emergence of park soccer In F tbo1 in the Park David Trouille takes us into the world of Latino soccer players who regularly play in an upscale Los Angeles neighborhood where they are not always welcome Together on the soccer field sharing beers after the games and occasionally exchanging taunts or blows the men build relationships and a sense of who they are Through these engrossing revealing and at times immortalizing activities they forge new identities friendships and job opportunities giving themselves a renewed sense of self worth and community As the United States becomes increasingly polarized over issues of immigration and culture F tbo1 in the Park offers a close look at the individual lives and experiences of migrants

Marxism and Intersectionality Ashley J. Bohrer, 2019-08-28 What does the development of a truly robust contemporary theory of domination require Ashley J Bohrer argues that it is only by considering all of the dimensions of race gender sexuality and class within the structures of capitalism and imperialism that we can understand power relations as we find them nowadays Bohrer explains how many of the purported incompatibilities between Marxism and intersectionality arise more from miscommunication rather than a fundamental conceptual antagonism As the first monograph entirely devoted to this issue Marxism and Intersectionality serves as a tool to activists and academics working against multiple systems of domination exploitation and oppression

Social Issues in Living Color Arthur W. Blume, 2017-02-16 Offering fresh and exciting approaches to solving global problems this book creatively views challenging social issues through the lens of racial and ethnic psychology As the demographic makeup of the American population continues to evolve understanding and addressing the psychological needs of ethnic minorities in the United States becomes more important to the overall health and well being of society This three volume set is the first publication to explicitly tackle social issues from the perspective of racial and ethnic psychology It uniquely presents racial and ethnic psychological perspectives on topics such as media criminal justice racism climate change gender bias and health and mental health disparities Volume one introduces readers to the basic scientific concepts of racial and ethnic minority psychology and then examines the intersectionality of race ethnicity gender and sexual orientation It also addresses how race and ethnicity affect communication styles leadership styles and media The second volume discusses the experiences of individuals within racial and ethnic minorities including overt racism covert racism and colonialism and addresses how ethnic minority psychology plays a role in our educational system poverty global climate change and sustainability The third volume covers ethics in health and research considers the causes of health and mental health disparities and identifies diversity initiatives that can improve the health and well being of all citizens not just racial and ethnic minority citizens

Gender, Health and Healthcare Jacqueline H. Watts, 2016-03-09 Health status and the experience of working in health care roles are both strongly shaped by gender and although there have been attempts to incorporate gender awareness in both health and employment policies the significance of gender in these areas continues to be marginalised within public debates and academic discourses Taking a social constructionist perspective Watts considers the ways in which gender impacts upon health in all its elements including access technology professionalisation health promotion and health as an important sector of the labour market She discusses gender as a developing and diversified category exploring ideas about masculinity and the fluidity of gender boundaries in determining individual identity Chapters that follow discuss men s and women s health ideology of gender and health specifically exploring different social norms and ideas about male and female health and the dominant ideological association between femaleness and caring working for health with particular focus on the gendered interplay of caring and curing roles technology and changes to gender health and healthcare health promotion as a gendered activity and finally the importance of introducing an intersectional approach beyond gender to articulate a deeper understanding of health in a postmodern context The concluding chapter draws together these themes to underscore the importance of placing gender at the centre of health and health care delivery to fully take account of both the different life and health experiences of men and women and the gendered dimensions of working in health care
