EU Consumer Rights Directive Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee, 2009-07-15 A review of the existing body of EU consumer law known as the consumer acquis culminated in the European Commission's publication of a draft Directive on consumer rights proposing to replace four of the existing Directives making up the consumer acquis. The draft Directive's aim is to simplify the existing regulatory framework and provide for a real business to consumer internal market balancing a high level of consumer protection with the competitiveness of enterprises. The Committee recommends that the Government withhold agreement from the proposal as drafted. It is unconvinced that it will deliver the desired boost in trade across borders and it may reduce the overall level of protection currently afforded to consumers. Further progress on the Directive should await a more complete impact assessment addressing issues such as the lack of concrete statistics underpinning this proposal and the exclusion of digital goods and pure services from its scope. The Committee agrees that there is a need to update the existing Directives not least due to inconsistencies between them over key definitions and the fragmentation of the business to consumer internal market that has resulted from Member States being able to introduce provisions that go beyond the minimum set down in the Directives. The Commission's solution is to apply the principle of full harmonisation but the Committee would prefer to see a more targeted use of this principle harmonising certain aspects but allowing Member States room for manoeuvre in other areas. European Tax Law,

Chitty on Contracts, 31st edition volumes 1 & 2, Chitty on Contracts, 31st edition volume 1, Commentaries on European Contract Laws Nils Jansen, Reinhard Zimmermann, 2018-07-13 The book provides rule by rule commentaries on European contract law general contract law consumer contract law the law of sale and related services dealing with its modern manifestations as well as its historical and comparative foundations After the collapse of the European Commission's plans to codify European contract law it is timely to reflect on what has been achieved over the past three to four decades and for an assessment of the current situation In particular the production of a bewildering number of reference texts has contributed to a complex picture of European contract laws rather than a European contract law The present book adopts a broad perspective and an integrative approach All relevant reference texts from the CISG to the Draft Common European Sales Law are critically examined and compared with each other As far as the acquis commun ie the traditional private law as laid down in the national codifications is concerned the Principles of European Contract Law have been chosen as a point of departure The rules contained in that document have however been complemented with some chapters sections and individual provisions drawn from other sources primarily in order to account for the quickly growing acquis communautaire in the field of consumer contract law In addition the book ties the discussion concerning the reference texts back to the pertinent historical and comparative background and it thus investigates whether and to what extent these texts can be taken to be genuinely European in nature ie to constitute a manifestation of a common core of European contract law Where this is not the case the question is asked whether and for what reasons they should be seen as points of departure for the further development of European contract law

The Single Market Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee,2008-02-08 This report is about the need for the Commission and Member States to take action in order to prevent the Single Market project from failing to achieve expectations Increased competition lower prices and a wider choice of products and services are the potential benefits to consumers access to an enormous home market is the potential benefit to business In reality the failure of Member States to implement important legislation has maintained barriers and prevented the fuller completion of the Single Market This failure is aggravated by the growing trend towards economic protectionism in a number of Member States Misguided attempts to protect domestic industries and safeguard national jobs are preventing consumers and businesses from reaping the full benefits of a truly open Single Market The EU needs to reassess the tools it uses The legislative route is not always the most effective means for achieving Single Market goals The increased use of other non legislative tools will help to overcome the difficulties of legislating for an expanded EU National Regulatory Authorities NRAs must be independent of government especially where governments have financial interests in the major market operator or national incumbent There is no need for a super regulator at EU level in any of the sectors considered in this inquiry energy telecommunications and financial services Achieving consistent implementation begins with effective policy making based on detailed sector specific understanding Currently very few SMEs are engaged in cross border activity and this is largely due to the regulatory barriers which remain in place and the lack of reliable information to assist businesses The Committee welcomes the objective of engaging small business in the Single Market
