The fifth edition embraces many new ongoing and emerging European legal issues. As in the previous editions, the

EU Cartel Enforcement Andreas Scordamaglia-Tousis,2013-08-01 There has been a long standing debate on the compatibility of EU competition law with fundamental rights protection particularly as the latter is enshrined in the due process requirements of the European Convention on Human Rights ECHR This book a signal contribution to that debate assesses two questions of paramount concern first whether the current level of fundamental rights protection in cartel enforcement falls within the accepted ECHR standards and second how the often conflicting objectives of effectiveness and adequate protection of fundamental rights could optimally be achieved Following a detailed survey of relevant EU institutional substantive and procedural law rules the author offers a set of persuasive normative responses to both questions Proceeding from an in depth analysis of the pertinent rights and legal nature of competition proceedings under EU and ECHR law the author goes on to examine such elements of the perceived incompatibility as the following investigatory powers vested in competition authorities the privilege against self incrimination right to privacy fair trial probatory requirements degree of use of presumptions in EU practice Article 6 ECHR guarantees pertaining to the presumption of innocence proving coordination of competitive behaviour proving restriction of competition admissibility of evidence before EU Courts and the Commission assessment of the attribution of liability rules EU fining rules judicial review of cartel decisions by EU Courts and national sanctioning rules The author s extraordinarily thorough presentation is rounded off with a remarkably comprehensive bibliography that lists in addition to books and articles newspaper articles EU regulations and directives soft law guidelines and best practices EU and ECtHR case law EU Advocate General opinions European Commission decisions and European Ombudsman decisions General conclusions stress the necessity of introducing further reforms to enhance the effectiveness and legitimacy of fundamental rights in the context of competition proceedings Few books have taken such a thorough and far reaching approach to the reconciliation of effective public enforcement and fundamental rights or of effective deterrence with the principles of legality non retroactivity presumption of innocence and ne bis in idem In the depth of its appraisal of the entire spectrum of enforcement components from a fundamental rights perspective the book is without peers It will be warmly welcomed by any parties interested in the intersection of competition law and human rights

O'Rourke,2010-06-24 Unlike most existing textbooks on the economic history of modern Europe which offer a country by country approach The Cambridge Economic History of Modern Europe rethinks Europe s economic history since 1700 as unified and pan European with the material organized by topic rather than by country This second volume tracks Europe s economic history through three major phases since 1870 The first phase was an age of globalization and of European economic and political dominance that lasted until the First World War The second from 1914 to 1945 was one of war deglobalization and depression and the third was one of growing integration not only within Europe but also between Europe and the global economy Leading authors offer comprehensive and accessible introductions to these patterns of globalization and deglobalization as well as to key themes in modern economic history such as economic growth business cycles sectoral developments and population and living standards

Rapidly developing technologies are providing new and very powerful means to sort combine and analyse data This data exists in a networked environment thus personal information can be collected and processed on any computer on the Net and is at least in theory accessible by every computer on the Net The development of the Internet has made it possible to transfer this data around the globe at the click of a mouse Fresh business models such as cloud computing the newest driver to illustrate the speed and breadth of the environment allow this data to be processed across national borders on a routine basis Individuals and companies are increasingly immersed in social networking search technologies online commerce and many other activities in which information about an individual is sent worldwide from one point to another These activities became more and more borderless because the Internet as an open window to the world blurs the lines between public and private space firstly since globalisation and the outsourcing of economic actors entrain an ever growing exchange of personal data additionally because of the security pressure in the name of the legitimate fight against terrorism opens the access to a significant number of data to an increasing number of public authorities and finally this is due the tools of the digital society accompany everyone at each stage of life by leaving permanently individual and borderless traces in both space and time Therefore calls of both the public and private sectors for an international legal framework for privacy and data protection have become louder Privacy Commissioners appealed to the United Nations to prepare a binding legal instrument which clearly sets out in detail the rights to data protection and privacy as enforceable human right This appeal was repeated in 2008 at the 30th International Conference held in Strasbourg and at the 31th conference 2009 in Madrid through the draft of a global legal instrument on Data Protection with a view to submitting it to the United Nations But also companies such as Google and Facebook have come under continuous pressure from governments and citizens to reform data use of data Could these calls possibly be best achieved by an international framework for Data Protection rather than a collection of national or regional approaches
