Where Truth Lies Kris Fallon, 2019-10-29 A free open access ebook is available upon publication Learn more at www.luminosoa.org This boldly original book traces the evolution of documentary film and photography as they migrated onto digital platforms during the first decades of the twenty first century Kris Fallon examines the emergence of several key media forms social networking and crowdsourcing video games and virtual environments big data and data visualization and demonstrates the formative influence of political conflict and the documentary film tradition on their evolution and cultural integration Focusing on particular moments of political rupture Fallon argues that the ideological rifts of the period inspired the adoption and adaptation of newly available technologies to encourage social mobilization and political action a function performed for much of the previous century by independent documentary film Positioning documentary film and digital media side by side in the political sphere Fallon asserts that truth now lies in a new set of media forms and discursive practices that implicitly shape the documentation of everything from widespread cultural spectacles like wars and presidential elections to more invisible or isolated phenomena like the Abu Ghraib torture scandal or the fake news debates of 2016

Archival Storytelling Sheila Curran Bernard, Kenn

Rabin, 2020-04-28 Fully revised and updated Archival Storytelling second edition is a timely pragmatic look at the use of audiovisual materials available to filmmakers and scholars from the earliest photographs of the 19th century to the work of media makers today Whether you re a top Hollywood filmmaker or a first time documentarian at some point you are going to want to find use and license third party materials images audio or music that you yourself did not create to use them in your work This book explains what s involved in researching and licensing visuals and music and exactly what media makers need to know when filming in a world crowded with rights protected images and sounds Filled with insights from filmmakers archivists and intellectual property experts this second edition defines key terms such as copyright fair use public domain and orphan works It guides readers through the complex archival process and challenges them to become not only archival users but also archival and copyright activists This book is an essential resource for both students and professionals from seasoned filmmakers to those creating their first projects offering practical advice for how to effectively and ethically draw on the wealth of cultural materials that surround us

New Media and Transmedia for Documentary Storytelling

Federico Pardo, 2011 New media and transmedia are two phenomena that are currently changing the way in which media is produced distributed and experienced Although media scholars have proposed working definitions for these terms their application for documentary storytelling is still scarce Using the foundations offered by Henry Jenkins and Martin Lister and collaborators I examine the consequences that new media and transmedia may have for documentary storytellers that are using them as production and distribution tools This work is the result of a personal desire to explore new ways to document and tell stories while experimenting with different media formats and their interaction photography video audio and the internet New media and transmedia have resulted not only in new production technologies but also in a shift from passive media consumers to active media users As a consequence audiences now play a major role as interactive agents that are transforming the uses of media By acknowledging the current state of how media is being produced distributed and experienced documentary storytellers may shed new lights when creating non fiction media experiences
