Community Based Adaptation To Climate Change Scaling It Up:

Community-Based Adaptation to Climate Change E. Lisa F. Schipper, Jessica Ayers, Hannah Reid, Saleemul Huq, Atiq Rahman, 2014-01-21 As climate change adaptation rises up the international policy agenda matched by increasing funds and frameworks for action there are mounting questions over how to ensure the needs of vulnerable people on the ground are met Community based adaptation CBA is one growing proposal that argues for tailored support at the local level to enable vulnerable people to identify and implement appropriate community based responses to climate change themselves Community Based Adaptation to Climate Change Scaling it up explores the challenges for meeting the scale of the adaptation challenge through CBA It asks the fundamental questions How can we draw replicable lessons to move from place based projects towards more programmatic adaptation planning How does CBA fit with larger scale adaptation policy and programmes How are CBA interventions situated within the institutions that enable or undermine adaptive capacity Combining the research and experience of prominent adaptation and development theorists and practitioners this book presents cutting edge knowledge that moves the debate on CBA forward towards effective appropriate and scaled up adaptive action

Community-based adaptation Hannah Reid, 2017-10-02 Community based adaptation CBA to climate change is based on local priorities needs knowledge and capacities Early CBA initiatives were generally implemented by non government organisations NGOs and operated primarily at the local level Many used bottom up participatory processes to identify the climate change problem and appropriate responses Small localised stand alone

initiatives are insufficient to address the scale of challenges climate change will bring however The causes of vulnerability such as market or service access or good governance also often operate beyond the project level Larger organisations and national governments have therefore started to implement broader CBA programmes which provide opportunities to scale up responses and integrate CBA into higher levels of policy and planning This book shows that it is possible for CBA to remain centred on local priorities but not necessarily limited to work implemented at the local level Some chapters address the issue of mainstreaming CBA into government policy and planning processes or into city or sectoral level plans e g on agriculture Others look at how gender and children s issues should be mainstreamed into adaptation planning itself and others describe how tools can be applied and finance delivered for effective mainstreaming This book was published as a special issue of Climate and Development Monitoring and Evaluation of Climate Change Adaptation: A Review of the Landscape Dennis Bours, Colleen McGinn, Patrick Pringle, 2015-09-17 Monitoring and evaluation M E of climate change adaptation CCA poses an assortment of thorny methodological challenges Individually none are unique to CCA but together they represent a very distinctive conundrum facing practitioners and policy makers Adding to this complexity further climate change may be global in nature but its impacts and how we respond to them through adaptation efforts cut across scales sectors and levels of intervention As investments in climate adaptation increase organizations are seeking to measure assess and understand an array of adaptation initiatives and derive learnings to inform policy and praxis This issue presents findings from many of the most important contemporary CCA program evaluation research initiatives The chapters represent the most coherent and current collection of CCA M E research in this emerging and important field written by many of its leading experts Filled with examples and insights in formulating coherent responses to methodological challenges it will be of interest to M E scholars and practitioners globally This is the 147th issue in the New Directions for Evaluation series from Jossey Bass It is an official publication of the American Evaluation Association

COMMUNITY-BASED ADAPTATION TO CLIMATE CHANGE: SCALING IT UP (INTERLOAN 389116). , Climate Adaptation Futures Jean P. Palutikof, Sarah L. Boulter, Andrew J. Ash, Mark Stafford Smith, Martin Parry, Marie Waschka, Daniela Guitart, 2013-02-04 Adaptation is the poor cousin of the climate change challenge the glamour of international debate is around global mitigation agreements while the bottom up activities of adaptation carried out in community halls and local government offices are often overlooked Yet as international forums fail to deliver reductions in greenhouse gas emissions the world is realising that effective adaptation will be essential across all sectors to deal with the unavoidable impacts of climate change The need to understand how to adapt effectively and to develop appropriate adaptation options and actions is becoming increasingly urgent This book reports the current state of knowledge on climate change adaptation and seeks to expose and debate key issues in adaptation research and practice It is framed around a number of critical areas of adaptation theory and practice including Advances in adaptation thinking Enabling frameworks and policy for adaptation Engaging and communicating with practitioners Key challenges in adaptation and development Management of natural systems and agriculture under climate change Ensuring water security under a changing climate Urban infrastructure and livelihoods and The nexus between extremes disaster management and adaptation It includes contributions from many of the leading thinkers and practitioners in adaptation today The book is based on key contributions from the First International Conference on Climate Change Adaptation Climate Adaptation Futures held on the Gold Coast Australia in June 2010 That three day meeting of over 1000 researchers and practitioners in adaptation from 50 countries was the first of its kind Readership The book is essential reading for a wide range of individuals involved in climate change adaptation including Researchers Communication specialists Decision makers and policy makers e g government staff local council staff On ground adaptation practitioners e g aid agencies government workers NGOs Postgraduate and graduate students and Consultants

Resilience in the Anthropocene: Adapting to Climate Chaos Dave Hardwick, The Earth's climate is changing at an unprecedented rate largely due to human activities. The consequences are far reaching and deeply impactful posing significant challenges to societies and ecosystems globally. This book Resilience in the Anthropocene: Adapting to Climate Chaos explores the urgent need for adaptation strategies to mitigate the unavoidable impacts of this escalating climate crisis. While mitigation efforts aimed at reducing greenhouse gas emissions are crucial, adaptation strategies are equally essential to minimize the adverse effects already being experienced and those projected for the future. We delve into practical and innovative solutions for constructing resilient communities and infrastructure focusing on several key areas. Firstly, we examine urban resilience analyzing the vulnerabilities of urban infrastructure to climate change impacts such as extreme heat, flooding, and sea level rise. We explore innovative design principles, green infrastructure solutions, and improved emergency response systems for creating more resilient cities. Secondly, we address the critical issue of climate resilient agriculture and food security. The book analyzes the multifaceted impacts of climate change on agricultural systems and discusses innovative farming techniques, drought resistant crops, and sustainable water management practices for ensuring food security in a changing climate. Thirdly, we explore the role of innovative technologies in enhancing climate adaptation, including early warning systems, advanced materials for infrastructure, and renewable energy sources. These technologies offer significant potential for mitigating climate risks and improving resilience. Beyond technological solutions, this book emphasizes the significance of community resilience. We explore the importance of community engagement, participatory planning, and social support networks in building strong and adaptable communities capable of withstanding and recovering from climate related disasters. This book is designed to equip readers with the knowledge and tools to engage effectively in the critical challenge of building a more resilient future. It is a call to action encouraging collaboration, informing policy decisions, and fostering a global commitment to a sustainable and resilient world. The information presented here serves as a foundation for understanding the complexities of climate adaptation and empowers readers to contribute to the global effort of creating a more sustainable and resilient future for all.
