

Edith Wharton

Edith Wharton (born Edith Newbold Jones, January 24, 1862 – August 11, 1937) was an American writer and designer. Wharton drew upon her insider's knowledge of the upper-class New York "aristocracy" to portray realistically the lives and morals of the Gilded Age. In 1907, she became the first woman to win the Pulitzer Prize in Fiction, for her novel The Age of Innocence. She was inducted into the National Academy of Arts in 1930. Among her other well-known works are The House of Mirth, the novella Ethan Frome, and several notable ghost stories.

Despite not publishing her first novel until she was forty, Wharton became an extraordinarily productive writer. In addition to her 15 novels, seven novellas, and eighty-five short stories, she published poetry, books on design, travel, travel and lecture notes, and a memoir.

Many of Wharton's novels are characterized by subtle irony, and she is often credited with being the first American writer to use the technique of the "unreliable narrator".

Wharton's novels, such as The House of Mirth, The Age of Innocence, and Ethan Frome, are set in the Gilded Age, a period of rapid economic growth, marked by the rise of the industrial revolution and the rise of the middle class. Industrial Revolution and the Arts
The industrial revolution was a period of rapid economic growth and technological change that transformed the world. It was a time of great progress, but it also brought about significant social and environmental challenges. The arts of the period reflected these changes, with many artists exploring themes of industrialization, social class, and the human condition.
