An Introduction to Marine Life Robin Wilson, Mark Douglas Norman, Anna Syme, 2007 Is that white growth a coral Is it an animal or a plant What is the difference between a shrimp and a prawn These and many other common questions reveal our lack of familiarity with the seas For many

their first experience of marine environments is amazement at the bewildering variety of life in the oceans Sea anemones and corals sea stars and sea urchins octopuses and squids are just a few marine creatures that we never encounter on land or in fresh water Many other creatures are even less familiar and it is often difficult for those interested in marine life to learn more about them The examples selected here focus on Victoria and on southern Australia The emphasis is on animals and plants that are commonly seen by divers snorkellers beachcombers and by anyone with an interest in marine life

Hyman, 1953 The Polyclad Flatworms of the Pacific Coast of North America Libbie Henrietta Hyman, 1953 Biodiversity of Intertidal Marine Flatworms (Polycladida, Platyhelminthes) in Southeastern Australia Jorge Rodríguez Monter, Pat A. Hutchings, Jane Eden Williamson, 2021 Abstract Flatworms of the Order Polycladida are a group of free living invertebrates found in a diversity of marine habitats with over 800 species described worldwide Marine flatworms are a conspicuous component of Australia's marine fauna yet have received little attention Less than 30 scientific articles have been published on Australian marine flatworms since 1855 of which only nine include species from southeastern Australia Here the biodiversity and distribution of species belonging to the Order Polycladida inhabiting intertidal rocky beaches in southeastern Australian waters were identified and analysed. Sampling was conducted at low tide along the coasts of New South Wales and Victoria. Collected samples were serially sectioned for comparative anatomical studies and tissue was removed from each individual for molecular sequencing and analyses. Both nuclear and mitochondrial DNA sequences were obtained and used as an additional source of evidence for the description of new species as well as providing further insight into the phylogenetic relationships between them. A total of 20 species, six of which are new, e.g. Eulatocestus australis sp. nov. and a new genus Parabolia gen. nov. have been described, as well as two new records for Australia, e.g. Stylochoplana clara Kato, 1937, have been identified, increasing our knowledge of this important component of the Australian marine biota.

Keywords: flatworm, polyclad, taxonomy, systematics, cryptic invertebrate predator.
