Escaping Auschwitz A Culture Of Forgetting Psychoanalysis And Social Theory:

Escaping Auschwitz Ruth Linn,2004 In 1944 a Slovakian Jew named Rudolf Vrba escaped from Auschwitz and wrote a document about the death camp activities His words never reached the half million Hungarian Jews who were herded there The story of that suppression is told here Healing Identities Cynthia Burack,2018-08-06 Group identifications famously pose the problem of destructive rhetoric and action against others Cynthia Burack brings together the theory work of women of color and the tools of psychoanalysis to examine the effects of group collaborations for social justice and progressive politics This juxtaposition illuminates some assumptions about race and equality encoded in psychoanalysis Burack s discursive analysis suggests the positive identity affirming aspects of group relational life for African American women One analytic response to groups emphasizes the dangers of these identifications and exhorts people to abandon or transcend them for their own good and for the good of others who may be harmed by group based forms of cultural or material violence Another response understands that people feel a need for group identifications and asks how they may be made more resistant to malignant group based discourse and action What can black feminist thought teach scholars and democratic citizens about groups Burack shows how the rhetoric of black feminism models reparative rather than destructive forms of group dialogue and action Although it may be impossible to eliminate group identifications that provide much of the impetus for bias and violence she argues we can encourage more progressive forms of leadership solidarity and coalition politics

American Historical Association. Meeting,2004 Quill & Quire ,2003 Social Science Methods for Psychodynamic Inquiry William R Meyers,2016-02-06 This book explains with case examples a variety of social science research methods suitable for studying the unconscious components of irrational social and political actions in world affairs which can be defined as those that are intensely destructive self destructive or extremely bizarre The book argues that they are driven in part by feelings and fantasies that are outside of conscious awareness Meyers explores the role of empathy in clinical understanding as well as the value of exposing assertions to empirical disconfirmation With a variety of research methods such as survey research content analysis and narrative analysis and case examples such as studies of irrational statements by authoritarian leaders fabricated newspaper articles and climate change denial this book sheds light on how to conduct research on psychodynamic matters in a scientifically valid and credible way American Book Publishing Record ,2004

Choice ,2003 Zeitschrift für Genozidforschung ,2005 Polonica zagraniczne ,2004 The Matrixial Borderspace Bracha Ettinger,2006 Artist psychoanalyst and feminist theorist Bracha Ettinger presents an original theoretical exploration of shared affect and emergent expression across the thresholds of identity and memory Ettinger works through Lacan s late works the anti Oedipal perspectives of Deleuze and Guattari as well as object relations theory to critique the phallogentrism of mainstream Lacanian theory and to rethink the masculine feminine opposition She replaces the phallic structure with a dimension of emergence where objects images and meanings are glimpsed in their incipency before they are differentiated This is the matrixial realm a shareable psychic dimension that underlies the individual unconscious and experience Concerned with collective trauma and memory Ettinger s own experience as an Israeli living with the memory of the Holocaust is a deep source of inspiration for her paintings several of which are reproduced in the book The paintings like the essays replay the relation between the visible and invisible the sayable and ineffable the gaze the subject and the other Bracha Ettinger is a painter and a senior clinical psychologist She is professor of psychoanalysis and aesthetics at the University of Leeds England and Bezalel Academy Jerusalem Judith Butler is professor of rhetoric and comparative literature at the University of California Berkeley Griselda Pollock is professor of fine arts at the University of Leeds Brian Massumi is professor of communication at the University of Montreal

Memory and Forgetting in the Post-Holocaust Era Alejandro Baer,Natan Sznajder,2016-11-25 To forget after Auschwitz is considered barbaric Baer and Sznajder question this assumption not only in regard to the Holocaust but to other political crimes as well The duties of memory surrounding the Holocaust have spread around the globe and interacted with other narratives of victimization that demand equal treatment Are there crimes that must be forgotten and others that should be remembered In this book the authors examine the effects of a globalized Holocaust culture on the ways in which individuals and groups understand the moral and political significance of their respective histories of extreme political violence Do such transnational memories facilitate or hamper the task of coming to terms with and overcoming divisive pasts Taking Argentina Spain and a number of sites in post communist Europe as test cases this book illustrates the transformation from a nationally oriented ethics to a trans national one The authors look at media scholarly discourse NGOs dealing with human rights and memory museums and memorial sites and examine how a new generation of memory activists revisits the past to construct a new future Baer and Sznajder follow these attempts to manoeuvre between the duties of remembrance and the benefits of forgetting This the authors argue is the ethics of Never Again

Social Theory After the Holocaust Robert Fine,Charles Turner,2000-01-01 This collection of essays explores the character and quality of the Holocaust s impact and the abiding legacy it has left for social theory The premise which informs the contributions is that ten years after its publication Zygmunt Bauman s claim that social theory has either failed to address the Holocaust or protected itself from its implications remains true

The Cry of Mute Children Ilany Kogan,1995 Ilany Kogan has written a powerful and astute book on the psychoanalytic treatment of the offspring of Holocaust survivors drawing on her experience of being an analyst to some of their sons and daughters Through an in dept sensitive presentation of eight analyses conducted with children of survivors the author shows how the shadow of the Holocaust sets the stage for the intrapsychic drama played out by the second generation during the course of their analytic journey These patients grapple with the meaning of the Holocaust conscious and unconscious in their own lives as well as the lives of their parents Ilany Kogan s style is unique She provides a depth and richness of detail in her patients' fantasy words as well as her own experience of countertransference. She invites the reader to participate in the vicissitudes of the analytic process including moments of frustration, analytic impasses and ruptures in the therapeutic alliance. Through her open, unassuming style, her well-organized writing and the judicious use of verbatim material, the author breathes life into these analytic stories. The important insights revealed in this book can inform us not only in the realm of this particular group of patients but all those whose lives are touched by the reality of war, violence and trauma. Dr Ann Adelman, Yale University. Ilany Kogan's vivid description of the psychological fate of children of the survivors of Auschwitz and other Nazi death camps alerts us to the long-lasting effects of severe trauma and its transmission from one generation to the next. Dehumanisation is a constant feature of human history and this book reminds us of our need to be vigilant in the defence of civilisation. Dr Dinora Pines, London. Ilany Kogan has written a book with so many truths in it that it should be required reading for all those colleagues who might be consulted by members of the second generation. Professor Martin Wanh, Jerusalem.
