Communities And The Environment Ethnicity Gender And The State In Community Based Conservation:

Communities and the Environment Arun Agrawal, Clark C. Gibson, 2001 For years environmentalists thought natural resources could be best protected by national legislation But the poor outcomes of this top down policy have led conservation professionals today to regard local communities as the agents of conservation efforts According to a recent survey more than fifty countries report that they pursue partnerships with local communities in an effort to protect their forests Despite the recent popularity of a community based approach the concept of community rarely receives the attention it should get from those concerned with resource management This balanced volume redresses the situation demonstrating both the promise and the potential dangers of community action Although the contributors advocate community based conservation they examine the record with a critical eye They pay attention to the concrete political contexts in which communities emerge and operate Understanding the nature of community requires understanding the internal politics of local regions and their relationship to external forces and actors Especially critical are issues related to ethnicity gender and the state

Community, Environment and Local Governance in Indonesia Carol Warren, John F. McCarthy, 2012-09-10 This book explores the forces reconfiguring local resource governance in Indonesia since 1998 drawing together original field research undertaken in a decade of dramatic political change Case studies from across Indonesia's diverse cultural and ecological landscapes focus on the most significant resource sectors agriculture fisheries forestry mining and tourism providing a rare in depth view of the dynamics shaping social and environmental outcomes in these varied contexts Debates surrounding the tragedy of the commons and environmental governance have focused on institutional considerations of how to craft resource management arrangements in order to further the policy objectives of economic efficiency social equity and environmental sustainability The studies in this volume reveal the complexity of resource security issues affecting local communities and user groups in Indonesia as they engage with wider institutional frameworks in a context driven simultaneously by decentralizing and globalizing forces Through ground up investigations of how local groups with different cultural backgrounds and resource bases are responding to the greater autonomy afforded by Indonesia's new political constellation the authors appraise the prospects for rearticulating governance regimes toward a more equitable and sustainable commonwealth This volume offers valuable insights into questions of import to scholars as well as policy makers concerned with decentralized governance and sustainable resource management

The SAGE Handbook of Environment and Society Jules Pretty, Andy Ball, Ted Benton, Julia Guivant, David R Lee, David Orr, Max Pfeffer, Professor Hugh Ward, 2007-10-30 A monumental and timely contribution to scholarship on society and environments The handbook makes it easy and compelling for anyone to learn about that scholarship in its full manifestations and as represented by some of the most highly respected researchers and thinkers in the English speaking world It is wide reaching in scope and far reaching in its implications for public and private action a definite must for serious researchers and their libraries Bonnie J McCay Rutgers

University This is the desert island book for anyone interested in the relationship between society and the environment The editors have assembled a masterful collection of contributions on every conceivable dimension of environmental thinking in the social sciences and humanities No library should be without it Robyn Eckersley University of Melbourne The SAGE Handbook of Environment and Society focuses on the interactions between people societies and economies and the state of nature and the environment Editorially integrated but written from multi disciplinary perspectives it is organised in seven sections Environmental thought past and present Valuing the environment Knowledges and knowing Political economy of environmental change Environmental technologies Redesigning natures Institutions and policies for influencing the environment Key themes include locations where the environment society relation is most acute where for example there are few natural resources or where industrialization is unregulated the discussion of these issues at different scales local regional national and global the cost of damage to resources and the relation between principal actors in the environment society nexus Aimed at an international audience of academics research students researchers practitioners and policy makers The SAGE Handbook of Environment and Society presents readers in social science and natural science with a manual of the past present and future of environment society links      State and Environment Andreas Duit,2014-05-30 This volume of comparative studies documents the continuing relevance of the state in environmental politics and policy The book also demonstrates the analytical power of the comparative approach to the study of environmental politics and policy offering cross national comparisons of environmental governance in both developed and developing countries Some chapters are based on qualitative studies from a small number of countries others offer statistical analyses of quantitative data from many more countries over a longer time period      Community Management of Urban Open Spaces in Developing Economies Bharati Mohapatra,2016-04-12 Dr Bharati Mohapatra examines the social functional physical and emotional aspects of neighborhood Open Space and the attitude of people for community participation in managing the Open Space as well as development of a framework for community participation by integrating the social psychological and spatial attributes      The Politics of Deforestation in Africa Nadia Rabesahala Horning,2018-04-24 This book explores how environmental policies are made and enforced in Africa Specifically this project explains the gap between intent and impact of forest policies focusing on three African societies facing persistent deforestation today Madagascar Tanzania and Uganda The central claim of the study is that deforestation persists because conservation policies and projects which are largely underwritten by foreign donors consistently ignore the fact that conservation is possible only under limited and specific conditions To make the case the author examines how decision making power is negotiated and exercised where communities make environmental decisions daily local level and where environmental policies are negotiated and enacted national level across three distinct African political systems      Comparative Environmental Politics Jerry McBeath,Jonathan Rosenberg,2006-07-10 While we cannot hope to provide definitive answers to these questions as political scientists we proceed from the assumption that much can be learned through the application of the existing tools of comparative political analysis Two of the incidents occurred in developing countries one a parliamentary democracy the other a democratizing presidential system and one occurred in a highly developed presidential democracy All three countries are federal systems with multiple layers of environmental regulation although sub national government seems to be better institutionalized and more effective in the United States Only one of the incidents occurred within the sovereign territory of a country with an effective federal environmental protection agency and highly transparent policy and judicial processes None of the three nation states involved has a strong green political party And the affected communities in all three cases remain dissatisfied with the outcomes to varying degrees What can we make of these observations Is there a systematic relationship between them or any other political social cultural or economic factors and the responses to environmental crises by nation states To answer these questions a more systematic analysis of the attendant political processes is needed Only then can we suggest whether hope or despair is a more appropriate reaction 1 2 Global Environmental Issues Since the 1960s environmental issues have entered the agendas of most nation states Pollution of land air and water have endangered ecosystems and public health and called for a governmental response

Continuity under Change in Dayak Societies Cathrin Arenz, Michaela Haug, Stefan Seitz, Oliver Venz, 2017-04-27 This volume provides a balanced picture of change and continuity within Dayak societies from an anthropological perspective by exploring diverse ways in which certain kinds of knowledge performances and practices continue within the context of rapid and profound change The contributions cover a broad variety of topics including political reform decentralisation environmental change and related changes in natural resource management religion and ritual practice the re formation of ethnic identities as well as conflict transformation in Indonesian Borneo

People and Forests Clark C. Gibson, Margaret A. McKean, Elinor Ostrom, 2000 People and Forests explores the complex interactions between local communities and their forests focusing on the rules by which communities govern and manage their forest resources

Transnational Law and Local Struggles David Szablowski, 2007-01-29 The global spread of transnational mining investment which has been taking place since the 1990s has led to often volatile conflicts with local communities This book examines the regulation of these conflicts through national transnational and local legal processes In doing so it examines how legal authority is being redistributed among public and private actors as well as national and transnational actors as a result of globalizing forces The book presents a case study concerning the negotiation of land transfer and resettlement between a transnational mining enterprise and indigenous peasants in the Andes of Peru The case study is used to explore the intensely local dynamics involved in negotiations between corporate and community representatives and the role played by legal ordering in these relations In particular the book examines the operation of a transnational legal regime managed by the World Bank to remedy the social and environmental impacts of projects which receive Bank assistance The book explores the nature and character of the World Bank regime and the multiple consequences of this projection of transnational law into a local dispute      Bushmeat and Livelihoods Glyn Davies, David Brown, 2008-04-15 This book explores the links between bushmeat and livelihoods in Africa with a focus on the human dimension of the debate Assembles biological social and economic perspectives that illuminate the bushmeat debate Features a series of case studies that explore what species survive different intensities of bushmeat hunting and trapping Examines the shape and size of household bushmeat consumption and market trading Reviews governance and institutional impacts on wildlife management lessons learned from agriculture forest plant product and development sectors and perspectives from Asia and Latin America Provides an excellent resource for students and policy makers in wildlife management conservation and development      Gender and Natural Resource Management Bernadette P. Resurreccion, Rebecca

Elmhirst, 2012-05-31 This book is about the gender dimensions of natural resource exploitation and management with a focus on Asia It explores the uneasy negotiations between theory policy and practice that are often evident within the realm of gender environment and natural resource management especially where gender is understood as a political negotiated and contested element of social relationships It offers a critical feminist perspective on gender relations and natural resource management in the context of contemporary policy concerns decentralized governance the elimination of poverty and themainstreaming of gender Through a combination of strong conceptual argument and empirical material from a variety of political economic and ecological contexts including Cambodia China Indonesia Malaysia Nepal Thailand and Vietnam the book examines gender environment linkages within shifting configurations of resource access and control The book will serve as a core resource for students of gender studies and natural resource management and as supplementary reading for a wide range of disciplines including geography environmental studies sociology and development It also provides a stimulating collection of ideas for professionals looking to incorporate gender issues within their practice in sustainable development Published with IDRC      The Neoliberal State, Recognition and Indigenous Rights Deirdre Howard-Wagner, Maria

Bargh, Isabel Altamirano-Jiménez, 2018-07-25 The impact of neoliberal governance on indigenous peoples in liberal settler states may be both enabling and constraining This book is distinctive in drawing comparisons between three such states Australia Canada and New Zealand In a series of empirically grounded interpretive micro studies it draws out a shared policy coherence but also exposes idiosyncrasies in the operational dynamics of neoliberal governance both within each state and between them Read together as a collection these studies broaden the debate about and the analysis of contemporary government policy The individual studies reveal the forms of actually existing neoliberalism that are variegated by historical geographical and legal contexts and complex state arrangements At the same time they present examples of a more nuanced agential bottom up indigenous governmentality Focusing on intense and complex matters of social policy rather than on resource development and land rights they demonstrate how indigenous actors engage in trying to govern various fields of activity by acting on the conduct and contexts of everyday neoliberal life and also on the conduct of state and corporate

Dry Ehsan Masood, Daniel Schaffer, 2006 Water is in the air we breathe and beneath the ground we walk on The very substance of life it makes up as much as 60 percent of the human body And yet for one billion people there is such a thing as life without water These are the people we meet in Dry those who live in the dry lands of Africa Asia the Pacific and the Americas eking out an existence at once remarkable and mundane between craggy mountains near oases or close to well springs surrounded by cracked earth or shifting sands From the ingenuity of the highland people of Chile's Atacama desert who use giant nets to capture water from clouds of fog to the ancient wisdom that protects the grazing lands of Kenya's Masai this beautifully illustrated book tells the diverse stories about people in very hot very cold or very high places who spend their lives collecting chasing piping and trapping the water that life requires all the while taking great care that no form of life plant or animal benefits at the expense of another In a world of finite resources where the struggle for shrinking sources of water intensifies daily these stories collected over three years by photographers writers and scientists from four continents are a source of hope and wonder This book contains a wealth of information and images designed to further awareness of the vast array of life that is carried on precariously yet proudly on the earth s driest lands
