Emotional Labour and Lesson Observation Ursula Edgington, 2016-11-21 This book presents research on emotion work and the emotional labour of teaching and learning based in England's further education sector where an increasing emphasis on marketised systems means accountability and audit cultures have become embedded within everyday teaching practice. Uniquely this book explores micro level issues of the managerial policies relating to classroom lesson observations as well as the profoundly emotional philosophical aspects of these situations which research asserts cause stress and anxiety for many staff. Drawing on theoretical psychosocial concepts exploring the interplay of hidden or underground micro and macro elements of teaching and learning contexts the book illuminates how the presence of an observer fundamentally alters the dynamics of a classroom. The author argues that it is not necessarily the performativity that creates the stress and anxiety in an observation but the individual's perception of this performativity and how it relates to a wider consideration of their emotional labour in the classroom. For this reason the book puts forward a case for ending the formal graded method of lesson observations in favour of a developmental holistic approach that is sensitive to the emotional nuances of the individuals involved as well as the social and historical contexts of the institutions in which they are situated. The diverse use of lesson observations as a tool for staff development and quality assurance policies make this a valuable resource for educational researchers, policy makers, teachers and managers from many different sectors and backgrounds. Disabled International Students in British Higher Education Armineh Sooreanian, 2013-12-30 A wealth of evidence demonstrates that disabled domestic students experience disabling barriers in such areas as funding, pedagogy and social life in Higher Education. HE Research also indicates that non-disabled international students experience a wide range of cultural and linguistic difficulties throughout their university experience whilst studying in England. Nevertheless there is a dearth of research concerning the specific experiences of disabled international students in English universities. With the increasing internationalisation of HE in the past two decades this is highly significant. Analysing disabled international students' accounts in British universities appears to be all the more pertinent due to the current austerity measures which have impacted on the financial situation of Higher Education Institutions. Armineh Sooreanian comments on the relevance of inclusive educational theories and policies within an increasingly internationalised HE system with reference to disabled international students' experiences in England. The project is both timely and appropriate as there is an acute shortage of documentation on the application of policies for the inclusion of disabled students and disabled international students specifically in English universities. The findings identify key barriers in the four broad categories of 1 Information Access and Funding 2 Disability Services 3 Learning and Teaching and 4 Non Disability Support Services such as accommodation and social life. The study provides an up to date snapshot of disabled international students' accounts and the multiple disadvantages they experience in their universities based on their identities as disabled international and sometimes mature students The author also draws on a number of insights which could contribute towards a more inclusive HE system The implication of concentrating on disabled international students experiences have direct ramifications not only for this specific group but also a wide range of students from diverse minority backgrounds who could gain from inclusive practices in education Feminist Politics and Education Reform M.

Arnot,1999-12 Childhoods Real and Imagined Priscilla Alderson,2013-05-29 This book is unusually rewarding in that its author has pulled off the rare trick of providing deep philosophical and theoretical underpinnings to a comprehensive reconsideration of childhood Priscilla Alderson deploys Bhaskar s dialectical critical realism to excellent effect illuminating not only our understanding of the presence and absence of children in our lives and discourses but also the field of childhood studies It is rare that such an integrated text is accomplished and I look forward to the planned second volume This is a work that should facilitate a rethinking of childhood for the new century Graham Scrambler Professor of Medical Sociology at University College London Childhoods Real and Imagined explores and charts the relation of dialectical critical realist concepts to many aspects of childhood By demonstrating their relevance and value to each other Alderson presents an introductory guide to applied critical realism for researchers lecturers and students Each chapter summarises key themes from several academic disciplines and policy areas combining adults and children s reported views and experiences and filtering these through a critical realist analysis The four main chapters deal with the more personal aspects of childhood in relation to the body interpersonal relations social structures and the person soul or self The second volume will widen the scope to include the impact on children and young people of present policies relating to ecology economics ideas of social evolution or progress and ethics Each chapter demonstrates how children are an integral part of the whole of society and are often especially affected by policies and events Through developing the dialectical critical realist analysis of childhood and youth Childhoods Real and Imagined will be of great interest to critical realists and childhood researchers and policy advisers

Coeducando para una ciudadanía en igualdad Madeleine Arnot,2009-06 La rapidez de los cambios que vivimos se refleja en este nuevo libro de Madeleine Arnot pensado desde la problemática que nos va desvelando el siglo XXI que la ha llevado a un doble salto conceptual nuestro ámbito de referencia ya no es el Estado cada Estado nacional sino el mundo inmerso en el proceso de globalización As el horizonte cambia y se amplía de pronto y hay que repensarlo todo porque nuestro escenario es ya otro Y al mismo tiempo la educación ya no es el bagaje que debe permitir a las generaciones jóvenes insertarse en el mercado de trabajo o adquirir los instrumentos básicos para vivir en un contexto inmediato La educación o al menos una parte de ella debe transformarse en educación para una ciudadanía global En un instrumento capaz de dar a la gente joven las referencias necesarias para convivir en un mundo amplio y diverso de una diversidad yuxtapuesta y simultánea y marcado a la vez por la afirmación de la igualdad de derechos y por la realidad de las desigualdades las diferencias los prejuicios las jerarquías Siguiendo en muchos momentos los sutiles conceptos de Basil Bernstein Arnot se adentra en el análisis de la
