Domestic Occupations Jessica Enoch, 2019-08-22 This feminist rhetorical history explores women's complex and changing relationship to the home and how that affected their entry into the workplace. Author Jessica Enoch examines the spatial rhetorics that defined the home in the mid to late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries and considers how its construction and reconstruction from discursive description to physical composition has greatly shaped women's efforts at taking on new kinds of work. In doing so, Enoch exposes the ways dominant discourses regarding women's home life and work life rhetorics that often assumed a white middle class status were complicated when differently raced, cultured, and classed women encountered them. Enoch explores how three different groups of women workers—teachers, domestic scientists, and World War II factory employees—contended with the physical and ideological space of the home, examining how this everyday yet powerful space thwarted or enabled their financial and familial security as well as their intellectual engagements and work-related opportunities. Domestic Occupations demonstrates a multimodal and multigenre research method for conducting spatio-rhetorical analysis that serves as a model for new kinds of thinking and new kinds of scholarship. This study adds historical depth and exigency to an important contemporary conversation in the public sphere about how women's ties to the home inflect their access to work and professional advancement. Culture, Capitals and Graduate Futures Ciaran Burke, 2015-08-27 In a time of too many graduates for too few jobs and in a context where applicants have similar levels of educational capital, what other factors influence graduate career trajectories? Based on the life history interviews of graduates and framed through a Bourdieusian sociological lens, Culture, Capitals and Graduate Futures explores the continuing role that social class as well as cultural and social capitals have on both the aspirations and expectations towards and the trajectories within the graduate labour market. Framed within the current context of increasing levels of university graduates and the falling numbers of graduate positions available in the UK labour market, this book provides a critical examination of the supposedly linear and meritocratic relationship between higher education and graduate employment proposed by official discourses from government at both local and national levels. Through a critical engagement with the empirical findings, Culture, Capitals and Graduate Futures asks important questions for the effective continuation of the widening participation agenda. This timely book will be of interest to higher education professionals working within widening participation policy and higher education policy. The Shifting Global World of Youth and Education Mabel Ann Brown, 2017-08-15 The Shifting Global World of Youth and Education explores how increasing migration and population changes are having an unprecedented impact on global education. Given that the number of children of migrant background is growing internationally, there is a need for increasing awareness of the educational attainment and cultural integration of this population group. This book presents international perspectives on migration and youth and analyses what kinds of effects such demographic changes are having on educational systems around the world. The chapters in this volume provide a fascinating insight into how countries around the world are dealing with loss or growth in their young population as well as changes to their education systems. Written by specialist academics from the relevant country the book covers Cuba Lithuania the United Kingdom the United States Finland Greece Germany Austria Hungary Latvia China Australia India Italy and Poland Taking into consideration the countries social and political context the chapters discuss educational issues surrounding curriculum assessment and the opportunities available for the support of young people Conclusions are drawn about what could be done in the future for the benefit of both the migrant and the existing populations The Shifting Global World of Youth and Education will be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the disciplines of education sociology political sciences and social work The book will also give secondary teachers teaching assistants social workers and youth workers the opportunity to reflect on their role within a national and international context

Economic Woman Frances Raday, 2019-05-14 The author introduces the concept of economic woman and makes her visible in duality with and opposition to the exclusive model of economic man Economic man has epitomized neo liberal capitalism which embraces competition and maximization of profit resulting in a steep increase in economic inequality The book demonstrates that women s inequality is a crucial factor in economic inequality which cannot be fully understood without relating to women s situation and that economic woman cannot thrive in the conditions of economic inequality created under global neo liberalism Emphasising the international human rights guarantees of women s right to equality in all fields of life the author documents woman s increased participation in political public financial and corporate institutions employment and entrepreneurship with some women reaching high profile positions Nevertheless using global data she reveals that economic woman lags behind with a severe economic power deficit an unfulfilled promise of equal employment opportunity a gendered impact of poverty and barriers to gender equality in the family The book analyses the trap of women s increased burden of breadwinning in the context of discriminatory laws and practices infrastructural failures and policy gaps which preempt achievement of gender equality in economic life The book is intended for the general reader academics students policy makers and NGOs It shows economic woman at a global crossroads between a universal paradigm of gender equality and pervasive barriers to equal economic opportunity The author demonstrates that tackling gender inequality restoring welfare priorities and reducing economic inequality are inextricably linked Human rights and governments have a vital role to play in addressing them all to create a sustainable economic infrastructure for the lives of women and men

Women and Leadership in Higher Education Karen A. Longman, Susan R. Critical Perspectives on Leadership Mark

Learmonth, Kevin Morrell, 2019-05-01 Within contemporary culture leadership is seen in ways that appeal to celebrated societal values and norms As a result it is becoming difficult to use the language of leadership without at the same time assuming its essentially positive intrinsically affirmative nature Within organizations routinely referring to bosses as leaders has therefore become both a symptom and a cause of a deep largely unexamined new conceptual architecture This architecture underpins how we think about authority and power at work Capitalism and its turbo charged offspring neo liberalism have effectively captured leader and leadership to serve their own purposes In other words organizational leadership today is so often a particular kind of insidious conservatism dressed up in radical adjectives This book makes visible the work that the language of leadership does in perpetuating fictions that are useful for bosses of work organizations We do this so that we and anyone who shares similar discomforts can make a start in unravelling the fiction We contend that even if our views are contrary to the vast and powerful leadership industry our basic arguments rest on things that are plain and evident for all to see Critical Perspectives on Leadership The Language of Corporate Power will be key reading for students academics and practitioners in the disciplines of Leadership Organizational Studies Critical Management Studies Sociology and the related disciplines Handbook of Labor Economics Orley Ashenfelter, David Card, 2010-12-14 A guide to the continually evolving field of labour economics
