Facilitating Resilience And Recovery Following Trauma:

Facilitating Resilience and Recovery Following Trauma Lori A. Zoellner, Norah C. Feeny, 2013-12-30 This volume synthesizes cutting edge research on natural processes of resilience and recovery highlighting implications for trauma treatment and prevention Prominent experts examine what enables many trauma survivors to heal over time without intervention as well what causes others to develop long term psychiatric problems Identifying key modifiable risk and resilience factors such as cognitions and beliefs avoidance pain and social support the book provides recommendations for when and when not to intervene to promote recovery Illustrative case examples are included A section on specific populations discusses children military personnel and low socioeconomic status or marginalized communities

Trauma-sensitivity and Peacebuilding Lydia Wanjia Gitau, 2017-08-18 This book identifies a gap in peacebuilding theory and practice in terms of sensitivity to trauma and its impact on the survivors of war and other mass violence The research focuses on the traumatic experiences and perceptions of peace of South Sudanese refugees in Kakuma Refugee Camp in Northwestern Kenya It further explores the possibilities for peacebuilding identified in these perceptions A lack of sensitivity to the trauma experienced by the survivors of conflict and mass violence leads to interventions that are at best removed from and at worst detrimental to the welfare of the survivors Interventions that take into consideration the complex and multifaceted ways in which the survivors experience and respond to the traumatic events encourage capacities for resilience in the survivors engage the creative arts in peacebuilding and emphasise the centrality of community and relationships are seen to assist the survivors in recovery from trauma and to facilitate peacebuilding Diverse anecdotes and real life stories from the research participants The journey as a recurring motif throughout the book weaved in a clear easy to read style of writing

Biblical and Theological Visions of Resilience Christopher C. H. Cook, Nathan H. White, 2019-12-06 In recent years resilience has become a near ubiquitous cultural phenomenon whose influence extends into many fields of academic enquiry Though research suggests that religion and spirituality are significant factors in engendering resilient adaptation comparatively little biblical and theological reflection has gone into understanding this construct This book seeks to remedy this deficiency through a breadth of reflection upon human resilience from canonical biblical and Christian theological sources Divided into three parts biblical scholars and theologians provide critical accounts of these perspectives integrating biblical and theological insight with current social scientific understandings of resilience Part 1 presents a range of biblical visions of resilience Part 2 considers a variety of theological perspectives on resilience drawing from figures including Thomas Aquinas Martin Luther and Dietrich Bonhoeffer Part 3 explores the clinical and pastoral applications of such expressions of resilience This diverse yet cohesive book sets out a new and challenging perspective of how human resilience might be re envisioned from a Christian perspective As a result it will be of interest to scholars of practical and pastoral theology biblical studies and religion spirituality and health It will also be a valuable resource for chaplains pastors and
