China and East Asia's Post-Crises Community Wei Liang, Faizullah Khilji, 2012-10-04 China and East Asia's Post Crises Community A Region in Flux by Wei Liang and Faizullah Khilji explores how an East Asian community is taking shape as a result of China's emergence as a global economic power and the shocks of the financial crises emanating from the globalized financial system. Today's East Asia shows a sharp break from the East Asia of the Cold War era in both basis and orientation. Important elements in this shift include the regional economic integration propelled by China's emergence as a processed manufacturing center in the world economy, the common problems posed by the working of the dollar based international financial system and the desire to develop institutions that help to formalize the economic integration and financial cooperation that is taking place and may thus help protect and safeguard economic prosperity in the region. Liang and Khilji show how the approach to regional economic cooperation and developing institutions comes from the bottom up, lacking any leader nation grand vision or ideology. The manner in which the region comes to work together also has implications for the governance of the world economy, in particular the economic model that underlies policy formulation, the working of the international financial system and the approach to the multilateral trading system. From a security oriented US centric regional structure characterized as the hub and spokes system set up after the Second World War, this region is now more nearly an informal economic community which increasingly appears to be China centric. China and East Asia's Post Crises Community presents one of the first attempts to weave together different strands of the current discussion to develop a framework for understanding a rapidly evolving East Asia region. China and East Asia's Post-Crises Community Wei Liang, Faizullah Khilji, 2012-10-04 China and East Asia's Post Crises Community A Region in Flux by Wei Liang and Faizullah Khilji explores how an East Asian community is taking shape as a result of China's emergence as a global economic power and the shocks of the financial crises emanating from the globalized financial system. Providing the frameworks necessary for understanding the political and economic logics of trade wars, this Handbook will be a valuable source of reference for researchers, government officials, businesses and post graduate students interested in international political economy, international economics, economic statecraft, public policy and international relations. Research On China's Strategy And Policy In Northeast Asia Qingcai Liu, 2024-11-27 Research on China's Strategy and Policy in Northeast

Asia offers a comprehensive in depth and systematic analysis of China's strategy and policy in Northeast Asia. It examines the region's political, economic, security related and cultural dynamics with a focus on key issues and territorial sovereignty disputes. The research integrates theoretical, applied, strategic and policy based research methods to provide a multifaceted perspective. The analysis is framed through the lens of major country diplomacy with Chinese characteristics and China's foreign policy towards Northeast Asia. This book explores China's strategic vision for Northeast Asia, emphasizing the evolving international system in the region and China's strategic responses. It argues for the establishment of a new order of international relations in Northeast Asia characterized by equality, mutual trust, good neighborliness and cooperation. Additionally, the book addresses three fundamental issues: security threats and the development of security mechanisms, energy security challenges and energy system development, and the enhancement of trade, investment facilitation and regional economic cooperation. This book is an engaging read for scholars specializing in political, economic, security and cultural research on Northeast Asia, as well as policymakers and strategists focused on China's foreign policy and diplomatic efforts in the region. International Journal, 2005 Asian Security in the Age of Globalization Lui

Hebron, 2024-05-03. This book examines the security challenges and opportunities that the nation states of Asia confront in an era of globalization. With consideration of the increasingly borderless nature of international relations via the integrative process of globalization, this book explores the emerging threats to regional and national security in Asia. It looks beyond traditional military threats, analysing non-traditional aspects of security including economic, social, environmental, transnational, energy, health concerns and threats posed by organized crime groups. Its approach is organized both theoretically and in a country specific case study form, which provides contemporary examples of the threats faced in the region. By acknowledging that contemporary Asian security has become much more complex and complicated, it highlights the uncertainty and instability that the nation states of the Indo-Pacific region confront. Presenting both a globally oriented and expanded vision of Asian security, this book is an excellent resource for scholars and students of Asian Studies, International Relations and Global Studies. Cross Currents Gi-Wook Shin, Daniel C. Sneider, 2007. Northeast Asia stands at a turning point in its history. The key economies of China, Japan and South Korea are growing increasingly interdependent and the movement toward regionalism is gaining momentum. Yet interdependency often set in a global context also spurs nationalism in all three countries and elsewhere in East Asia. Northeast Asia today feels the presence of all three complex forces: national, regional and global, connecting, competing and colliding in myriad ways. The authors of this book assess current interactions of national and regional forces in Northeast Asia in the context of U.S. presence in the region. These seemingly contradictory forces must be considered together; the sparks they generate have important policy implications for the United States and for the region as a whole. Constructive reformulation of these interactions is one of Northeast Asia's most pressing contemporary challenges. Asian Perceptions of Gulf Security Li-Chen Sim, Jonathan Fulton, 2022-11-28

Gulf stability is coming to play a larger role in the foreign policy calculus of many states but the evolving role of Asian powers is largely under represented in the International Relations literature This volume addresses this gap with a set of empirically rich theory driven case studies written by academics from or based in the countries in question The underlying assumption is not that Asian powers have already become important security actors in the Gulf but rather that they perceive the Gulf as a region of increasing strategic relevance How will leaders in these countries adjust to an evolving regional framework Will there be coordinated efforts to establish an Asian centered approach to Gulf stability or will Asian rivalries make the region a theater of competition Will US China tensions force alignment choices among Asian powers Will Asian states balance bandwagon hedge or adopt some other approach to their Gulf relationships These questions become even more important as the western boundaries of Asia increasingly come to incorporate the Middle East The book will appeal to scholars and students in the fields of International Relations Security Studies and International Political Economy as well as area specialists on the Gulf and those working on foreign policy issues on each of the Asian countries included Professionals in government and non government agencies will also find it very useful The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
