

Fundamentals of Accounting Equations & Answers

Accounting is a complex field that requires patience, dedication, critical thinking, and meticulous analysis to master by heart. To understand the fundamental accounting equation, you must first familiarize yourself with the basic elements of accounting, basic accounting terminology, and the components of financial statements.

Types of Financial Statements

BALANCE SHEET - Reports the financial status of a business or company as of a given period of time.

INCOME STATEMENT - Reports the results of operations for a given period of time.

OWNER'S-EQUITY STATEMENT - Reports the changes or differences in the owner's equity or capital resulting from the investments and withdrawals.

CASH FLOW STATEMENT - Reports the summary of cash receipts and cash disbursements made during the accounting period.

ACCOUNT TITLES

BALANCE SHEET

Balance Sheet accounts are those classified as permanent or real accounts and consist of items that measure a company's financial position.

- Assets - Refers to the economic resources owned by the business or company. Assets may be classified as current and non-current. Current assets include cash, cash equivalents, marketable securities, trade and other receivables, inventories, and prepaid expenses. Non-current assets include long-term investments, properties, plants, and equipments.
- Liabilities - Refers to what the business or company owes. A liability may also be current or non-current. Current liabilities include credits, payment obligations (service bills), loans, unearned revenues, and accrued liabilities like salaries payable and taxes payable. Non-current liabilities include mortgages and bonds.

- Owner's/Stockholder's Equity or Capital - Refers to the difference between the assets and the liabilities which includes owner interests on the business (income summary), owner claims on the asset (drawing), and owner investments (capital).

The balance sheet accounts are what reflects or represents the basic accounting equation. For a sole proprietorship, the accounting equation is:

$$\text{Assets} = \text{Liabilities} + \text{Owner's Equity}$$

For a corporation, the accounting equation is:

$$\text{Assets} = \text{Liabilities} + \text{Stockholder's Equity}$$

The equation for computing the owner's or stockholder's equity is:

$$\text{Assets} - \text{Liabilities} = \text{Owner's (or Stockholder's) Equity}$$

The owner's or stockholder's equity represents the amount of investment of the owner or owners in the business or company and the net income of the business or company that was not yet been distributed to the owners.
