Resilience in EU and International Institutions Elena Korosteleva, Trine Flockhart, 2020-12-17 This book explores the concept and practice of resilience that has generated much debate among both scholars and practitioners The contributions propose a new understanding of resilience both as a quality and a way of thinking taking it to the level of the person and the local to argue that a more sustainable way to govern the world today is bottom up and inside out While carrying a seemingly unifying message of self reliance adaptation and survival in the face of adversity resilience curiously continues to appear as all things to all people making it hard for the EU and international institutions to make full use of its arresting potential Engendering resilience today in the highly volatile and uncertain world hit by crises pandemic and diminishing control becomes a priority as never before This book develops a more comprehensive view of resilience by looking at it both as a quality of the system and a way of thinking inherent to the local that cannot be engineered from the outside It is argued in this volume that in some cases the level of the person especially the person s sense of what constitutes a good life may be the most appropriate focus for understanding change and strategic adaptation in response to it This understanding widens the scope of discussion from what makes an entity system or person more adaptable to how one can best govern today to establish a stable equilibrium between the global and the local the external and the internal and become more responsive to the challenges and changes of today s highly uncertain world The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Contemporary Security Policy
