Sounding Off: Theorizing Disability in Music Neil Lerner, Joseph Straus, 2006-11-06 Disability understood as culturally stigmatized bodily difference including physical and mental impairments of all kinds is a pervasive and permanent aspect of the human condition While the biology of bodily difference is the proper study for science and medicine the meaning that we attach to bodily difference is the proper study of humanists The interdisciplinary field of Disability Studies has recently emerged to theorize social and cultural constructions of the meaning of disability Although there has been an astonishing outpouring of humanistic work in

Disability Studies in the past ten years there has been virtually no echo in musicology or music theory Sounding Off Theorizing Disability in Music is the first book length work to focus on the historical and theoretical issues of music as it relates to disability It shows that music like literature and the other arts simultaneously reflects and constructs cultural attitudes toward disability Sounding Off Theorizing Disability in Music promises to be a landmark study for scholars and students of music disability and culture      Gender and Rurality Lia Bryant, Barbara Pini, 2010-09-13 The study of gender in rural spaces is still in its infancy Thus far there has been little exploration of the constitution of the varied and differing ways that gender is constituted in rural settings This book will place the question of gender rurality and difference at its center The authors examine theoretical constructions of gender and explore the relationship between these and rural spaces While there have been extensive debates in the feminist literature about gender and the intersection of multiple social categories rural feminist social scientists have yet to theorize what gender means in a rural context and how gender blurs and intersects with other social categories such as sexuality ethnicity class and disability This book will use empirical examples from a range of research projects undertaken by the authors as well as illustrations from work in the Australasia region Europe and the United States to explore gender and rurality and their relation to sexuality ethnicity class and disability      Illness and Authority Donna Trembinski, 2020-11-03 Illness and Authority is the first monograph length study to examine a well known medieval saint from the perspective of disability studies      Animacies Mel Y. Chen, 2012-07-10 Rethinks the criteria governing agency and receptivity health and toxicity productivity and stillness      The Faces of Intellectual Disability Licia Carlson, 2010 The Faces of Intellectual Disability challenges current thinking about cognitive impairment in order to come to terms with what it means to treat people with intellectual disabilities in an ethical manner As she embraces the task of reassessing philosophical views of intellectual disability Licia Carlson shows how we can affirm the dignity and worth of intellectually disabled people by dropping comparisons to nonhuman animals and confronting fears and discomforts about mental impairment Carlson presents a complex history of ideas and notions about cognitive impairment the treatment of intellectually disabled people and social and cultural reactions to them Sensitive and clearly argued this book offers significant new thinking on recent trends in disability studies and philosophy      Remembering Masculinity in Early Modern Florence Allison Mary Levy, 2006-01-01 This book nuances our understanding of commemorative portraiture in early modern Florence The author argues that male and female portraiture complexly generated within a discourse of male anxiety and pre mortuary mourning could pictorially console the subject against his own potentially unmourned death Merging early modern visual culture and critical theories of the body this book raises new questions about Renaissance portraiture and re configures our understanding of masculinity and mourning      Risk-Taking in Higher Education Ryan Kelty, Bridget A. Bunten, 2017-03-08 Risk taking is foundational to the structure and goals of higher education Encouraging students to consider new diverse even uncomfortable ideas is needed to develop a critically informed view of the world and establish one s own values and beliefs Yet students and parents are increasingly averse to risk taking in higher education a shift evidenced by calls for colleges and universities to provide an education that shelters students from diverse and potentially controversial ideas and topics This tension over the necessary role of risk taking in higher education represents a critical moment for American education This volume includes authors from numerous academic disciplines to emphasize both the importance of risk taking across higher education and to highlight the varied approaches to incorporate risk taking into classroom practices The authors collective works in this volume reaffirm the critical need to reject intellectual coddling and commodification in the college classroom and to promote intellectual risk taking as an essential aspect of higher education Sustained systematic emphasis on risk taking in higher education is key to promoting innovation critical thinking life long learning and moral ethical development

Disability Studies and the Environmental Humanities Sarah Jaquette Ray, Jay Sibara, 2017-06-01 Although scholars in the environmental humanities have been exploring the dichotomy between wild and built environments for several years few have focused on the field of disability studies a discipline that enlists the contingency between environments and bodies as a foundation of its scholarship On the other hand scholars in disability studies have demonstrated the ways in which the built environment privileges some bodies and minds over others yet they have rarely examined the ways in which toxic environments engender chronic illness and disability or how environmental illnesses disrupt dominant paradigms for scrutinizing disability Designed as a reader for undergraduate and graduate courses Disability Studies and the Environmental Humanities employs interdisciplinary perspectives to examine such issues as slow violence imperialism race toxicity eco sickness the body in environmental justice ableism and other topics With a historical scope spanning the seventeenth century to the present this collection not only presents the foundational documents informing this intersection of fields but also showcases the most current work making it an indispensable reference

Death, Disability, and the Superhero José Alaniz, 2014-10-15 The Thing Daredevil Captain Marvel The Human Fly Drawing on DC and Marvel comics from the 1950s to the 1990s and marshaling insights from three burgeoning fields of inquiry in the humanities disability studies death and dying studies and comics studies Jos Alaniz seeks to redefine the contemporary understanding of the superhero Beginning in the Silver Age the genre increasingly challenged and complicated its hypermasculine quasi eugenicist biases through such disabled figures as Ben Grimm The Thing Matt Murdock Daredevil and the Doom Patrol Alaniz traces how the superhero became increasingly vulnerable ill and mortal in this era He then proceeds to a reinterpretation of characters and series some familiar Superman some obscure She Thing These genre changes reflected a wider awareness of related body issues in the postwar U S as represented by hospice death with dignity and disability rights movements The persistent highlighting of the body's imperfection comes to forge a predominant aspect of the superheroic self Such moves originally part of the Silver Age strategy to stimulate sympathy enhance psychological depth and raise the dramatic stakes developed further in such later series as The Human Fly Strikeforce Morituri and the landmark graphic novel The Death of Captain Marvel all examined in this volume Death and disability presumed routinely absent or denied in the superhero genre emerge to form a core theme and defining function of the Silver Age and beyond

New Feminist Perspectives on Embodiment Clara Fischer, Luna Dolezal, 2018-02-16 Despite several decades of feminist activism and scholarship women's bodies continue to be sites of control and contention both materially and symbolically. Issues such as reproductive technologies, sexual violence, objectification, motherhood and sex trafficking among others constitute ongoing pressing concerns for women's bodies in our contemporary milieu, arguably exacerbated in a neoliberal world where bodies are instrumentalized as sites of human capital. This book engages with these themes by building on the strong tradition of feminist thought focused on women's bodies and by making novel contributions that reflect feminists' concerns both theoretically and empirically about gender and embodiment in the present context and beyond. The collection brings together essays from a variety of feminist scholars who deploy diverse theoretical approaches including phenomenology, pragmatism and new materialisms in order to examine philosophically the question of the current status of gendered bodies through cutting edge feminist theory.

After War Zoë H. Wool, 2015-11-05 In After War Zoë H. Wool explores how the American soldiers most severely injured in the Iraq and Afghanistan wars struggle to build some kind of ordinary life while recovering at Walter Reed Army Medical Center from grievous injuries like lost limbs and traumatic brain injury. Between 2007 and 2008 Wool spent time with many of these mostly male soldiers and their families and loved ones in an effort to understand what it's like to be blown up and then pulled toward an ideal and ordinary civilian life in a place where the possibilities of such a life are called into question. Contextualizing these soldiers within a broader political and moral framework Wool considers the soldier body as a historically, politically and morally laden national icon of normative masculinity. She shows how injury, disability and the reality of soldiers' experiences and lives unsettle this icon and disrupt the all too common narrative of the heroic wounded veteran as the embodiment of patriotic self-sacrifice. For these soldiers the uncanny ordinariness of seemingly extraordinary everyday circumstances and practices at Walter Reed create a reality that will never be normal.
