Chapter 1

Chapter 1 of "The Maze Runner" introduces readers to the protagonist, Thomas, who wakes up in complete darkness, disoriented and unable to remember anything about himself or his past. As he regains consciousness, he discovers that he is in a small, metal box-like structure with no windows or doors. Panic sets in as he struggles to recall his identity and how he ended up in this bewildering situation.

Thomas's inner turmoil is palpable as he grapples with fear and confusion. He tries to remember his name but can only recall the sound of it, which frustrates him. This inability to recollect even the most basic details of his life adds to his anxiety.

The author vividly describes Thomas's sensory experience within the dark, cramped space. He feels the cold, hard floor beneath him and hears strange noises echoing outside. It's a sensory overload for Thomas, and he desperately wants to escape from the claustrophobic confines of the metal box.

Suddenly, the box begins to move, jolting Thomas as it ascends at an angle. He clings to the walls to avoid falling and wonders what awaits him at the top. As the box comes to a stop, a blinding light floods in, temporarily blinding him. This abrupt transition from darkness to blinding light intensifies the disorientation he feels.

Thomas finds himself in an open area surrounded by a group of boys who are roughly his age. These boys, who introduce themselves as Gladers, inform Thomas that he has arrived in the Glade—a large, enclosed space located in the center of a massive maze. The Glade is a self-sustained community where the boys live and work.

As Thomas attempts to process this bewildering information, he notices the towering stone walls of the maze that encircle the Glade. The walls are colossal and seemingly insurmountable, instilling a sense of foreboding and imprisonment. The boys explain that the maze is filled with deadly creatures called Grievers, and anyone caught outside the Glade at night risks being attacked.

Thomas is struck by the peculiar rules and routines of the Gladers. Each boy has a designated role, from Runners who explore the maze to Builders who construct and maintain the living quarters. The society they've built is

Boden,2008-06-19

The development of cognitive science is one of the most remarkable and fascinating intellectual achievements of the modern era The quest to understand the mind is as old as recorded human thought but the progress of modern science has offered new methods and techniques which have revolutionized this enquiry Oxford University Press now presents a masterful history of cognitive science told by one of its most eminent practitioners Cognitive science is the project of understanding the mind by modeling its workings Psychology is its heart but it draws together various adjoining fields of research including artificial intelligence neuroscientific study of the brain philosophical investigation of mind language logic and understanding computational work on logic and reasoning linguistic research on grammar semantics and communication and anthropological explorations of human similarities and differences Each discipline in its own way asks what the mind is what it does how it works how it developed how it is even possible The key distinguishing characteristic of cognitive science Boden suggests compared with older ways of thinking about the mind is the notion of understanding the mind as a kind of machine She traces the origins of cognitive science back to Descartes's revolutionary ideas and follows the story through the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries when the pioneers of psychology and computing appear Then she guides the reader

through the complex interlinked paths along which the study of the mind developed in the twentieth century Cognitive science in Boden's broad conception covers a wide range of aspects of mind not just cognition in the sense of knowledge or reasoning but emotion personality social communication and even action In each area of investigation Boden introduces the key ideas and the people who developed them No one else could tell this story as Boden can she has been an active participant in cognitive science since the 1960s and has known many of the key figures personally Her narrative is written in a lively swift moving style enriched by the personal touch of someone who knows the story at first hand Her history looks forward as well as back it is her conviction that cognitive science today and tomorrow cannot be properly understood without a historical perspective Mind as Machine will be a rich resource for anyone working on the mind in any academic discipline who wants to know how our understanding of our mental activities and capacities has developed
