Reclaiming Brownfields Richard C. Hula, 2016-03-23 The environmental legacy of past industrial and agricultural development can simultaneously pose serious threats to human health and impede reuse of contaminated land The urban landscape around the world is littered with sites contaminated with a variety of toxins produced by past use Both public and private sector actors are often reluctant to make significant investments in properties that simultaneously pose significant potential human health issues and may demand complex and very expensive cleanups The chapters in this volume recognize that land and water contamination are now almost universally acknowledged to be key social economic and political issues How multiple societies have attempted to craft and implement public policy to deal with these issues provides the central focus of the book The volume is unique in that it provides a global comparative perspective on brownfield policy and examples of its use in a variety of countries

Community, Culture, and Economic Development, Second Edition Meredith Ramsay, 2013-12-01 Newly updated comparative study of economic development policy and its relationship with local power structures and cultural and social relations in two Maryland towns Community economic development is conventionally explained using one of two models a market model that assumes individuals always attempt to maximize their wealth or a growth model that assumes land use is controlled by real estate developers who invariably pursue outside investment as a way of increasing land values and creating jobs and opportunities In the first edition of Community Culture and Economic Development Meredith Ramsay's close study of two small towns on Maryland's Lower Shore demonstrated that neither model can explain why these communities alike in so many ways responded so differently to economic decline or why archaic hierarchies of race class and gender remain deeply embedded and poverty seems nearly intractable Ramsay showed how the lack of economic progress in Somerset Maryland's poorest county can best be explained by factoring history culture and social relations into the investigator's research In this second edition she discusses changes that have taken place in the county since the early 1990s including the dramatic legal victory of the Somerset Six and the Maryland ACLU which ultimately paved the way for the election of an African American to a top county position for the first time in history Praise for the First Edition This is a fascinating and sophisticated account of rural politics that is much more than anecdotal The book is unique in applying theories developed in the study of urban policy market growth machine regime to the politics of rural places The analysis rings true it is both theoretically interesting and factually revealing It may be the best account of small town politics since

Coleman,Diana Brydon,2009-01-01 Both as a concept and a set of social relationships community is central to contemporary debates about globalization Faced with finding a livable response to globalization many communities are renegotiating their identities and functions and in some instances entirely new communities are being formed Yet there is no clear consensus on why community matters or on how globalization affects particular communities Renegotiating Community asks what happens to the autonomy of individuals and communities under the influence of globalization Original case studies show how a range of communities are renegotiating the meanings of community and autonomy while living with and sometimes challenging the processes of globalization By addressing the coercive and comforting dimensions of community as well as the need to reconcile conflicting claims to autonomy this book redraws the conceptual maps through which community globalization and autonomy are understood Books in Series ,1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts Series Authors and Titles Bibliographic Guide to Black Studies Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture,1997 Books in Print ,1994 The Politics, Sociology and Economics of Education Russell F.
