The Ecosocial Transition of Societies Aila-Leena Matthies,Kati Närhi,2016-10-04 This groundbreaking book both explains and expands the growing debate on ecological environmental social work at the global level In order to achieve this the book strengthens the environmental paradigm in social work and social policy by undertaking further research on theoretical and conceptual clarification as well as distinct reflections on its practical directions Divided into five parts concepts the impact of environmental crises sustainable communities and lifestyles food politics and the profession in transition this work s main objective is to place ecological social work as a part of the more comprehensive and interdisciplinary eco social transition of societies towards sustainability balancing economic and social development with the limited resources of the natural environment By focussing on these five core concepts it shows how social work and social policy contribute to this transition through having a research based approach and orientation on solutions rather than problem analysis The book will be of interest to scholars from a broad range of disciplines including those in social work and social policy sustainability economics agriculture and environmental studies

Connecting Spirituality and Social Justice Michael Sheridan,2016-04-08 Jim Wallis well known justice advocate and author has stated that the two great hungers in the world today are for spirituality and social justice Although social work and related fields have increasingly recognized the importance of addressing spirituality within clinical practice less attention has been paid to the role of spirituality in promoting social justice or supporting social change within macropractice The contributions in this edited collection highlight current developments in this area including emerging conceptual frameworks practice applications and research findings Theoretical approaches to understanding the link between spirituality and justice are explored in analyses of alternative models of social justice and justice orientations of major faith traditions The critical role of spirituality in larger system change is illustrated through exemplars of research on vulnerable populations community practice legislative advocacy development of social movements and ecological social work The importance of including content on religion and spirituality in professional curricula is explored through research on students attitudes toward spirituality and social advocacy Noting the resonating themes within all of these contributions the volume concludes with an overview of emerging principles for spiritual activism This book aims to stimulate further development in the vital connection between spirituality and social justice It was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Religion Spirituality in Social Work

Environmental Social Work Mel Gray, John Coates, Tiani Hetherington, 2012-11-12 Social work has been late to engage with the environmental movement Often working with an exclusively social understanding of environment much of the social work profession has overlooked the importance of environmental issues However recently the impact of and worldwide attention to climate change a string of natural disasters and increased understanding of issues around environmental justice has put the environment sustainability and well being in the spotlight Divided into three parts this field defining work explores what environmental social work is and how it can be put into practice The first section focuses on theory discussing ecological and social justice as well as sustainability spirituality and human rights The second section comprises case studies of evolving environmental social work practice The case studies derive from a range of areas from urban gardens and community organizing to practice with those affected by climate change The final section relevant to students and lecturers looks at learning about environmental issues in social work Environmental Social Work provides an integrated theoretical and practical overview of why and how social work might respond to environmental factors affecting the societies and people they work with at international national local and individual levels

Africa-centred Knowledges Brenda Cooper, Robert Morrell, 2014 Knowledge production is a highly political and politicized practice This book questions the way in which knowledge of and about Africa is produced and how this influences development policy and practice Rebutting both Euro and Afrocentric production of knowledge this collection proposes a multiple global and dynamic Africa centredness in which scholars use whatever concepts and research tools are most appropriate to the different African contexts in which they work In the first part of the book key conceptual themes are raised and the epistemological foundations are laid through questions of gender literature and popular music Contributors in the second part apply and test these tools and concepts examining the pressures on doctoral students in a South African university the crisis in knowledge about declining marine fish populations perplexities around why certain ICT provisions fail or how some Zimbabwean students despite being beset by poverty succeed The light thrown on the mechanics of how knowledge comes into being and in whose interests illuminates one of the key issues in African Studies Brenda Cooper is an Honorary Research Associate at the University of Manchester She was for many years the Director of the Centre for African Studies and a Professor in the English department at the University of Cape Town where she is now Emeritus Professor Robert Morrell is Coordinator of the Programme for the Enhancement of Research Capacity at the University of Cape Town

Environmental Change and Sustainable Social Development Sven Hesse, 2016-05-06 How does climate change affect social work and social development What actions are needed to integrate the three pillars of economic development environmental development and social protection With global warming and the increase in natural disasters due to the emission of greenhouse gases an alternative approach to the natural environment is vital The main focus of this volume is to emphasize the person in environment concept and to find measures for its implementation For social work the environment has traditionally been viewed as a world of human relationships as opposed to the interaction between man and environment This informative and incisively written edited collection brings together experts from around the world to analyze the person in environment concept and to find measures for its implementation Through the presentation of theoretical and practical platforms for environmental social work or green social work we hope to bring about a new paradigmatic shift in our attitude to the concept of person in environment

Urban Youth and Photovoice Melvin Delgado, 2015-02-11 The past decade brought forth a wave of excitement and promise for researchers and practitioners interested in community practice as an approach based on social justice principles and an embrace of community participatory actions But effective community practice is predicated on the availability and use of assessment methods that not only capture and report on conditions but also simultaneously set the stage for social change efforts This research therefore serves the dual purpose of generating knowledge and also being an integral part of social intervention Research done in this way however requires new tools Photovoice is one such tool a form of visual ethnography that invites participants to represent their community or point of view through photographs accompanied by narratives to be shared with each other and with a broader community Urban Youth and Photovoice focuses on the use of this method within urban settings and among adolescents and young adults a group that is almost naturally drawn to the use of photography especially digital and particularly in today's era of texting facebook and instagram to showcase photovoice as an important qualitative research method for social workers and others in the social sciences and providing readers with detailed theoretical and practical account of how to plan implement and evaluate the results of a photovoice project focused on urban youth
