According to author Mike Schmoker there is a yawning gap between the most well known essential practices and the reality of most classrooms This gap persists despite the hard often heroic work done by many teachers and administrators Schmoker believes that teachers and administrators may know what the best practices are but they aren't using them or reinforcing them consistently He asserts that our schools are protected by a buffer a protective barrier that prevents scrutiny of instruction by outsiders The buffer exists within the school as well Teachers often know only what is going on in their classrooms and they may be completely in the dark about what other teachers in the school are doing Even principals says Schmoker don't have a clear view of the daily practices of teaching and learning in their schools Schmoker suggests that we need to get beyond this buffer to confront the truth about what is happening in classrooms and to allow teachers to learn from each other and to be supervised properly He outlines a plan that focuses on the importance of consistent curriculum authentic literacy education and professional learning communities for teachers What will students get out of this new approach Learning for life Schmoker argues passionately that students become learners for life when they have more opportunities to engage in strategic reading writing with explicit guidance and argument and discussion Through strong teamwork true leadership and authentic learning schools and their students can reach new heights Results Now is a rally cry for educators to focus on what counts. If they do, Schmoker promises the entire school community can count on unprecedented achievements. Moving Learning Forward in Christian Schools Steven F. Butler, 2021-03-10. Are you ready to make changes in your Christian school? Moving Learning Forward in Christian Schools: A Practical Guide for a Mission Focused Curriculum challenges those involved in Christian schools to consider changes to better prepare students to enter adulthood and impact the world. Readers will gain insights into how current brain research about how the brain learns can be put into practice in classrooms. How Christian schools can be much more mission focused than they currently are. An excellent framework to shift Christian schools' instructional programs from skills and knowledge textbook based curriculum to focusing on understanding and transfer with improved curriculum instruction and assessment. A perfect platform for developing better integration of biblical concepts in all subject areas. How the six Facets of Understanding from Understanding by Design provide a vehicle to intentionally include the development of personal characteristics that are Bible based and often related to the school's mission. A wonderful guideline for helping Christian schools think systemically about changes needed and for developing a three to five year strategic plan for improving the instructional program. This is your opportunity to consider concrete and practical ideas for school improvement. Teacher Evaluation to Enhance Professional Practice Charlotte Danielson, Thomas L. McGreal, 2000-07-15. Identifies some of the problems with many teacher evaluation systems, presents a rationale for teacher evaluation, and describes a structural framework for designing an effective evaluation system for beginning and tenured teachers. ENC Focus, 2000. An Educator's Guide to Using Your 3 Eyes Megan R. Sweet Ed. D., 2018-11-17. Applying intellect, insight, and intuition to promote school wide transformation for educators through interpersonal reflection and hands on tools. This is no one size fits all approach to education that provides a formula or a practical how to guide. The truths found in this book are about applying research based best practices to the processes that lie outside of academia. Readers will find themselves getting out their pens and highlighters to write in the margins and apply personal reflection to the teachings. The three Is: intellect, insight, and intuition are tools for educators to find personal growth and development inside the structure of the school system so that they can promote school wide transformation. When educators stop fighting the system and instead look inward for the answers, they will begin to see the improved student achievement and involvement they crave. Readers will walk away with greater self awareness that will improve the classroom and educational landscape around them, improved self appreciation that will fuel empathy in the classroom and workplace, clarity about the origin and influence of their beliefs that will help them combat negative beliefs and take advantage of positive beliefs, and better decision making skills developed through a contemplative approach. The Learning Leader Douglas B. Reeves, 2020-08-31. We can't do that in our school district. I don't have time to add that to my curriculum. We're fighting against impossible odds with these students. Sound familiar? School improvement can often feel like a losing battle, but it doesn't have to be. In this fully revised and updated second edition of The Learning

Leader Douglas B Reeves helps leadership teams go beyond excuses to capitalize on their strengths reduce their weaknesses and reset their mindset and priorities to achieve unprecedented success A critical key is recognizing student achievement as more than just a set of test scores Reeves asserts that when leaders focus exclusively on results they fail to measure and understand the importance of their own actions He offers an alternative the Leadership for Learning Framework which helps leaders identify and distinguish among four different types of educators and provide more effective tailored support to Lucky educators who achieve high results but don't understand how their actions influence achievement Losing educators who achieve low results yet keep doing the same thing expecting different outcomes Learning educators who have not yet achieved the desired results but are working their way toward excellence Leading educators who achieve high results and understand how their actions influence their success Reeves stresses that effective leadership is neither a unitary skill nor a solitary activity The Learning Leader helps leaders reconceptualize their roles in the school improvement process and motivate themselves and their colleagues to keep working to better serve their students
