Building Futures Jane Powell, Jennifer Monahan, Chris Foulds, 2015-11-24 A reduction in the energy demand of buildings can make a major contribution to achieving national and international carbon reduction goals in addition to addressing the interlinked issues of sustainable development fuel poverty and fuel security Despite improvements in thermal efficiency the energy demand of buildings stubbornly remains unchanged or is only declining slowly due to the challenges posed by growing populations the expectations of larger more comfortable and better equipped living spaces and an expanding commercial sector Building Futures offers an interdisciplinary approach to explore this lack of progress combining technical and social insights into the challenges of designing constructing and operating new low energy buildings as well as improving the existing inefficient building stock The twin roles of energy efficiency which is predominantly concerned with technological solutions and energy conservation which involves changing peoples behaviour are both explored The book includes a broad geographical range and scale of case studies from the UK Europe and further afield including Passivhaus in Germany and the UK Dongtan Eco City in China and retrofit houses in Denmark This book is a valuable resource for students and academics of environmental science and energy based subjects as well as construction and building management professionals

Value in a Changing Built Environment David Lorenz, Peter Dent, Tom Kauko, 2017-11-08 A new framework for understanding the underpinnings of real estate property value and the role it plays in the larger economy Value in a Changing Built Environment examines the professional foundations on which the valuation exercise and the valuation profession rest Written by noted experts in the field the book addresses the often limited understanding of the concept of property value by explaining the intrinsic linkages between economic environmental social and cultural measures and components of property value The book offers a framework that paves the way towards a more holistic approach to property value Value in a Changing Built Environment unwraps many of the traditional assumptions that have underpinned market participants decision making over the last few decades The authors explore the concept that a blindfold application of valuation theories and approaches adopted from finance is unlikely to be able to cope with the nature of property as an economic and public good This vital resource Explains the criteria for making estimates of value that can be applied worldwide Offers an integrated approach to property value and the valuation processes Captures the often illusive intangibles such as environmental performance into valuation Addresses a market failure to account for wider criteria on building performance Value in a Changing Built Environment examines how real estate valuation plays a pivotal role in decision making and how can a new body of knowledge improve the practice in both business and social domains
