Energy Security And Climate Change Triangle Papers:

China, Oil and Global Politics Philip Andrews-Speed, Roland Dannreuther, 2011-05-12 This book provides a critical overview of how China's growing need for oil imports is shaping its international economic and diplomatic strategy and how this affects global political relations and behaviour. It draws together the various dimensions of China's international energy strategy and provides insights into the impact of this on China's growing presence across the world. The Triangle papers John M. Deutch, 2007 Earth at Risk in the 21st Century: Rethinking Peace, Environment, Gender, and Human, Water, Health, Food, Energy Security, and Migration Úrsula Oswald Spring, 2020-04-03 Earth at Risk in the 21st Century offers critical interdisciplinary reflections on peace security gender relations migration and the environment all of which are threatened by climate change with women and children affected most. Deep rooted gender discrimination is also a result of the destructive exploitation of natural resources and the pollution of soils water biota and air. In the Anthropocene the management of human society and global resources has become unsustainable and has created multiple conflicts by increasing survival threats primarily for poor people in the Global South. Alternative approaches to peace and security focusing from bottom up on an engendered peace with sustainability may help society and the environment to be managed in the highly fragile natural conditions of a hothouse Earth. Thus the book explores systemic alternatives based on indigenous wisdom gift economy and the economy of solidarity in which an alternative cosmovision fosters mutual care between humankind and nature. Special analysis of risks to the survival of humankind in the 21st century. Interdisciplinary studies on peace security gender and environment related to global environmental and climate change. Critical reflections on gender relations peace security migration and the environment. Systematic analysis of food water health energy security and its nexus. Alternative proposals from the Global South with indigenous wisdom for saving Mother Earth. Energy Security Challenges for the 21st Century Gal Luft, Anne Korin, 2009-08-10 The impact of energy on global security and economy is clear and profound and this is why in recent years energy security has become a source of concern to most countries. However energy security means different things to different countries based on their geographic location their endowment of resources their strategic and economic conditions. In this book Gal Luft and Anne Korin with the help of twenty leading experts provide an overview of the world's energy system and its vulnerabilities that underlay growing concern over energy security. It hosts a debate about the feasibility of resource conflicts and covers issues such as the threat of terrorism to the global energy system maritime security the role of multinationals and non state actors in energy security the pathways to energy security through diversification of sources and the development of alternative energy sources. It delves into the various approaches selected producers consumers and transit states have toward energy security and examines the domestic and foreign policy tradeoffs required to ensure safe and affordable energy supply. The explains the various pathways to energy security and the tradeoffs among them and demonstrates how all these factors can be integrated in a larger foreign and domestic policy framework It also explores the future of nuclear power the complex relations between energy security and environmental concerns and the role for decentralized energy as a way to enhance energy security Triangle Papers,1996

Who's Running America? Thomas R. Dye,2015-10-23 A classic of American government Who s Running America continues to demonstrate how power is concentrated in large institutions no matter who inhabits the White House The eighth edition of this best selling text focuses on the Obama administration and the ways in which it is different from but also similar to administrations that have come before Based on years of exhaustive data compilation and analysis Who s Running America explores the influence and impact of governmental leaders corporate officials and other elites both inside and outside the United States Employing an oligarchic model of national policymaking Tom Dye doesn t just lay out theory and data He very consciously names names in describing the people who inhabit the White House the Cabinet the leaders of Congress members of the Supreme Court as well as the board rooms of the nation s largest corporations and banks including leading media lights as well as fat cat political contributors Dye argues that big institutions run America but also that these institutions are made up of real people Who s Running America puts the flesh and bones on the statistics and delivers the inside scoop on the Obama reign

Food Security and Climate Change in the Pacific Asian Development Bank,2011-09-01 The Pacific developing member countries DMCs of the Asian Development Bank ADB are a diverse array of countries with widely varying topographies cultures and economies fragile natural resource environments and prosperity stability and security that can be compromised by the impacts and consequences of climate change The Pacific island governments view climate change as a priority issue especially in terms of its potential impacts on food security and need clear directions in addressing both issues This report describes the present state of food security and its contributing factors in the Pacific region assesses its prospects amid the growing threats and likely impacts of climate change and presents potential areas for more active assistance investments and interventions from ADB and other development partners While technical and policy measures to ensure food security amid the ensuing climate change are numerous interrelated and complex the successful implementation of programs and projects calls for simple and flexible designs that carefully consider the capabilities of relevant stakeholders at the regional national and local levels

Transatlantic Energy Relations John R. Deni, Karen Smith Stegen, 2016-04-08 Recent upheaval in the global energy system dramatic increases in demand led largely by developing countries significant decreases in supply as a result of local or regional conflicts and the growing nexus between the burning of hydrocarbons and climate change has unsettled long held notions of energy security For many years transatlantic cooperation helped undergird the system's stability but Europe and North America have drifted apart in several key ways potentially undermining the search for energy sufficiency surety and sustainability Will the transatlantic partners continue on separate paths in the face of dramatic change in the global energy system or does the breadth and depth of the challenges they confront compel them to work more closely together In this edited volume experts from across Europe and North America including advisors to the executive and legislative branches of both the EU and the United States to senior military commanders and to major international organizations and companies examine the most salient facets of the transatlantic energy relationship and discern whether that relationship is characterized by growing convergence or divergence This book was based on a special issue of the Journal of Transatlantic Studies

The Energy and Security Nexus, 2012 The relationship between energy and security has been receiving increasing attention over the last few years Energy literally drives the global economy Societies rely on it for everything from advanced medical equipment to heating cooling and irrigation Whether it derives from advanced nuclear reactors in developed nations or simple wood stoves in the developing world energy is recognized as vital to human welfare It influences our economic political and social policies Possessing or not possessing sufficient energy determines a state's political and economic power Competition for energy has been is and will be a source of conflict The choices nation states make when it comes to energy will have a profound bearing on a wide range of security concerns from nuclear proliferation to climate change

The Globalization of Energy, 2010-01-25 Since the conclusion of the 1985 trade and cooperation agreement between the European Community and China a new political dynamic has been set in motion between two emerging entities industrializing China and integrating Europe It is reflected in among others European Commission policy strategy papers and probably more importantly in numerous sectoral dialogues and agreements Europe has become China's largest export destination For the E U China has become its second largest trading partner and its most important source of imports The book edited by Mehdi Parvizi Amineh and Yang Guang studies the fueling of this Eurasian production and trading system This is the policy area of energy supplies and energy security Cooperation on the basis of complementarity is rather easy Cooperation in the competition for access to and share in non renewable stocks of oil and gas is more challenging This book studies a series of bilateral energy relations Part One in a global level geo political framework Policy outcomes in bilateral relations are impacted by multi lateral networks Part Two surveys the quest for renewable energy which is the core of supply security China has created the largest solar panel production facility It is capable of producing light weight magnets used in among others wind power generators and hybrid car engines This year China is expected to overtake the U S as the largest producer of wind turbines China s step by step reduction of the gap in wealth and power with countries that overran it in the past has so far been remarkably peaceful We know in both Europe and China all too well that trend driven change in capability ratios between great powers does not by necessity harmonize well with leadership responses to it By charting the domain of the energy competition this book marks an important contribution to the rationalization of energy policy as an area of competitive cooperation Henk Houweling Instructor at the Europe Institute of the University of Macao Contributors are Mehdi Parvizi Amineh Robert M Cutler Chen Mo Eva Patricia Rakel Daniel Scholten Philip Sen Raquel Shaoul Frank Umbach Eduard B Vermeer Shi Dan and Yang Guang

Energy Security and Climate Change John M. Deutch, Anne Lauvergeon, Widhyawan Prawiraatmadja, 2007 In this book authors from North America Europe and Pacific Asia enter the controversial debate of how to meet growing energy demands while minimizing the subsequent impact on global warming John Deutch offers a tour d horizon of global energy issues and climate change that also provides analysis of U S domestic energy politics Anne Lauvergeon summarizes the European viewpoint on these issues and makes a detailed and forceful case for large scale concentration on nuclear power development within an enhanced nonproliferation framework Widhyawan Prawiraatmadja proposes mechanisms for increasing regional energy security that take into consideration Pacific Asia s broad geography fast paced development and infrastructure requirements Energy Security and Climate Change is both a careful analysis of global remedies and an appreciation of regional approaches that can be devised to meet common challenges Although the United States Europe and Pacific Asia have differing energy needs this book reveals that they show surprising congruence in their proposed solutions
