The Politics of Multiracialism Heather M. Dalmage, 2012-02-01

This is the first book to critically look at the political issues and interests surrounding the broadly defined Multiracial Movement and at what is being said about multiracialism. Many of the multiracial family organizations that exist across the United States developed socially ideologically and politically during the conservative Reagan years. While members of the Multiracial Movement differ widely in their political views, the concept of multiracialism has been taken up by conservative politicians in ways that are often inimical to the interests of traditionally defined minorities. Contributors look at the Multiracial Movement's voice and at the political controversies that attend the notion of multiracialism in academic and popular literature, internet discourse, census debates, and discourse by and about pop culture celebrities. The work discusses how multiracialism, hybridity, and racial mixing have occurred amidst existing academic discussions of authenticity, community borders, identity politics, the social construction of race, and postmodern fragmentation. How the Multiracial Movement is shaping and transforming collective multiracial identities is also explored.

Race Mixing Suzanne W.

Jones, 2006-02-15. In the southern United States, there remains a deep need among both black and white writers to examine the topic of race relations, whether they grew up during segregation or belong to the younger generation that graduated from integrated schools. In Race Mixing, Suzanne Jones offers insightful and provocative readings of contemporary novels, the work of a wide range of writers, black and white, established and emerging. Their stories explore the possibilities of cross-racial friendships, examine the repressed history of interracial love, reimagine the Civil Rights era through children's eyes, herald the reemergence of the racially mixed character, investigate acts of racial violence, and interrogate both rural and urban racial dynamics. Employing a dynamic model of the relationship between text and context, Jones shows how more than thirty relevant writers, including Madison Smartt Bell, Larry Brown, Bebe Moore Campbell, Thulani Davis, Ellen Douglas, Ernest Gaines, Josephine Humphreys, Randall Kenan, Reynolds Price, Alice Walker, and Tom Wolfe, illuminate the complexities of the color line and the problems in defining racial identity today. While an earlier generation of black and white southern writers challenged the mythic unity of southern communities in order to lay bare racial divisions, Jones finds in the novels of contemporary writers a challenge to the mythic sameness within racial communities and a broader definition of community and identity. Closely reading these stories about race in America, Race Mixing ultimately points to new ways of thinking about race relations. We need these fictions, Jones writes, to help us imagine our way out of the social structures and mind sets that mythologize the past, fragment individuals, prejudice people, and divide communities.

Navigating Interracial Borders

Erica Chito Childs, 2005-05-24. One of the best books written about interracial relationships to date, Childs offers a sophisticated and insightful analysis of the social and ideological context of black-white interracial relationships. Heather Dalmage, author of Tripping on the Color Line, a pioneering project that thoroughly analyzes interracial marriage in contemporary America Eduardo Bonilla Silva author of Racism without Racists Color Blind Racism and the Persistence of Racial Inequality in the United States Is love color blind or at least becoming increasingly so Today s popular rhetoric and evidence of more interracial couples than ever might suggest that it is But is it the idea of racially mixed relationships that we are growing to accept or is it the reality What is the actual experience of individuals in these partnerships as they navigate their way through public spheres and intermingle in small close knit communities In Navigating Interracial Borders Erica Chito Childs explores the social worlds of black white interracial couples and examines the ways that collective attitudes shape private relationships Drawing on personal accounts in depth interviews focus group responses and cultural analysis of media sources she provides compelling evidence that sizable opposition still exists toward black white unions Disapproval is merely being expressed in more subtle color blind terms Childs reveals that frequently the same individuals who attest in surveys that they approve of interracial dating will also list various reasons why they and their families wouldn t and couldn t marry someone of another race Even college students who are heralded as racially tolerant and open minded do not view interracial couples as acceptable when those partnerships move beyond the point of casual dating Popular films Internet images and pornography also continue to reinforce the idea that sexual relations between blacks and whites are deviant Well researched candidly written and enriched with personal narratives Navigating Interracial Borders offers important new insights into the still fraught racial hierarchies of contemporary society in the United States

Rothenberg, 2008 Studies of racism often focus on its devastating effects on the victims of prejudice But no discussion of race is complete without exploring the other side the ways in which some people or groups actually benefit deliberately or inadvertently from racial bias This is the subject of Paula Rothenberg s groundbreaking anthology White Privilege The new edition of White Privilege once again challenges readers to explore ideas for using the power and the concept of white privilege to help combat racism in their own lives and includes key essays and articles by Peggy McIntosh Richard Dyer bell hooks Robert Jensen Allan G Johnson and others Three additional essays add new levels of complexity to our understanding of the paradoxical nature of white privilege and the politics and economics that lie behind the social construction of whiteness making this edition an even better choice for educators Brief inexpensive and easily integrated with other texts this interdisciplinary collection of commonsense non rhetorical readings lets educators incorporate discussions of whiteness and white privilege into a variety of disciplines including sociology English composition psychology social work women s studies political science and American studies

Gender in Real Time Kath Weston, 2018-10-24 After decades of innovative scholarship that galvanized a field and shattered a world of preconceptions the study of gender now appears to languish It has been a long while since the publication of a provocative and influential text like Judith Butler's Gender Trouble Kath Weston argues that the problem is one of time For too long gender studies has been preoccupied with the visual with ample attention given to issues of performativity and embodiment all at the expense of time Gender in Real Time makes a provocative and important new argument that will revolutionize the field of gender studies Introducing temporality into the equation and examining the ways gender exists Weston uses the tools of political economy the history of mathematics Darwinian evolution and a bit of physics to propel gender studies toward the future Startling new concepts like zero gender and the meaning of time claims are introduced Moreover the impact of our time sensitive society with its ever increasing need for speed and accelerated development is explored for its effect on the production of gender With chapter titles including Unsexed The Ghosts of Gender Past and The Global Economy Next Time this book offers a pioneering addition to the field that will forever change our notion of gender A Promise and a Way of Life Becky W. Thompson,2001 Beginning with the diverse catalysts that started these activists on their journeys this book demonstrates the contributions and limitations of white antiracism in key social justice movements BOOK JACKET Mothering Without a Compass Becky W. Thompson,2000 The Myth of the Missing Black Father Roberta L. Coles,Charles St. Clair Green,2010 Common stereotypes portray black fathers as being largely absent from their families Yet while black fathers are less likely than white and Hispanic fathers to marry their child s mother many continue to parent through cohabitation and visitation providing caretaking financial and other in kind support This volume captures the meaning and practice of black fatherhood in its many manifestations exploring two parent families cohabitation single custodial fathering stepfathering noncustodial visitation and parenting by extended family members and friends Contributors examine ways that black men perceive and decipher their parenting responsibilities paying careful attention to psychosocial economic and political factors that affect the ability to parent Chapters compare the diversity of African American fatherhood with negative portrayals in politics academia and literature and through qualitative analysis and original profiles illustrate the struggle and intent of many black fathers to be responsible caregivers This collection also includes interviews with daughters of absent fathers and concludes with the effects of certain policy decisions on responsible parenting Affecting Irishness Padraig Kirwan,Michael O'Sullivan,2009 The writers in this text seek to reconcile the established critical perspectives of Irish studies with a forward looking critical momentum that incorporates the realities of globalisation and economic migration Troubling the Family Habiba Ibrahim,2012 Troubling the Family argues that the emergence of multiracialism during the 1990s was determined by underlying and unacknowledged gender norms Opening with a germinal moment for multiracialism the seemingly massive and instantaneous popular appearance of Tiger Woods in 1997 Habiba Ibrahim examines how the shifting status of racial hero for both black and multiracial communities makes sense only by means of an account of masculinity Ibrahim looks across historical events and memoirs beginning with the Loving v Virginia case in 1967 when miscegenation laws were struck down to reveal that gender was the starting point of an analytics that made categorical multiracialism and multiracial politics possible Producing a genealogy of multiracialism s gendered basis allows Ibrahim to focus on a range of stakeholders whose interests often ran against the grain of what the multiracial movement of the 1990s often privileged the sanctity of the heteronormative family the labor of child rearing and more precise forms of racial tabulation all of which when taken together could form the basis for creating so called neutral personhood Ibrahim concludes with a consideration of Barack Obama as a representation of the resurrection of the assurance that multiracialism extended into the 2000s a version of personhood with no memory of its own gendered legacy and with no self account of how it became so masculine that it can at once fill the position of political leader and the promise of the end of politics      Marcia Muller and the Female Private Eye
