Debating Gender Justice in Asia (Penerbit USM) Rashidah Shuib, Noraida Endut, Diana Wong, 2016 This volume aims to provide critical and current materials on gender justice in Asia a very much needed conversation given how much the region is integrated globally and is rapidly changing economically and geo politically Shaped very much by economic political and social development in the region women's condition and position in Asia have seen marked improvements but underlying the chapters are also inquiries into the slow and hampered progress towards Asian women achieving substantive justice and equality The significance of the debates and discussions presented here is that they are the results of research based efforts by gender academics and activists of all stages and levels of expertise across the Asian region They seek to make sense of different contexts of continued gender based discrimination and injustice that women face In the discourse setting the author stresses the importance of understanding gender justice as integral to both macro and micro economic and social policies. The other chapters delve into interrogating indigenous feminisms as resistance reinforcing the emerging knowledge that feminism exists in all cultural contexts, issues of low female labour force participation and the need to recognize the informal sector as work violence against women with a focus on attitudes towards intimate partner violence as well as interrogating the link between empowerment and microcredit. The other chapters look at women in politics from the perspective of democratization process among grassroots women in Indonesia and the muslimat in Malaysia. Given that Asia is a hotbed for migration, three chapters cover interestingly different groups of women from differing perspectives. The volume is therefore of great utility to academics, activists, students and policy makers alike in providing a fresh outlook in dealing with gender justice issues in Asia.

Beyond Inflation Targeting Gerald A. Epstein, A. Erinc Yeldan, 2009. Inflation targeting has become the sacred cow of central banking. But its suitability to developing nations remains contested. The contributors to this volume perform the valuable service of sketching out plausible, more development friendly alternatives. They are to be commended in particular for avoiding a one size fits all approach and paying close attention to the needs of specific countries. Their proposals range from relatively minor tinkering in IT to comprehensive overhaul. A common theme is the central role of the real exchange rate which the central banks ignore at their economies' peril. Dani Rodrik, Harvard University, US. As the world economy is devastated by a virulent financial crisis and jobs are lost in scores, central bankers are increasingly questioned as to why they have failed to sustain stability and growth even though they told us all along that conquering inflation would be necessary and sufficient to do so while hoping to get a pat on the back for achieving a degree of price stability unprecedented in recent times. This book provides a lot of food for thought on why. It is a powerful critique of the orthodox obsession with inflation in neglect of the two deepseated problems of the unbridled market economy: financial instability and unemployment. It is a must for all policy makers, notably in the developing world and for the mainstream. Yilmaz Akyuz, formerly of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, Geneva, Switzerland. This collective volume makes a compelling case for balancing the developmental and stabilization functions of central banks. In particular, the authors emphasize that as practiced in many successful developing countries, competitive real exchange rates can be good for growth and employment generation and should thus be a specific focus of central bank actions. The book is a must read for those looking for a more balanced framework for central bank policies. Jos Antonio Ocampo, Columbia University, US, and former Under Secretary General of the United Nations for Economic and Social Affairs and Finance Minister of Colombia. This book, written by an international team of economists, develops concrete, country specific alternatives to inflation targeting, the dominant policy framework of central bank policy that focuses on keeping inflation in the low single digits to the virtual exclusion of other key goals such as employment creation, poverty reduction and sustainable development. The book includes thematic chapters including analyses of class attitudes toward inflation and unemployment and the gender impacts of restrictive monetary policy Other chapters propose improved monetary frameworks for Argentina Brazil India Mexico the Philippines South Africa Turkey and Vietnam Policy frameworks that are explored include employment targeting and targeting a stable and competitive real exchange rate The authors also show that to reach a larger number of targets including higher employment and stable inflation central banks must use a larger number of instruments including capital management techniques This volume offers concrete socially valuable alternatives that economists policy makers students and interested laypeople should consider before adopting one size fits all often inadequate policies that have become a virtual policy making fad

Under Development: Gender C. Verschuur, I. Guérin, H. Guétat-Bernard, 2016-04-30 Despite various decades of research and claim making by feminist scholars and movements gender remains an overlooked area in development studies Looking at key issues in development studies through the prisms of gender and feminism the authors demonstrate that gender is an indispensable tool for social change

Feminist Policymaking in Turbulent Times Hannah Partis-Jennings, Clara Eroukhmanoff, 2024-05-31 Feminist Policymaking in Turbulent Times offers a unique and timely reflection of the critical debates around the institutionalisation of feminist and gender focused ideas and norms into policy Many states and non governmental organisations are increasingly invested in feminist policymaking at the domestic and international levels Yet this liberal feminist agenda is also vastly disputed by critical intersectional and decolonial voices on the one hand and by anti gender movements around the world on the other hand Indeed while opposition to gender ideology is mounting from reactionary religious and secular forces feminist policymaking is also being challenged in important ways from within Thus this book situates feminist policymaking in a challenging and turbulent global context This book explores feminist policymaking in multiple areas of policy examining various gender focused programmes that states and international organisations have undertaken in the last decade offering critical interventions and rethinking the relationship between feminism and policy This book not only reflects on the advances of feminist policymaking globally but also critically assesses the intersectional challenges embedded within it and lying ahead It moves the field forward by creating opportunities based on lived experiences for re imagining the transformative potential of the nexus between feminism and policymaking Interdisciplinary in scope and bringing to the fore the voices of both academics and practitioners this book is the product of an international collaboration forging links and dialogue that are increasingly necessary to question some of the exclusionary militaristic and hierarchical assumptions of policymaking which is labelled as feminist Feminist Policymaking in Turbulent Times will be of interest to all scholars students and practitioners interested in the role of gender in policymaking and concerned with contestations around gender focused projects

Questioning Financial Governance from a Feminist Perspective Brigitte Young, Isabella Bakker, Diane Elson, 2011-08-01 Questioning Financial Governance from a Feminist Perspective brings together feminist economists and feminist political economists from different countries located in North America and Europe to analyze the strategic silence about gender in fiscal and monetary policy and financial regulation This silence reflects a set of assumptions that the key instruments of financial governance are gender neutral This often masks the ways in which financial governance operates to the disadvantage of women and reinforces gender inequality This book examines both the transformations in the governance of finance that predate the financial crisis as well as some dimension of the crisis itself The transformations increasingly involved private as well as public forms of power along with institutions of state and civil society operating at the local national regional and global levels An important aspect of these transformations has been the creation of policy rules often enacted in laws that limit the discretion of national policy makers with respect to fiscal monetary and financial sector policies These policy rules tend to have inscribed in them a series of biases that have gender as well as class and race based outcomes The biases identified by the authors in the various chapters are the deflationary bias male breadwinner bias and commodification bias adding two new biases risk bias and creditor bias The originality of the book is that its primary focus is on macroeconomic policies fiscal and monetary and financial governance from a feminist perspective with a focus on the gross domestic product and its fluctuations and growth paid employment and inflation the budget surplus deficit levels of government expenditure and tax revenue and supply of money The central findings are that the key instruments of financial governance are not gender neutral Each chapter considers examples of financial governance and how it relates to the gender order including divisions of labour and relations of power and privilege This book is key reading for anyone studying feminist economics and should also be of interest to those researching macroeconomics political economics and women s studies

Gender and Economics in Muslim Communities Ebru Kongar, Jennifer C. Olmsted, Elora Shehabuddin, 2017-08-25 Bringing together feminist analyses of economic processes and outcomes with feminist critiques of Orientalism this book examines the diverse economic realities facing women in a range of Muslim communities This approach pays special attention to the role of Islam in economic analyses of gender equality and women s well being in Muslim communities while at the same time challenging biased and inaccurate accounts that essentialize Islam Nuanced case studies conducted in Bangladesh Iran Israel Nigeria and Turkey illustrate the historical and institutional diversity of Muslim communities and draw vivid pictures of the everyday economic lives of Muslim women in these communities These studies are complemented by quantitative analyses that extend beyond inserting Islam as a dummy variable The contributions represent a wide range of disciplines including anthropology economics gender studies political science psychology and sociology By placing critiques of Orientalist scholarship in direct dialogue with scholarship on economic development in Muslim contexts this diverse collection illustrates how different methods and frameworks can work together to provide a better understanding of gender equality and women s well being in Muslim contexts In doing so the authors aim to facilitate conversations among feminist scholars across disciplines in order to provide a more nuanced picture of the situation facing women in Muslim communities This book was originally published as a special issue of Feminist Economics

Institutionalizing Gender Equality Yulia Gradszkova, Sara Sanders, 2015-10-08 Forty years have passed since the first UN organized World Conference on Women in Mexico City in 1975 In that time women s rights and later gender equality have become firmly established as an important area of global politics and human rights What shape have these processes taken in different parts of the world How do global and internationally designed institutions adapt to local cultural religious political and economic contexts What are the problems and contradictions embedded in this process when viewed from a global perspective What effects do grassroots local and national actors have on transnational institutions In answering the questions the book draws on historical and global perspectives beginning in the 1960s an important moment for internationalization during the Cold War and looking to a global selection of case studies Providing a series of snapshots of historical and contemporary global gender equality politics the chapters allow for an examination of how local national and transnational actors have interacted in ways that affect the dissemination of gender equality institutions both formal and informal The case studies demonstrate the relationship between the supranational regional national and sub national or local They explore the power dynamics interactions and mutually constituting nature of two analytic levels of organizations and actors involved in the institutionalization of gender equality the transnational level as well as the level of activity within specific national political systems as represented by states grassroots organizations and other sub national actors The findings reveal that the institutionalization of gender equality is dependent on national and local context the potential for interactions between gender equality policies and other state agendas the depth of informal institutions and the degree to which a given state is integrated into the norms of the international system
