The Zen Impulse and the Psychoanalytic Encounter Paul C. Cooper, 2011-04-27 Although psychoanalysis and Zen Buddhism derive from theoretical and philosophical assumptions worlds apart both experientially based traditions share at their heart a desire for the understanding development and growth of the human experience Paul Cooper utilizes detailed clinical vignettes to contextualize the implications of Zen Buddhism in the therapeutic setting to demonstrate how its practices and beliefs inform relate to and enhance transformative psychoanalytic practice The basic concepts of Zen such as the identity of the relative and the absolute and the foundational principles of emptiness and dependent arising are given special attention as they relate to the psychoanalytic concepts of the unconscious and its processes transference and countertransference formulations of self and more In addition through an analysis of apophysis a unique style of discourse that serves as a basic structure for mystical languages he provides insight into the structure of the seemingly irrational Zen koan in order to demonstrate its function as a pedagogical and psychological tool Though mindful of their differences Cooper s intent throughout is to illustrate how the practices of both Zen and psychoanalysis become internalized by the individual who engages in them and can in turn inform one another in mutually beneficial ways in an effort to comprehend the ramifications of an individual or collective expanding vision

Indian Ethos and Western Encounter in Raja Rao's Fiction Dr. Madhulika Singh, 2023-01-29 This book considers the novels and short stories of Raja Rao in terms of the diasporic life of the author Among the earliest of the second wave Indian diaspora in the west Raja Rao employs this unique perspective in most of his works This is the hallmark of his writing However we also discuss the varied human and spiritual aspects of his work as reflecting his own life His experiences as an Indian in a western world But Raja Rao's writing also counts as postcolonial and postmodern far ahead of any others here or there The Literary World, 1882

Ape to Apollo David Bindman, 2002-09-01 Race was essentially a construction of the 18th century a means by which the Enlightenment could impose rational order on human variety In this book the art historian David Bindman argues that ideas of beauty were from the beginning inseparable from race as Europeans judged the civility and aesthetic capacity of other races by their appearance These judgements were combined with a conflict between those who wished to order humanity into separate races and those who believed in a common humanity whose differences were due to climatic and geographical variations Central to this debate was the work of Linnaeus and Buffon but it was also driven by the writings of the German art historian J J Winckelmann who argued for the supremacy of the ancient Greeks the Swiss physiognomist J C Lavater who believed that moral character could be deduced from the study of a person's face and by two scientists the father and son Reinhold and Georg Forster who had been on Captain Cook's second voyage to the South Seas in 1772-5 During this time the philosopher Immanuel Kant attempted the first modern definition of race a definition which was challenged by Georg Forster and the philosopher J G von Herder sparking a lively but astonishingly little known controversy that went on through the next decade and beyond The 1770s also saw the beginnings of a more scientific yet also profoundly aesthetic approach to race in the work of Johann Friedrich Blumenbach and Pieter Camper whose notorious classification of skulls was despite their own liberalism to become the basis of 19th century racial science Ape to Apollo provides a refreshing and original view of a highly contentious subject It will be essential reading for anyone seeking the origins of today's controversies over race and ideas of beauty Gospel Herald, 1928
