Chinese Foreign Policy Marc Lanteigne, 2013 The question of shifting American power

Chinese Foreign Policy Barbara Barnouin, Yu Changgen, 2013-10-28 First published in 1998 In this study what is proposed here is first of all to examine the effect it had on the very functioning of the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs and how the turmoil of the Cultural Revolution of which the country had become a victim spilled over to this highly elitist and prestigious Ministry In summary it focuses on the chaos that engulfed the institution

China and International Institutions Marc Lanteigne, 2005-11-14 China has shifted its foreign policy from one that avoided engagement in international organizations to one that is now embracing them These moves present a new challenge to international relations theory How will the global community be affected by the engagement of this massive global power with international institutions This new study explores why China has chosen to abandon its previous doctrine of institutional isolation and details how it is currently unable to balance American power unilaterally and details an indirect path to greater power In addition it includes the first major analysis of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization comprising China Russia and most of Central Asia In contrast to many works on the rise of China question which place an emphasis on her material goods and powers this book delivers a new approach It shows how the unique barriers Beijing is facing are preventing the country from taking the traditional paths of territorial expansion and political economic domination in order to develop as a great power One of these barriers is the United States and its inherent military and economic strength The other is the existence of nuclear weapons which makes direct great power conflict unacceptably costly China has therefore opted for a new path using institutions as stepping stones to great power status This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of international relations world politics world history and Asia

China's Foreign Policy Andrea Benvenuti, Chien-Peng

Chung, Nicholas Khoo, Andrew Tan, 2022-05-15 This volume explains China's foreign policy from the perspective of its historical recovery after 1949 and the country's subsequent rise as a great power including its transformation into a global power. It also illuminates how China has in tandem with its rise developed an increasing array of political, economic, sharp power, and military capabilities that is helping it to further its increasingly expansive foreign policy objectives. The volume examines two key questions: What have been the implications of China's rise for its foreign policy? And how has an increasingly powerful and confident China used a range of foreign policy instruments to pursue its expanding national interests in Asia and beyond? The volume is divided into three parts covering the conceptualization and drivers of China's foreign policy, China's relations with the world, and the instruments of China's foreign policy, namely its economic power, military capabilities, and its sharp power manipulation of information and relationships. It will be of interest to academics, students, and researchers interested in understanding China's role in world politics. Chinese Foreign Policy Toward the Middle East

Kadir Temiz, 2021-09-30 This book examines how the rise of China has influenced its cross-regional foreign policy toward non-Arab countries in the Middle East between 2001 and 2011. Analyzing contemporary international crises in the Middle East such as the Iran nuclear crisis, the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, and the Cyprus question, the volume draws on daily newspapers published in Chinese, Turkish, and English, and official documents as primary sources. The examined period is critical to understand China's aggressive and more attractive foreign policy dynamism in the following years. All the bilateral relations China has developed in the Middle East during these years was a preparation for the next big step toward China's rising influence in the region and the world. Utilizing the framework of debates on the rise of China in international relations literature, the volume focuses on political, economic, and military aspects of the power transition. Claiming that China's foreign policy toward the Middle East can be defined as active pragmatism, the non-Arab conceptualization provides a new understanding of China's traditional Middle Eastern foreign policies. The study assesses fieldwork carried out in Beijing and Shanghai and Chinese sources that are critical in understanding both official and academic perspectives. The book is a key resource for students, academics, and analysts interested in China and the Middle East relations, foreign policy, and politics, as well as for contemporary political historians. China's Foreign Policy Contradictions

Tim Nicholas Rühlig, 2022 China's rise to great power status is indisputable, but can it shape the future international order? This question remains widely debated because China's foreign policy is contradictory. Contrary to conventional wisdom, this book shows that China does not act from a position of strength but that foreign policy contradictions are the result of the domestic vulnerabilities of the ruling Chinese Communist Party. Providing exceptional insights into the considerations behind the opaque institutional structures of Chinese foreign policymaking and decision making, it shows that China will not provide a model for a new international system but could undermine the existing order. China's New Diplomacy

Zhiqun Zhu, 2013-03-28 What is the impact of China's new multi-directional diplomacy on international political economy, and how can the international community properly respond to the new diplomacy Based on extensive research addressing these and other important policy questions this book investigates China's new diplomacy since the early 1990s with a focus on Chinese initiatives in the Middle East Latin America and the Caribbean Africa Central Asia Southeast Asia and the South Pacific Zhiqun Zhu examines China's current efforts to secure energy to expand investment and trade and to enhance soft power around the world He evaluates how China's activities affect international political economy and how the international community especially the United States has reacted to China's new proactive diplomacy The study answers some of the lingering questions about Chinese politics and the policy implications for both China and the international community as they become increasingly interdependent

Chinese Foreign Policy Under Xi Tiang Boon Hoo, 2017-02-17 There has been a discernable calibration of Chinese foreign policy since the ascension of Xi Jinping to the top leadership positions in China The operative term here is adjustment rather than renovation because there has not been a fundamental transformation of Chinese foreign policy or setting up of a new kitchen in foreign affairs Several continuities in Chinese diplomacy are still evident The People's Republic of China PRC has not wavered from its overarching strategy of rising through peaceful development The PRC is still an active participant and leader in or shaper of global and regional regimes even as it continues to push for reforms of the extant order towards an arrangement which it thinks will be less unjust and more equitable It seeks to better link up with the international track perhaps even more so under Xi's stewardship Yet amidst these continuities it is clear that there have been some profound shifts in China's foreign policy From the enunciation of strategic slogans such as the Asian security concept and major country diplomacy with Chinese characteristics the creation of the China led and initiated Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank the pursuit of Xi's signature foreign policy initiative the One Belt One Road to a purportedly more assertive and resolute defense of China's maritime territorial interests in East Asia examples of these foreign policy calibrations both patent and subtle abound In short this has not been a complete metamorphosis but there are real changes with important repercussions for China and the international system The burning questions then are What Where How and Why What are these key foreign policy adjustments Where and how have these occurred in Chinese diplomacy And what are the reasons or drivers that inform these changes This book seeks to capture these changes Featuring contributions from academics think tank intellectuals and policy practitioners all engaged in the compelling business of China watching the book aims to shed more light on the calibrations that have animated China's diplomacy under Xi a leader who by most accounts is considered the most powerful Chinese numero uno since Deng Xiaoping China's Foreign Relations and Security Dimensions Geeta Kochhar, 2018-03-19 China is the world's second largest economy and a key player in world politics This book looks at China's foreign policy from a macro perspective It analyses China's peripheral and regional policy as well as its relations with other major powers India and Russia It offers insight into the historical security concerns of China and the linkages of internal domestic issues with external diplomacy which reshape its relations with neighbouring countries The volume also examines President Xi Jinping's foreign policy orientations and aspirations for future In face of growing global concern on China's hegemonic ambitions in the region the book gauges the tensions between China and Japan in the South China Sea as well as the apprehensions of several smaller Asian countries that may perceive China's strategic and geo-economic advantages and military strength as a threat This book will be useful to scholars and researchers of China studies politics foreign policy international relations military and strategic studies defence and security studies area studies and political studies The Domestic Dynamics Of China's Energy Diplomacy Chi Zhang, 2015-09-17 Since the beginning of the 21st century China's energy diplomacy has been expanding rapidly and the country is searching for energy resources worldwide This movement has not only improved China's energy security and international relations but also enabled the Chinese national oil companies NOCs to access new investment markets and implement development strategies The Chinese government and the NOCs need each other's support to realise their respective interests The interaction between the government and the NOCs will have a critical influence on China's energy diplomacy The Domestic Dynamics of China's Energy Diplomacy explores the long neglected domestic dynamics of China's energy diplomacy in particular the interaction of national and corporate interests It argues that the convergence of national and corporate interests is the key momentum of China's energy diplomacy It observes that the government NOC relationship has been evolving with China's economic and enterprise reform Finally it tests the empirical evidence of the domestic dynamics of China's energy diplomacy against the three mainstream international political economy theories showing their merits and shortcomings in explaining the phenomenon before providing an alternative conceptualisation of the movement The Oxford Handbook of International Law in Asia and the Pacific Simon Chesterman, Hisashi Owada, Ben Saul, 2019-09-12 The growing economic and political significance of Asia has exposed a tension in the modern international order Despite expanding power and influence Asian states have played a minimal role in creating the norms and institutions of international law today they are the least likely to be parties to international agreements or to be represented in international organizations That is changing There is widespread scholarly and practitioner interest in international law at present in the Asia Pacific region as well as developments in the practice of states The change has been driven by threats as well as opportunities Transnational issues such as climate change and occasional flashpoints like the territorial disputes of the South China and the East China Seas pose challenges while economic integration and the proliferation of specialized branches of law and dispute settlement mechanisms have also encouraged greater domestic implementation of international norms across Asia. These evolutions join the long standing interest in parts of Asia notably South Asia in post colonial theory and the history of international law. The Oxford Handbook of International Law in Asia and the Pacific brings together pre eminent and emerging specialists to analyse the approach to and influence of key states of the region as well as whether truly Asian trends can be identified and what this might mean for international order.

Thirty Years of China - U.S. Relations Sujian Guo, Baogang Guo, 2010-08-04. The year 2009 marks the 30th anniversary of normalization of Sino U S relations. Over the past 30 years the bilateral relations have developed by twists and turns. It is not until recent years that some stability and forward looking exchanges have returned to the central stage albeit tension grievances and mistrust continue to persist. Washington has encouraged China to become a responsible stakeholder in the world affairs while China has urged the U S to work with China to build a harmonious world. Both sides want to work together to solve their differences through dialogs and negotiations. In the wake of the worldwide financial crisis of 2008 2009 China has contributed greatly in financing the crumbling U S financial market and lent a helping hand in stabilizing the world economy. Nevertheless the foundation of the relationship remains very fragile and the long term prospect for a constructive cooperative relationship is still full of uncertainties. For many Americans China s increasing global reach and growing political and economic influence constitute the greatest challenge to world dominance by the United States. As a result some perceive China s rise as a threat to Americans core national interests. The recent changes in the global geostrategic landscape and economic interdependence have suggested that some new ideas factors conditions and elements are shaping the relations between the two countries. The task of Thirty Years of China U S Relations Analytical Approaches and Contemporary Issues is to explore these factors issues and challenges and their impact for the bilateral relations in the 21st century.

George J. Gilboy, Eric Heginbotham, 2012-03-12 Politics Government Chinas African Peacekeeping Decision-making in the Hu Jintao Era Fanie Herman, 2015-11-01 China's role in international peacekeeping has greatly expanded during the leadership of Hu Jintao and China has since become a significant contributor to peacekeeping operations PKOs in Africa The importance of the book is expressed in the view that peacekeeping intervention is a tool that strengthens or fulfills policy goals in the United Nations Mission in Liberia UNMIL the UN Stabilization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo

MONUSCO and the UN Mission in Darfur UNAMID China has considerable interests at stake in Africa in terms of promoting economic cooperation or gaining access to natural resources In order to maintain these efforts it is imperative that a secure and stable environment is created not only to maintain diplomatic relations with its African partners but also to express the harmonious worldview and peaceful development concepts which rose to prominence under the presidency of Hu Jintao The purpose of this book is therefore to examine the extent to which peacekeeping intervention contributes to China s relations with these countries Two models are employed to shed light on this thesis The rational actor model RAM developed by Graham Allison is used in the first instance to explain the goals for each country the options considered to reach the goals the consequences or outcomes of choice that will ensure whether a particular option is chosen and then selecting the option that has the consequences that rank the highest in the leadership s payoff function However the leadership in policy formulation does not always act in a unitary fashion and often needs the input of governmental actors to produce results in decision making Therefore the bureaucratic politics model BPM of Allison is used in the second instance to indicate the bargaining influencing and compromising positions of the bureaucracy that has reinforced the rational decisions of the leadership The main findings are that peacekeeping interventions serve as a mechanism to facilitate cooperation is significant to China s goals in the mission countries and influence and shape bargaining that occur between bureaucratic actors regarding peacekeeping
