Prabhakar, Joshua Ho, Walter Samuel Grono Bateman, 2006 The Asia Pacific region has emerged as the hub of global geo political geo economic and geo strategic significance in the post Cold War period The rise of China and the resurgence of India will be the hallmark for the next 50 years How this surge in power is accommodated by the incumbent powers like the United States and Japan and how the new regional powers like China and India manage the power politics that emerge will be the key determinants of regional stability This volume examines the national maritime doctrines as well as the nuclear weapons developments at sea of the four major powers in the Asia Pacific namely China India Japan and the United States to see if the evolving dynamic is a cooperative or a competitive one In particular the volume looks at the evolving paradigms of maritime transformation in strategy and technology the emergent new maritime doctrines and evolving force postures in the naval orders of battle the role and operations of nuclear navies in the Asia Pacific and the implications and impact of nuclear weapons ballistic missiles and sea based missile defence responses in the region Sample Chapter's Chapter 1 Cooperation or Competition in Maritime Asia Pacific 544 KB Chapter 3 Maritime Strategic Trends in the Asia Pacific Issues and Challenges 1 534 KB Contents Issues Trends and Paradigms in Maritime Asia Pacific National Maritime Doctrines and Capabilities Nuclear Weapons and Missile Defences The Maritime Dimension in the Asia Pacific Readership Policy makers academics research analysts and students interested in maritime security in the Asia Pacific region

Assessing the Asia-Pacific Rebalance David J. Berteau, Michael J. Green, Zack Cooper, 2014-12-22 This report seeks to clarify the stated objectives of the US rebalance strategy reviewing regional responses and assessing the status of the rebalance which is critical to reinforcing regional stability by strengthening US relationships presence and capabilities The authors evaluate both public statements and visible implementation of the rebalance strategy as viewed not only from Washington but from regional capitals as well Maritime Balance of Power in the Asia-Pacific Nanyang Technological University. Institute of Defence and Strategic Studies, 2005 The Evolving Maritime Power of Balance in the Asia-Pacific Lawrence W. Prabhakar, Joshua Ho, Walter Samuel Grono Bateman, 2006 The Asia-Pacific Rebalance Naval Postgraduate School, 2014-12-02 This book analyzes the development of the Asia Pacific rebalance and its possible effects on United States naval strategy over the next several decades The goal is to develop a better understanding of the Asian rebalance in order to improve future strategic choices governing the employment of the United States Navy in Asia It argues that the Asia Pacific rebalance and its effects continue to emphasize the importance of the U S

Navy due to the increasing importance of U S economic political and security interests regionally In conjunction with increasing regional threats from China and North Korea as well as non traditional threats such as climate change or terrorism the importance of U S naval presence and its interaction regionally will continue to be pivotal to future U S policy in the region To accomplish this analysis it is necessary to describe the development of modern U S naval strategy the historic involvement and role of the United States Navy in the Asia Pacific and what the Navy has done substantively to integrate with the new strategy and how current policy choices can affect future U S naval objectives Examining several different future scenarios and U S security policy goals in the Asia Pacific it will briefly look at costs and benefits of each situation with specific focus on the naval missions of conventional deterrence and the prevention of regional conflict as well as its impact on regional confidence building measures and the Navy s ability to assist in humanitarian disaster relief operations It concludes that the United States Navy can continue to adapt to the desired policy goals as set forth by the Asia Pacific rebalance It can achieve success through an increased prioritization of resources to the Asia Pacific increased political sustainability of U S naval forward presence in the region and to develop a new U S maritime strategy that reflects new geo strategic realities

Maritime Security Strategy in the Asia-Pacific Region Committee on Armed Services United State,2016-10-19 America s national interests in the Asia Pacific region are deep and enduring We seek to maintain a balance of power that fosters a peaceful expansion of free societies free trade free markets and free commons air sea space and cyber These are values that we share with increasing numbers of Asia s citizens For 7 decades administrations of both parties have worked with our friends and allies in the region to uphold this rules based order and to enlist new partners in this shared effort an effort that now extends to states like Indonesia and Vietnam No country has benefited more from a peaceful regional order in the Asia Pacific region than China Unfortunately we increasingly see a pattern of behavior from China that suggests that some of our highest hopes for our relationship are not materializing and that call into question for nations across the Pacific whether China s rise will in fact be peaceful

Asia-Pacific Rebalance 2025 Michael Green,Kathleen Hicks,Mark F. Cancian,2016-02-04 In 2015 Congress tasked the Department of Defense to commission an independent assessment of U S military strategy and force posture in the Asia Pacific as well as that of U S allies and partners over the next decade This CSIS study fulfills that congressional requirement The authors assess U S progress to date and recommend initiatives necessary to protect U S interests in the Pacific Command area of responsibility through 2025 Four lines of effort are highlighted 1 Washington needs to continue aligning Asia strategy within the U S government and with allies and partners 2 U S leaders should accelerate efforts to strengthen ally and partner capability capacity resilience and interoperability 3 the United States should sustain and expand U S military presence in the Asia Pacific region and 4 the United States should accelerate development of innovative capabilities and concepts for U S forces

The Changing Maritime Scene in Asia Geoffrey Till,2016-04-29 Is naval conflict in the Asia Pacific region becoming more likely On the face of it this seems likely nearly all countries in the region are rapidly modernising their navies and expanding their maritime capabilities at a time of increasingly rancorous disputes over sovereignty This is especially the case in the East and South China Seas with their supply of fish and largely untapped resources in oil and gas Across the region there is a growing recognition of the economic importance of the sea both for its resources and for the crucial shipping it facilitates But economic growth goes both ways developing increasing interdependence between the countries of the region Expanding trade is subject to serious threats from pirates drug smugglers and other forms of maritime crime and navies and coastguards are coming together to combat them Which will prevail the tendency to compete or the tendency to cooperate In reviewing the maritime policies of the major countries of the region this volume aims to answer this question Sea Power and the Asia-Pacific Geoffrey Till, Patrick Bratton, 2012-02-07 With particular focus on the Asia Pacific region this book examines the rise and fall of sea powers In the Asia Pacific region there has been significant expansion of sea based economies together with burgeoning naval power Many claim that these processes will transform the world's future economic and security relationships The book addresses the question of to what extent the notion of Asia rising is reflected by and dependent on its developing sea power A central theme is the Chinese challenge to long term Western maritime ascendancy and what might be the consequences of this In order to situate current and future developments this book includes chapters which analyse what sea power means and has meant as well as its role both historic and contemporary in the rise and fall of great powers This book will be of much interest to students of naval power Asian politics strategic studies war and conflict studies IR and security studies Maritime Security in the Indo-Pacific Mohan Malik, 2014-09-24 In the twenty first century the Indo Pacific which spans from the western Pacific Ocean to the western Indian Ocean along the eastern coast of Africa has emerged as a crucial geostrategic region for trade investment energy supplies cooperation and competition It presents complex maritime security challenges and interlocking economic interests that require the development of an overarching multilateral security framework This volume develops common approaches by focusing on geopolitical challenges transnational security concerns and multilateral institution building and cooperation The chapters written by a cross section of practitioners diplomats policymakers and scholars from the three major powers discussed United States China India explain the opportunities and risks in the Indo Pacific region and identify specific naval measures needed to enhance maritime security in the region Maritime Security in the Indo Pacific opens by introducing the Indo Pacific and outlining the roles of China India and the United States in various maritime issues in the region It then focuses on the security challenges presented by maritime disputes naval engagement legal issues sea lanes of communication energy transport humanitarian assistance and disaster relief as well as by nontraditional threats such as piracy terrorism and weapons proliferation It compares and contrasts the roles and perspectives of the key maritime powers analyzing the need for multilateral cooperation to overcome the traditional and nontraditional challenges and security dilemma This shows that in spite of their different interests capabilities and priorities Washington Beijing and New Delhi can and do engage in cooperation to deal with transnational security challenges Lastly the book describes how to promote maritime cooperation by establishing or strengthening multilateral mechanisms and measures that would reduce the prospects for conflict in the Indo Pacific region

The U.S Rebalance and the Asia-Pacific Region Centre for Public Policy Research, Centre for Strategic Studies, Given the strategic emergence of the Asia Pacific region there has been a significant rethinking on the need to develop and strengthen relationships within the region and also with the United States Therefore it becomes important to analyze how the regional powers will position themselves vis a vis the United States and how they would respond to the rebalancing initiative CPPR Centre for Strategic Studies provided a platform for prominent strategists think tank analysts leading experts and academicians to discuss debate and map the future US role in the Asia Pacific in its 2 day international conference on U S Rebalance and the Asia Pacific region

Maritime Challenges and Priorities in Asia Joshua Ho, Sam Bateman, 2013-02-15 Maritime issues are particularly important for Asian countries where there is a high reliance on shipping routes for international trade many difficult disputes over maritime boundaries and the prospect of increasing tensions where maritime power might play a significant role This book uses contributions by 17 experts to build a comprehensive survey of the maritime issues affecting Asia It discusses the issues overall goes on to examine the issues from the perspective of each of 14 key countries and concludes by assessing the prospects for resolving common problems in order to preserve good order at sea

Naval Modernisation in South-East Asia Geoffrey Till, Jane Chan, 2013-08-15 This edited volume analyses the naval arms race in South East Asia and reviews the content purposes and consequences of the naval policies and development of the main countries of the region The rise of naval capability in the countries of the Asia Pacific Region is increasingly recognised as a major indicator of the rise of Asia and its increasing importance in the world's political economic and strategic future Most coverage focusses solely on the navies of the big four the US China India and Japan however the region's other navies though much smaller are significant too Given the current focus on the South China Sea and the Obama administration's pivot to Asia naval development in South East Asia is of particular relevance This book first identifies the issues involved in defence acquisition in this area It then goes on to establish some templates of naval modernisation as a means of assessing the policies of individual countries in the region by looking at the naval policies of the big four Finally the general issue of naval modernisation in South East Asia is illustrated through a more detailed examination of some of the major issues common to all countries of the area These include the defence industrial perspective specific examinations of submarine and surface ship acquisition processes and a review of the balance to be struck between naval and coastguard forces in the area This book will be of much interest to students of naval power maritime security South East Asian politics strategic studies and IR in general
