with the Global South it also provides an important addition to the literature on international politics of development and China s role in the transformation of the South South cooperation
