The Alternative Educator's Handbook Paul J. Pattavina, 2019-06-15 The Alternative Educator's Handbook by Dr Paul J. Pattavina is a comprehensive practical collection of strategies and researched practices to be implemented with students who present social, emotional, and behavioral challenges in school. It is a handbook intended to serve as a practical resource for teachers and staff who work with students whose progress in school is interrupted by social and emotional issues, kids who tend to either intentionally or unintentionally pluck your last nerve. It reviews student characteristics and intervention procedures as well as specific forms and procedures created or adapted over time and experience. The ideas in this book will serve as a guide for educators and mental health professionals who are responsible for these kinds of difficult students in whatever educational setting they might be placed: alternative schools or programs, private clinical or therapeutic schools, intensive behavior support classrooms, or flexible resource room classrooms in public schools. This is a book that should be read by special and regular education teachers, school social workers, counselors, clinicians, and school psychologists, paraprofessionals, and child care workers, principals and assistant principals, school superintendents and board of education members, juvenile probation officers, parents, and concerned community members, and college instructors who train special education teachers. The need for effective alternative programs for students with challenging emotional and behavior patterns continues to be a pressing issue for public schools nationwide. The concern has been exacerbated in the past several years by continued school shootings and violence, creating a grave sense of fear among students, parents, and staff by the actions of kids with guns and other weapons in school. Legislators and public officials have been called to take actions that will keep kids safer in school, focusing particularly on gun control, limiting access, and adding guards. And although such measures will be essential towards preventing some school violence, the kinds of programming and resources available for our public schools must also be closely examined. In effect, schools will need to find ways to identify and provide programming options for students who may be disgruntled, alienated, unconnected, impulsive, and who may be looking to be recognized, seek revenge, or put an end to bullying, perceived harassment, injustice, or a life of ignominy, kids who feel they have nothing left to lose. Readers will initially learn about important issues within our public schools that require school staff to be trained to manage a range of social and emotional issues that kids bring to school. In the next section, readers are provided snapshots of related background research about students' social, emotional, learning needs, and effective intervention practices, including PBIS, restorative practices, behavioral programming, social problem solving, and affective teaching. Finally, the book outlines a number of specific recommended practices for managing students' social and emotional learning needs. These practices are presented as a cognitive-behavioral model of programming that includes a range of specific competencies, all clustered into a teacher's 4 bags of tools: structure, climate, instruction, and discipline. Being an alternative educator is not viewed in this text as an official job title. Alternative educator in the context of this document includes anyone who is always searching for

Program Evaluation for U.S. Army Lifelong Learning Centers (LLCs) Anna T. Cianciolo, 2008 Lifelong Learning Centers LLCs comprise a suite of technologies that enable online posting of schoolhouse curricula and collaboration among distributed learners These technologies connect the field Army to Army schoolhouses simultaneously improving course currency and supporting training in the field The impact of lifelong learning on organizational excellence seems clear However it is unknown how LLCs promote readiness using educational technology and how LLC effectiveness should be measured The purpose of this research was to develop a comprehensive generalizable framework for conceptualizing the effectiveness of LLCs and for capturing the drivers of success The framework and associated metrics were used to conduct an evaluation of a pilot LLC located at Fort

Leavenworth This evaluation indicated the importance of taking a causal approach An assessment of outcomes alone would have indicated that the initiative had achieved its goals but would have obscured the fact that some of these goals teaching and learning effectiveness were achieved largely independently of the use of learning technologies The basis of the framework in theory makes it generalizable not only across current and future LLCs but also across other blended learning initiatives addressing a gap in the scholarly literature regarding the effectiveness assessment of educational technology

International Review of Research in Developmental Disabilities ,2019-10-23 International Review of Research in Developmental Disabilities Volume 57 in the series highlights new advances in the field with this new volume presenting interesting chapters written by an international board of authors who discuss Peer mentoring and the development of friendships between individuals with and without intellectual and developmental disabilities Health issues across adulthood in Down Syndrome a view from multiple databases Mindfulness interventions in developmental disabilities issues and possibilities Reading Interventions for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities a review Communication system identification for individuals with complex communication needs and much more Provides the authority and expertise of leading contributors from an international board of authors Presents the latest release in the International Review of Research in Developmental Disabilities series Asia and the Pacific Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition 2019 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,United Nations International Children Emergency Fund,World Food Program,World Health Organization,2019-12-11 Asia Pacific is home to well over half of all people worldwide who do not obtain sufficient dietary energy to maintain normal active healthy lives To achieve SDG 2 in the region more than 3 million people must escape hunger each month from now until December 2030 In most countries in the region the diets of more than half of all very young children aged 6 23 months fail to meet minimum standards of diversity leading to micronutrient deficiencies that affect child development and therefore the potential of future generations The high prevalence of stunting and wasting among children under five years of age is a result of these deficiencies Only four countries in the region are on track to meet the global target of a 40 percent reduction in the number of stunted children between 2012 and 2025 At the same time the prevalence of overweight and obesity is rising steadily among children and adults negatively affecting health and well being Addressing the resultant burden of diet related non communicable diseases places great strain on national healthcare budgets and also causes productivity losses Social protection is an important way of reducing inequality and mitigating the impacts of disasters and it is expanding in the region A special section of this report discusses how to develop social protection programmes that accelerate progress in eradicating hunger and malnutrition

Gauging the Value of Education for Disenfranchised Youth ,2017-11-26 Disengagement of youth from schooling is an issue of significant national and international concern and is a key driver of educational policy and reform that look to maximise school retention for the benefit of both students and the wider community In Australia Flexible Learning Options

FLOs have arisen as a response to the premature disengagement from schooling of a sizeable number of Australian youth. FLOs attend to the educational, social and well-being needs of young people experiencing complex life circumstances, yet empirical evidence of their value to date has been largely anecdotal. The significance of this book lies in its innovative approach to gauging the value of FLOs to young people themselves as well as the wider Australian community. Drawing on past research and new findings from a national investigation, the authors provide novel insight into the pressures pushing young people out of schools and the mechanisms at work in FLOs to re-engage them in education. The varied contributions of this book elucidate many of the measurable impacts of FLOs on the life trajectories of disenfranchised youth, including improved economic integration, mental and emotional wellbeing, and myriad other outcomes. The significance of this project lies in its exploration of how young people and staff understand the transformative nature of the FLO experience, with an analysis that brings to light the wider value of this type of educational intervention in terms of long-term community benefit.

Public Policy and Higher Education Nathan J. Daun-Barnett, Edward P. St. John, 2024-11-15. This third edition provides readers with the tools to examine how policies affect students' access and success in college. Rather than arguing for a single approach, the authors use research-based evidence and consider political and historical values and beliefs to examine how policymakers and higher education administrators can inform and influence change within systems of higher education. Raising new questions and examining recent developments, this fully updated edition is an invaluable resource for graduate students, administrators, policymakers, and researchers who seek to learn more about the crucial contexts underlying policy decisions and college access. This third edition includes updates across the board to reflect current policy contexts. Expanded historical frameworks allow readers to better understand the preparation, access, persistence, and the development of state education systems. New considerations of state and national political ideologies help to inform contemporary contexts. Finally, refreshed cases, including an additional case about Florida and updated cases for California, Minnesota, Indiana, and North Carolina, equip readers with new ways to analyze complex state policies and their impact on higher education. Special Features: Case Studies help readers to build their skills in analyzing how political values, beliefs, and traditions influence policy decisions and adaptations within state systems. Reflective Questions encourage readers to discuss state and campus contexts for policy decisions and to consider the strategies used in a state or institution. Approachable Explanations unpack complex public policies and financial strategies for readers who seek an understanding of public policy in higher education. Research-Based Recommendations explore how policymakers, higher education administrators, and faculty can work together to improve quality, diversity, and financial stewardship.
