Fundamentals of Gifted Education Carolyn M. Callahan, Holly L. Hertberg-Davis, 2013 The field of gifted education is characterized by a confusing array of perspectives concerning such fundamental issues as definition philosophy curriculum social and emotional development and underserved populations The mission of this book is to provide a coherent framework that instructors and service providers can use in planning effective programs providing appropriate counseling services and evaluating programs for the gifted Most sections are organized around fundamental issues confronting the field and follow a common structure an introductory chapter that provides historical and theoretical background and organizing questions followed by several point of view chapters written by experts that provide varied perspectives on the topic at hand Distinguishing Features Comprehensive Coverage The book s forty five manageable length chapters cover the full range of topics that must be considered in planning programs and services for gifted students both within and outside of school Coherent Structure Section introductions provide background information and organizing questions to guide chapter authors who provide varying views of the issue at hand The emphasis is not on the right way or the wrong way except when clearly documented bad practice is discussed but on how best practice stems from well informed and logical decision making Decision Making Focus The book s introductory chapter addresses the need for a clearly developed and consistently applied set of values to guide decision making Likewise each section introduction includes a decision making framework regarding some aspect of educating counseling or parenting gifted students This book is appropriate for introductory level courses in gifted education or courses in program development and planning It is also suitable for school personnel responsible for making program planning decisions in the area of gifted education and for academic libraries with holdings in this area Rationing Education David Gillborn, Deborah

Youzell, 1999-12-16 This research should make us extremely sceptical that the constant search for higher standards and for ever increasing achievement scores can do much more than put in place seemingly neutral devices for restratification Michael W Apple John Bascom Professor of Curriculum and Instruction and Educational Policy Studies University of Wisconsin Madison Recent educational reforms have raised standards of achievement but have also resulted in growing inequalities based on race and social class School by school league tables play a central role in the reforms These have created an A to C economy where schools and teachers are judged on the proportion of students attaining five or more grades at levels A to C To satisfy these demands schools are embracing new and ever more selective attempts to identify ability Their assumptions and practices embody a new IQism a simple narrow and regressive ideology of intelligence that labels working class and minority students as likely failures and justifies rationing provision to support those often white middle class boys already marked for success This book reports detailed research in two secondary schools showing the real costs of reform in terms of the pressures on teachers and the rationing of educational opportunity It will be important reading for any teacher researcher or policymaker with an interest in equality in education COGAT Grade 5 Level 11
