and planning Inclusion in agri-food systems in Bangladesh: the digital innovation and transformation initiative

Sarker, F., Mamun, K. A., Uddin, J., Ahmed, S., Nisha, N. A., Joshi, Deepa, 2023-09-20 Agriculture has played a crucial role in supporting smallholder livelihoods in Bangladesh. Despite being actively involved in various stages of production including seed sowing, harvesting and postharvesting, women's contributions are often undervalued. They are often regarded as a cheap labor force and are not given meaningful roles in the supply and value chains. One of the primary challenges they face is the lack of access to and ownership of land, which results in limited and unequal access to resources such as credit services, markets and information on modern technologies. These disparities hinder women's participation in market systems and further widen gender gaps and digital divides. Studies have shown that Bangladesh has one of the highest gender gaps in mobile internet usage among low and middle income countries. This study examines the gender digital divide in Bangladesh, focusing on the reasons behind women's exclusion from digital information highways and their limited access to use of and benefits from internet-based agriculture and climate-related services and innovations. In addition to a comprehensive review of secondary data, we conducted a needs-based assessment using both quantitative and qualitative indicators in three divisions. Qualitative data were collected through focus group discussions, in-depth interviews and key informant interviews. Both the qualitative and quantitative studies shed light on the social, economic and contextual issues related to the digital ecosystem in the agriculture sector. The assessment also evaluates the effectiveness of public-private and civil society interventions in the study areas. Our findings reveal that most digital initiatives fail to address the economic gaps and challenges faced by smallholder farmers, poor women and rural youth. To address these challenges and promote gender equality in agriculture, it is crucial for the government to implement consistent policies across government agencies and develop strategies that prioritize closing digital divides in the agricultural sector.

The Oxford Handbook of Structural Transformation Célestin Monga, Justin Yifu Lin, 2019-02-07 The Oxford Handbook of Structural Transformation addresses the economics of structural transformation around the world. It deals with major themes which include history and context, critical issues and concepts, methodological foundations, main theoretical approaches, policy issues, some illuminating country experiences of structural transformation and important debates on the respective roles of the market and the state in that process. The historical record provides a challenge for economists to understand the success of the rising economic powers, some of them initially considered unlikely candidates for prosperity, and the stagnation or decline of others. Five major questions emerge: Why has so much divergence occurred among nations of the world since the Industrial Revolution and particularly during the 20th century? Why has the pattern changed recently with the emergence of a few developing economies, e.g. the multi-polar world, and can it be sustained? What are the key drivers, strategies and policies to foster structural transformation in various different country contexts and in a constantly evolving global economy? How could low and middle income countries avoid development traps and learn from past experiences whilst exploiting the new opportunities offered by the Fourth Industrial Revolution What is the role of various development stakeholders and other important players in facilitating sustained economic convergence among nations This book addresses these questions bringing the rigor usefulness and multi disciplinary scope of the Oxford Handbook series to a critical topic in economics The Oxford Handbook of Structural Transformation is an essential reference work and a stimulus to new research and creativity across all branches of the social sciences Technology and Social Transformations in Hospitality, Tourism and Gastronomy Savita Sharma,Shivam Bhartiya,2023-04-27 This book explores the relationship between technology and social transformation in tourism hospitality and gastronomy It presents research and case studies elaborating on benchmark practices adopted by tourism and hospitality professionals In recent years technology has transformed the tourism and hospitality industry the chapters in this book cover areas such as guest experience and service quality as well as operational areas such as housekeeping and waste management With contributions from academics entrepreneurs destination managers and government officials from the South Asia region this book offers a real insight in to these areas of growing interest and provide a useful resource for those researching and studying within the areas of tourism development and hospitality

Rwanda's journey towards sustainable food systems Wigboldus, S., Guijt, J., Garcia-Campos, P.,2021-08-19 Governments and other food system actors from the private sector civil society research and education institutions are being called upon to work together to enhance the sustainability resilience and inclusiveness of food systems This appraisal presents key lessons from food agriculture and environment related institutional mechanisms programmes and policies in Rwanda considered against the backdrop of the country s agroecological conditions and relevant social economic and political history It also provides insights into trade offs and tensions which involve a balancing act between strong leadership and meaningful participation securing local food sovereignty and outward connectivity intensifying and diversifying the agricultural economy creating room for private sector entrepreneurship and providing central coordination as well as a mindset focused on what is needed and possible Food for All Uma Lele,Manmohan Agarwal,Brian C. Baldwin,Sambuddha Goswami,2021-10-15 Many developing countries are falling behind sustainable development goals food and nutrition levels have deteriorated due to conflict climate change and the Covid pandemic while global ambitions for achieving sustainable food security and adequate nutrition have increased But what are the prospects of achieving sustainable healthy food for all What is the best response to concerns about growing differentiation among developing countries in terms of domestic agricultural and industrial performance How have global institutions established during the post World War Two period helped developing countries to deal with the past economic fallout of food fuel and financial crises Food for All explores how developments since these organizations were established have led to changes in the provision of international financial and technical assistance in support of the global food and agriculture system and how developing countries own efforts have helped transform them These developments and the increase in the number of global actors have expanded and complicated global governance presenting both opportunities for as well as challenges to the improvement of food systems This volume provides an analysis of the structure coordination and management of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO the International Fund for Agricultural Development IFAD and the World Food Programme WFP It also looks at the World Bank the largest international funder of policy advice and investment projects and CGIAR a leading funder of international agricultural research This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations

Digital Framework for the Water-Energy-Food Nexus Project Delivery in Developing Economies Love Opeyemi David,Clinton Aigbavboa,Nnamdi Nwulu,Omoseni Oyindamola Adepoju,2024-12-05 This book introduces a comprehensive and sustainable project delivery framework tailored for managing the Water Energy and Food WEF nexus in developing economies Its primary objectives include establishing the determinants of the nexus exploring the sustainability dynamics of the resources delineating the role of digital technologies in WEF nexus projects evaluating the interoperation of the three resources with sustainable development goals SDGs and subsequently formulating a sustainable project delivery framework Timely in its release the book provides essential policy directions and technological perspectives within the realms of sustainability Water energy and food WEF resources constitute vital components pivotal for a nation s socio economic development and fundamental for human survival due to their intricate interdependencies Recognizing their paramount importance the World Economic Forum underscores their role in a country s growth trajectory However the sustainable management of WEF resources in the era of the Fourth Industrial Revolution necessitates an integrative framework for project delivery Unfortunately a significant gap exists in understanding the determinants of the nexus between water energy and food resources resulting in insecurity in their management Compounding this challenge the emergence of new technologies in the fourth industrial revolution has not received adequate consideration for ensuring resource security The book adopts a meticulous approach conducting an in depth review of existing models frameworks and theories Furthermore it supplements this analysis with an insightful interview case study Notably this pioneering work distinguishes itself as the first to view WEF resources as interconnected nexus projects with a keen acknowledgment of the indispensable role played by digital technology Moreover its targeted focus on addressing the unique challenges prevalent in developing economies adds a layer of specificity often absent in existing literature on the WEF nexus Researchers seeking a deeper understanding of the integration between the WEF nexus and digital technologies will find substantial value in the contents of this book The book is divided into five sections providing a systematic exploration of the subject The sections cover background information on WEF resources and its nexus underpinning theories of resource interaction theoretical frameworks relevant to the nexus the role of digital technologies in managing the WEF nexus interoperability of sustainability and SDG with the nexus presentation of an in depth case study and conclude with valuable insights and recommendations Leveraging food systems to reduce poverty and malnutrition Raza, A and Soares, F.,2020-12-18 Even though substantial progress has been achieved worldwide in reducing both poverty and malnutrition much is yet to be done There are signs that the progress made in both dimensions has stalled in recent years Poor quality diets have become a major driver for overweight and obesity and associated non communicable diseases such as diabetes heart diseases and some types of cancers Conflict and climate vulnerability have been identified as major obstacles to reaching Sustainable Development Goal targets related to malnutrition by 2030 In 2019 economic downturns and slowdowns hindered efforts even further More recently the COVID 19 crisis has imposed even harsher conditions to countries Poverty and malnutrition are inevitably linked and therefore addressing one can help address the other Given that most of the world s extremely poor people and stunted children live primarily in rural areas and rely mostly on agriculture the agriculture and food systems approach can offer an opportunity to reduce both poverty and malnutrition The food systems approach places equal emphasis on both the supply and demand dimensions that are critical for ensuring healthier diets and better nutrition for poor and vulnerable groups This special issue of Policy in Focus is dedicated to answering a crucial question How can a food systems approach be used to design and implement policies and investments that reach those most vulnerable to poverty hunger malnutrition and suboptimal diets We hope that the contributions contained in this volume by leading academics and development practitioners exploring the linkages between nutrition food systems and poverty can help stakeholders and policymakers make inroads towards the promotion of food and nutrition security and the reduction of rural poverty Food Systems Profile - Kenya Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations ,European Union,French Agricultural Research Centre for International Development,2023-06-23 Food systems are intimately linked to our lives through the food we eat our nutrition and health our livelihoods jobs and the environment and natural resources of the planet The main challenge for food systems is to produce nutritious food for all while preserving our biodiversity and environment and ensuring equitable distribution of wealth This Food Systems Profile provides a summary of the main food system issues in Kenya and highlights potential solutions for their sustainable and inclusive transformation It is the result of a systemic analysis and stakeholders consultation that was part of a global assessment of food systems in over 50 countries following a joint initiative by the European Union FAO and CIRAD which aims at catalysing the sustainable and inclusive transformation of food systems Financial Inclusion and Digital

Transformation Regulatory Practices in Selected SADC Countries Howard Chitimira,Tapiwa Victor Warikandwa,2023-03-28 This book investigates the regulation and promotion of financial inclusion and provides a comparative analysis of the regulation promotion and enforcement of the relevant laws in the SADC in particular South Africa Namibia Botswana and Zimbabwe as well as the challenges of financial inclusion In turn it evaluates financial inclusion in the context of specific challenges faced by unbanked and underbanked customers who are easy targets for cyber criminals because they tend to have lower levels of digital literacy The book presents novel discussions that identify the challenges and flaws associated with the enforcement of financial inclusion laws and related measures intended to promote financial inclusion in the SADC region This is primarily done in order to reveal the current strengths and weaknesses of financial inclusion laws in relation to certain aspects of the companies securities and financial markets in the region For example there is no common financial inclusion instrument law that is effectively and uniformly applied throughout the SADC This has impeded the enforcement authorities efforts to effectively combat financial exclusion across the region The book is likely the most comprehensive study to date on the regulation and promotion of financial inclusion in the SADC region and fills a major gap in SADC and African legal jurisprudence As such it offers a valuable asset for policymakers attorneys bankers securities share holders and other market participants who deal with financial inclusion as well as undergraduate and graduate students interested in the topic

Agrifood Transitions in the Anthropocene Allison M. Loconto,Douglas H. Constance,2024-02-01 The greatest challenges of the twenty first century stem from the fact that we are now living in a new epoch the Anthropocene The human footprint on the planet can no longer be denied One of the greatest and most essential human innovations agriculture is being increasingly recognised as a leading contributor to climate change According to global governance bodies the world will need to feed a predicted nine billion people by 2050 However in this Anthropocene we must address the environmental inequalities in how these people will be fed This book explores our current societal struggles to transition towards more sustainable agrifood systems It suggests that debates around sustainable agriculture must be social as well as technical exploring the growth of social movements campaigning for more democratic food systems However as each chapter demonstrates both the problems and the solutions in sustainable agriculture are highly contested Using the term agrifood to capture the nexus between research governance and the environment knowledge environment governance this book provides an in depth and wide ranging account of current research around agricultural production and food consumption The book introduces the Anthropocene along with the fundamental question that it poses about human nature interactions It outlines the core concerns related to agriculture and food and the debates around the need for agrifood system transitions Each chapter investigates controversies in the field through case studies These contributions offer a call for sociologists of agriculture and food to engage with the controversies unfolding in the Anthropocene Food Australia ,2000
