Documentary, World History, and National Power in the PRC Gotelind Mueller, 2013-10-30 Documentaries have recently become a favourite format for Chinese state directed media to present an officially sanctioned view of history Indeed this is not confined to Chinese national history In stark contrast to the earlier self centred preoccupation with Chinese history there has been an upsurge in interest in foreign history with a view to illuminating China's role not only in world history but also on the global stage today and in the future This book examines three recent Chinese documentary television series which present the officially sanctioned view of the rise of the modern West the reasons for the end of the Soviet Union and the legitimisation of the present day Chinese government via a specific reading of modern Chinese history to argue for a Chinese rise in the future With a focus on these documentaries Gotelind Mueller discusses how history is presented on screen and explores the function of visual history for memory culture and wider society Further this book reveals how the presentation of Chinese and foreign history in a global framework impacts on the officially transmitted views on Self and Other and thus provides a keen insight into how the Chinese themselves regard their global rise Documentary World History and National Power in the PRC will be welcomed by students and scholars working across a number of fields including

Human Rights in China Eva Pils,2017-11-10 How can we make sense of human rights in China s authoritarian Party State system Eva Pils offers a nuanced account of this contentious area examining human rights as a set of social practices Drawing on a wide range of resources including years of interaction with Chinese human rights defenders Pils discusses what gives rise to systematic human rights violations what institutional avenues of protection are available and how social practices of human rights defence have evolved Three central areas are addressed liberty and integrity of the person freedom of thought and expression and inequality and socio economic rights Pils argues that the Party State system is inherently opposed to human rights principles in all these areas and that contributing to a global trend it is becoming more repressive Yet despite authoritarianism s lengthening shadows China s human rights movement has so far proved resourceful and resilient The trajectories discussed here will continue to shape the struggle for human rights in China and beyond its borders

Media Politics in China Maria Repnikova,2017-06-15 Who watches over the party state In this engaging analysis Maria Repnikova reveals the webs of an uneasy partnership between critical journalists and the state in China More than merely a passive mouthpiece or a dissident voice the media in China also plays a critical oversight role one more frequently associated with liberal democracies than with authoritarian systems Chinese central officials cautiously endorse media supervision as a feedback mechanism as journalists carve out space for critical reporting by positioning themselves as aiding the agenda of the central state Drawing on rare access in the field Media Politics in China examines the process of guarded improvisation that has defined this volatile partnership over the past decade on a routine basis and in the aftermath of major crisis events Combined with a comparative analysis of media politics in the Soviet Union and contemporary Russia the book highlights the distinctiveness of Chinese journalist state relations as well as the renewed pressures facing them in the Xi era Reporting for China Pál Nyíri,2017-04-11 While Western media are shrinking their foreign correspondent networks Chinese media for the first time in history are rapidly expanding worldwide The Chinese government is financing most of this growth hoping to strengthen its influence and improve its public image But do these reporters willingly serve formulated agendas or do they follow their own interests And are they changing Chinese citizens views of the world Based on interviews and informal
