Equus Men Rhodesias Infantry 1896 1980:

The Equus Men Alexandre Binda, 2015 This all new work by accomplished military historian Alexandre Binda former paymaster to the Grey s Scouts tables the remarkable story of Rhodesia s mounted infantry the Grey s Scouts Working closely with the last commanding officer squadron commanders and a whole host of regimental personalities all of whom have given The Equus Men their unequivocal support Binda has enjoyed unparalleled access to thousands of pages of archival documents and many hundreds of previously unpublished photographs Here he has traced the Grey s from their early origins in the Matabele Rebellion of 1896 where an unassuming Englishman the Honorable George Grey found himself originating a body of horseman named the Bulawayo Field Force through to the formation of the Animal Transport Unit ATU which went on to become the Mounted Infantry Unit MIU With the skill of a practiced narrator Binda takes the reader through these early days to the establishment of the Grey s Scouts in the Rhodesian Army order of battle in 1976 Deployed to great effect during the bitter Rhodesian Bush War of the late 1960s 1970s the mounted operations conducted by the Grey s are succinctly and clearly detailed Some of the contacts related make for astonishing reads and with the lively vibrant text one can almost feel the steaming sweat of rider and mount sense the pounding adrenaline hear the thundering hooves as a fearful enemy is pursued to battle s inevitable conclusion Suffice to say The Equus Men makes for an engaging read Trained and utilized as mounted infantry as opposed to cavalry the Grey s Scouts saw exceptional success in the field Lightly equipped they were able to cover great distances at speed live off the veldt with minimal support and through shock action quickly engage and destroy insurgent forces Originally a regular formation the Grey s Scouts were augmented by Territorial and National Service soldiers as the conflict progressed and by 1980 when hostilities ceased the Regiment numbered some 600 soldiers both men and women black and white With its informative text and rich profusion of photographs The Equus Men is a stunning tribute to the equestrian and fighting prowess of the Grey s Scouts It is a remarkable story and one that is ever more relevant given recent mounted and pack horse operations conducted by British and US special forces in Afghanistan

Black Soldiers in the Rhodesian Army M. T. Howard, 2024-02-08 During Zimbabwe s war of liberation 1965 80 fought between Zimbabwean nationalists and the minority white Rhodesian settler colonial regime thousands of black soldiers volunteered for and served in the Rhodesian Army This seeming paradox has often been noted by scholars and military researchers yet little has been heard from black Rhodesian veterans themselves Drawing from original interviews with black Rhodesian veterans and extensive archival research M T Howard tackles the question of why so many black soldiers fought steadfastly and effectively for the Rhodesian Army demonstrating that they felt loyalty to their comrades and regiments and not the Smith regime Howard also shows that units in which black soldiers served particularly the Rhodesian African Rifles were fundamental to the Rhodesian counter insurgency campaign Highlighting the pivotal role black Rhodesian veterans played during both the war and the tumultuous early years of independence this is a crucial contribution to the study of Zimbabwean decolonisation Fighting and Writing Luise White,2021-02-08 In Fighting and Writing Luise White brings the force of her historical insight to bear on the many war memoirs published by white soldiers who fought for Rhodesia during the 1964-1979 Zimbabwean liberation struggle. In the memoirs of white soldiers fighting to defend white minority rule in Africa long after other countries were independent, White finds a robust and contentious conversation about race difference and the war itself. These are writings by men who were ambivalent conscripts, generally aware of the futility of their fight, not brutal pawns flawlessly executing the orders and parroting the rhetoric of a racist regime. Moreover, most of these men insisted that the most important aspects of fighting a guerrilla war—tracking and hunting knowledge of the land and of the ways of African society—were learned from black playmates in idealized rural childhoods. In these memoirs, African guerrillas never lost their association with the wild, even as white soldiers boasted of bringing Africans into the intimate spaces of regiment and regime.

Fighting for Time Charles D. Melson,2021-02-05 This military study examines the evolution of the Rhodesian armed services during the complex conflicts of the Cold War era. Through the 1960s and 1970s, Africa endured a series of conflicts involving Rhodesia, South Africa, and Portugal in conflict with the Frontline States. The Cold War brought outside influences, including American interest, at the diplomatic, economic, and social level. In Fighting for Time, military historian Charles D. Melson sheds new light on this complex and consequential period through analysis of the Rhodesian military. Drawing on a wealth of primary sources, Melson examines the Rhodesian military's evolution into a special operations force conducting intelligence-driven operations. Along the way, he identifies key lessons to be learned from this low-intensity conflict at the level of tactics, techniques, and procedures. Melson looks closely at the military response to the emerging revolutionary threat and the development of general and special purpose units. He addresses the critical use of airpower as a force multiplier supporting civil police and army efforts ranging from internal security and border control to internal and external combat operations, the necessity of full-time joint command structures, and the escalation of cross-border attacks and unconventional responses as the conflict evolved.

Portuguese Dragoons 1966-1974 John P. Cann,2019-12-12 Between 1961 and 1974, Portugal fought a war to retain its African colonies of Angola, Guinea-Bissau, and Mozambique. Collectively known as the Campaigns for Africa, the origin of the conflict stems from the post-World War II atmosphere of nationalism and anti-colonial fervor. The Angolan insurgency began in 1961, followed by unrest in Guinea-Bissau in 1963 and Mozambique in 1964. Portugal's initial actions in Angola were based on foot-slogging by infantry, considered the best method of addressing an insurgency, not only to hunt the enemy but also to keep contact with the population. But in the vast areas of Angola, the majority of which was unsuited to wheeled vehicles, this tactical approach was too painful, and for Portugal, the number of troops available was limited. The helicopter was a possible solution, but it was beyond Portugal's financial resources, and it had a tendency to fly over those areas where it was vital to communicate with the population and secure its loyalty. When in 1966 the enemy guerrillas sought a new front in eastern Angola, Portugal needed a force that could combine mobility over rough terrain with the ability to engage insurgents while maintaining strong links with the population. One of the adaptive solutions to this challenge was found in the past: create horse cavalry units in the form of dragoons that were equally trained for cavalry or infantry service just as their historical predecessors fought. In this particular case, adaptive tactics involved adjusting existing military methods and means from the traditional and available inventory to craft a solution that would deny eastern Angola to insurgents and support the population there. This story is about imaginative thinking that instead of a forced abandonment of the old led to a resurrection of the old.

Cavalry
 Jeremy Black, 2023-08-30. An original and unique work that will fill a huge gap in the field of military history and be of interest to both scholars and general readers. It is a picture of the universal role of cavalry in warfare from earliest times to the present and future. This book covers the role of horses and essential mobility in shock action in warfare in the classical world in the major civilizations of China and India. Steppe cavalry in the middle ages with Islamic and European conflict, the social politics in Christendom with knightly valor and war with non-Christian forces including the Muslim invasion of Europe, Islamic Spain and conflict with the Mongols. The early modern period covers the Asia and North Africa and the Ottomans, a major field of warfare continuing up to the modern period and the time is notable for the introduction of horses in the Americas, a new phase in cavalry history. The modern period from Napoleon to the First World War is the history of the mobility of cavalry in European warfare and in imperial expansion and empire building, but the concept of cavalry redundancy arises in the maelstrom of 1914-1918 with artillery bombardment, trench warfare and the role of infantry. The long transition period leading up to the present and future is fascinating for both cavalry and infantry with the development of tanks and armor. And here is a fascinating and original concept of cavalry transformation and not cavalry survivalism with modern and post-modern development of drone warfare from horses to drones as a new cavalry for reconnaissance and combat.

With the Mounted Infantry and the Mashonaland Field Force, 1896
 Sir Edwin Alfred Hervey Alderson, 1971. With the Mounted Infantry and the Mashonaland Field Force, 1896. Sir Edwin Alfred Hervey Alderson, 2013-09. This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1898 edition. Excerpt had to be exercised in passing under or between the many ugly looking kopjes and boulders and through the dense bush. As we went we gathered up any of the scattered pack that we came across. After about half an hour's riding we struck the Umfuli River and there we found McMahon with three sections of his company baying in front of the kraal shown on the opposite page and also on page 203. He had with his usual go a headness gone for it directly he came across it and had got half way across the river but then found the fire too hot and wisely decided to wait for reinforcements. In getting back to the north bank of the river McMahon was hit in the foot but in spite of this he remained with his company until I sent word that he must go to the ambulance. The kraal was known as Chena's and as will be seen by Hare's excellent sketch it appeared an ugly place to tackle. By the time SEVERAL CASUALTIES 201

we had collected and concentrated a sufficient force to attack it with the sun was beginning to set and seeing the size of the place and the thickness of the bush and of the boulders round it we decided that it would be better to wait until the next day I should have liked to have placed piquets round it but its size the distance we were from the laagers the work done by the men during the day and also the fact that the natives would think we were afraid of it and therefore be sure to stay there made me consider that that game was not worth the candle So having fired some shells into it with the result of setting a portion on fire we began our march back to the laager just as the sun disappeared behind the western line of bush Much to my regret I found that we had again had several casualties These were Never Fear 147 Is Here Paul Allin,David Freemantle,2020-11-30 National service Intake 147 of the Rhodesian Army was arguably the most successful of the whole Rhodesian Bush War This is an accurate historical account of the twenty months these young men whose average age was only 19 spent in the army as told by the men themselves They were the first national service unit to take part in Fire Force operations and in 1976 only the Rhodesian Light Infantry had more kills than 3 Independent Company The members were awarded one Silver Cross of Rhodesia three Bronze Crosses and one Military Forces Commendation They were recommended for a unit citation on more than one occasion Military History of Rhodesia Source Wikipedia,2013-09 Please note that the content of this book primarily consists of articles available from Wikipedia or other free sources online Pages 35 Chapters British Commonwealth Air Training Plan History of the Rhodesian Light Infantry 1961 1972 History of the Rhodesian Light Infantry 1972 1977 History of the Rhodesian Light Infantry 1977 1980 Nhari rebellion Operation Overload Southern Rhodesian military involvement in the Malayan Emergency Southern Rhodesia Medal for War Service Excerpt The 1st Battalion The Rhodesian Light Infantry commonly the Rhodesian Light Infantry 1RLI or RLI was originally formed in 1961 as a regiment of the army of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland Raised as a light infantry unit at Brady Barracks Bulawayo in Southern Rhodesia the Regiment served in the Rhodesian Bush War as part of the Rhodesian Security Forces between 1964 and 1979 from 1965 under the unrecognised governments of Rhodesia and latterly during the second half of 1979 Zimbabwe Rhodesia The RLI remained active during an interim period under British control and then from April 1980 within the armed forces of Zimbabwe before disbanding on 31 October 1980 The RLI was formed in February 1961 as a light infantry battalion made up exclusively of white recruits After first seeing action in September 1961 on the Northern Rhodesian border with Katanga it relocated to Cranborne Barracks Salisbury the following year and remained there as part of the Southern Rhodesian Army after the Federation dissolved on 31 December 1963 Violent political intimidation of black Rhodesians by two rival communist revolutionary parties the Zimbabwe African People s Union ZAPU and Zimbabwe African National Union ZANU necessitated a specially trained counter insurgency unit and the RLI was accordingly reformed into a commando regiment during 1964 and 1965 under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Peter Walls Following Rhodesia s Unilateral Declaration of
