Connected Histories Eva Pfanzelter, Dirk Rupnow, Éva Kovács, Marianne Windsperger, 2024-09-23 The World Wide Web WWW and digitisation have become important sites and tools for the history of the Holocaust and its commemoration Today some memory institutions use the Internet at a high professional level as a venue for self presentation and as a forum for the discussion of Holocaust related topics for potentially international transcultural and interdisciplinary user groups At the same time it is not always the established institutions that utilise the technical possibilities and potential of the Internet to the maximum Creative and sometimes controversial new forms of storytelling of the Holocaust or more traditional ways of remembering the genocide presented in a new way with digital media often come from people or groups who are not in the realm of influence of the large memorial sites museums and archives Such private stagings have experienced a particular upswing since the boom of social media This democratisation of Holocaust memory and history is crucial though it is as yet undecided how much it will ultimately reinforce old structures and cultural regional or other inequalities or reinvent them The Digital space as an arbitrary and limitless archive for the mediation of the Holocaust spanning from Russia to Brazil is at the centre of the essays collected in this volume This space is also considered as a forum for negotiation a meeting place and a battleground for generations and stories and as such offers the opportunity to reconsider the transgenerational transmission of trauma family histories and communication Here it becomes evident there are new societal intentions and decision making structures that exceed the capabilities of traditional mass media and thrive on the participation of a broad public

Harm to Others Brian Van Brunt, 2014-12-16 Harm to Others offers students and clinicians an effective way to increase their knowledge of and training in violence risk and threat assessment and it also provides a comprehensive examination of current treatment approaches Although the text includes many examples from K 12 and college university settings which are particularly relevant for mental health professionals in school settings the underlying concepts and suggestions are useful for counselors psychologists and social workers who face these issues in their daily practice In an easy to understand jargon free manner Dr Van Brunt shares his observations extensive clinical expertise and the latest research on what clinicians should be aware of when performing risk and threat assessments In addition he offers numerous examples from recent mass shootings and rampage violence to help explain the motivations and risk factors of those who make threats Two detailed case examples are presented to illustrate key concepts related to assessing dangerousness Treatment options are then described using a variety of diverse case studies to demonstrate concrete approaches for clients who have been identified as at risk for violence following a threat assessment Requests for digital versions from ACA can be found on www.wiley.com To purchase print copies please visit the ACA website Reproduction requests for material from books published by ACA should be directed to publications@counseling.org

Political Parties and Campaigning in Australia Glenn Kefford, 2021-02-15 Big data and microtargeting steal the headlines about campaigning But how important are they really to the way that political parties campaign This book provides a fine grained account of the campaign practices of three Australian political parties It explores how prevalent data driven campaigning is introduces an original theoretical framework to understand these practices and demonstrates that there is a disconnect between what Australian voters think about these issues and the way that parties campaign in the 21st century Drawing on 161 interviews participant observation and original survey data it shows that the reality of contemporary campaigning is often different to what we are led to believe

Beyond the Search Engine Liese Zahabi, 2024-12-24 Focusing on the user experience of online search this book explores the complex design at play and the ways social media platforms websites and other online interfaces have been created to provide information Author Liese Zahabi addresses three key questions How do users perceive search engines and what is their understanding of how they work What are the various user interface designs contemporary and historical that have created access points to search and how do these interfaces affect each other and a user's search process What do these designs and products say about our priorities and our relationships with information and other people This book weaves archival and contemporary examples of interface designs together with the results of user research conducted by the author These user studies focus on how people utilize various platforms apps and interfaces in their quest for information answers and meaning Current research from the fields of user experience design interaction design and information design is integrated throughout to expand on these ideas and provide larger takeaways This book is crucial reading for advanced students scholars and professionals in the fields of design specifically user experience and interaction design media and cultural studies information science and design studies
