Roman Domestic Medical Practice in Central Italy Jane Draycott, 2019-03-27 Roman Domestic Medical Practice in Central Italy examines the roles that the home the garden and the members of the household freeborn freed and slave played in the acquisition and maintenance of good physical and mental health and well being Focussing on the period from the middle Republic to the early Empire it considers how comprehensive the ancient Roman general understanding of health actually was and studies how knowledge regarding various aspects of health was transmitted within the household Using literary documentary archaeological and bioarchaeological evidence from a variety of contexts this is the first extended volume to provide as comprehensive and detailed a reconstruction of this aspect of ancient Roman private life as possible complementing existing works on ancient professional medical practice and existing works on domestic medical practice in later historical periods This volume offers an indispensable resource to social historians particularly those that focus on the ancient family and medical historians particularly those that focus on the ancient world

Bioarchaeology of Impairment and Disability Jennifer F. Byrnes, Jennifer L. Muller, 2017-06-28 Over the years impairment has been discussed in bioarchaeology with some scholars providing carefully contextualized explanations for their causes and consequences Such investigations typically take a case study approach and focus on the functional aspects of impairments However these interpretations are disconnected from disability theory discourse Other social sciences and the humanities have far surpassed most of anthropology with the exception of medical anthropology in their integration of social theories of disability This volume has three goals The first goal of this edited volume is to present theoretical and methodological discussions on impairment and disability The second goal of this volume is to emphasize the necessity of interdisciplinarity in discussions of impairment and disability within bioarchaeology The third goal of the volume is to present various methodological approaches to quantifying impairment in skeletonized and mummified remains This volume serves to engage scholars from many disciplines in our exploration of disability in the past with particular emphasis on the bioarchaeological context The Power of Nature Monica L. Smith, 2023-03-21 In The Power of Nature archaeologists address the force and impact of nature relative to human knowledge action and volition Case studies from around the world focusing on different levels of sociopolitical complexity ranging from early agricultural societies to states and empires address the ways in which nature retains the upper hand in human agentive environmental discourse providing an opportunity for an insightful perspective on the current anthropological emphasis on how humans affect the environment Climatic events pathogens and animals as nonhuman agents ranging in size from viruses to mega storms have presented our species with dynamic conditions that overwhelm human capacities In some cases people have modified architecture to deal with a constant onslaught of storms as in Japan or the Caribbean in other cases they have welcomed the occasional natural disaster as a chance to start fresh or to put into place new ideas and practices as in the case of ancient Roman cities Using the concept of agency as one in which multiple sentient and nonhuman actors interact in a landscape and exploring locations such as the Caribbean the Pacific South Asia the Andes the Mediterranean Mesoamerica North America and the Arctic the authors provide compelling explanations of the effect of an entire realm of natural powers that beset human societies past and present from storms earthquakes and fires to vegetation domestic animals and wild birds Throughout the emphasis is on the philosophical and engineering adjustments that people make to stay resilient when facing the perpetual changes of the natural world Using an archaeological perspective The Power of Nature illustrates and analyzes the many ways that people do not control their environments It will be of interest to archaeologists as well as scholars in science biology botany forestry urban studies and disaster management Contributors Steven Ammerman Traci Ardren Katelyn J Bishop Karen Mohr Chvez Sergio Chvez Stanislava Chvez Emelie Cobb Jago Cooper Harper Dine Chelsea Fisher Jennifer Huebert Dale L Hutchinson Sara L Juengst Kanika Kalra Fran ois Oliva Matthew C Peros Jordan Pickett Seth Quintus John Robb Monica L Smith Jillian A Swift Silvia Tomkov Kyungsoo Yoo

Routledge Handbook of the Archaeology of Indigenous-Colonial Interaction in the Americas Lee M. Panich, Sara L. Gonzalez, 2021-07-19 The Routledge Handbook of the Archaeology of Indigenous Colonial Interaction in the Americas brings together scholars from across the hemisphere to examine how archaeology can highlight the myriad ways that Indigenous people have negotiated colonial systems from the fifteenth century through to today The contributions offer a comprehensive look at where the archaeology of colonialism has been and where it is heading Geographically diverse case studies highlight longstanding theoretical and methodological issues as well as emerging topics in the field The organization of chapters by key issues and topics rather than by geography fosters exploration of the commonalities and contrasts between historical contingencies and scholarly interpretations Throughout the volume Indigenous and non Indigenous contributors grapple with the continued colonial nature of archaeology and highlight Native perspectives on the potential of using archaeology to remember and tell colonial histories This volume is the ideal starting point for students interested in how archaeology can illuminate Indigenous agency in colonial settings Professionals including academic and cultural resource management archaeologists will find it a convenient reference for a range of topics related to the archaeology of colonialism in the Americas

Prosthetics and Assistive Technology in Ancient Greece and Rome Jane Draycott, 2022-12-22 This is the first comprehensive study of prosthetics and assistive technology in classical antiquity integrating literary documentary archaeological and bioarchaeological evidence to provide as full a picture as possible of their importance for the lived experience of people with disabilities in classical antiquity The volume is not only a work of disability history but also one of medical scientific and technological history and so will be of interest to members of multiple academic disciplines across multiple historical periods The chapters cover extremity prostheses facial prostheses prosthetic hair the design commission and manufacture of prostheses and assistive technology and the role of care givers in the lives of ancient people with impairments and disabilities Lavishly illustrated the study further contains informative tables that collate the aforementioned different types of evidence in an easily accessible way

Bioarchaeology of Care through Population-Level Analyses Alecia Schrenk, Lori A. Tremblay, 2022-04-12 New methods for understanding healthcare in past societies Provides unique and useful models that demonstrate how inferences can be made about communities of care in samples ranging in size from several dozen to several thousand Authors weave together diverse lines of evidence osteological archaeological ethnographic clinical in their historical and cultural contexts Sophisticated analytical tools and theoretical frameworks position this book at the cutting edge of bioarchaeological research and illustrate the cultural relativity of care caregiving and healthcare in the past and present and in Western and non Western contexts Alexis Boutin coeditor of Remembering the Dead in the Ancient Near East Recent Contributions from Bioarchaeology and Mortuary Archaeology Representing current and emerging methods and theory this volume introduces new avenues for exploring how prehistoric and historic communities provided health care for their sick injured and disabled members It adjusts and expands the bioarchaeology of care framework a way of analyzing caregiving in the past designed for individual case studies of human skeletal remains to detect and examine care at the population level Covering a range of time from the Archaic period to the present contributors discuss community settings including British hospitals and nursing homes a shell burial mound site in Alabama and the Mississippi State Asylum These essays offer insights into the care given to children and those with reduced mobility the social burden of health care practices of euthanasia and the relationship between care for the mentally ill and structural violence A necessary extension to our understanding of the complexities of caregiving in the past Bioarchaeology of Care through Population Level Analyses shows that it is important to recognize the impact of disease or disability on both the individuals affected and their broader communities Contributors demonstrate that flexibility in bioarchaeological modeling and methodology can result in robust and nuanced scholarship on caregiving in the past and the societies that provided that care A volume in the series Bioarchaeological Interpretations of the Human Past Local Regional and Global Perspectives edited by Clark Spencer Larsen Contributors Petra Banks Anna Marie C Casserly Briana R Moore Anna
