Mr. Robert Duncan on Evolution in Naval Architecture During the Reign of Queen Victoria (Classic Reprint) Robert Duncan, 2018-02-20 Excerpt from Mr Robert Duncan on Evolution in Naval Architecture During the Reign of Queen Victoria This ten breadths limit became almost a rule for nearly twenty years but within the last ten years the researches of the late Mr Froude in his experiments on the models of ships of war to determine the effect of proportions and form on resistance and speed have had the effect of causing a reaction in favour of greater breadth even for the highest speed types and this reaction has affected the lower types to such a degree that the length of an ordinary cargo steamer in proportion to breadth is now very little over the proportion common to the largest iron sailing ships of this time About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The British Architect, 1911 Guide to Reprints 2007 K. G. Saur Editorial Staff, 2006-01-10 Complete Catalog of Books in All Fields Dover Publications, Inc, 1997 Victorian Glassworlds Isobel Armstrong, 2008-04-24 Isobel Armstrong's startlingly original and beautifully illustrated book tells the stories that spring from the mass production of glass in nineteenth century England Moving across technology industry local history architecture literature print culture the visual arts optics and philosophy it will transform our understanding of the Victorian period The mass production of glass in the nineteenth century transformed an ancient material into a modern one at the same time transforming the environment and the nineteenth century imagination It created a new glass culture hitherto inconceivable Glass culture constituted Victorian modernity It was made from infinite variations of the prefabricated glass panel and the lens The mirror and the window became its formative elements both the texts and constituents of glass culture The glassworlds of the century are heterogeneous They manifest themselves in the technologies of the factory furnace in the myths of Cinderella and her glass slipper circulated in print media in the ideologies of the conservatory as building type in the fantasia of the shopfront in the production of chandeliers in the Crystal Palace and the lens made images of the magic lantern and microscope But they were nevertheless governed by two inescapable conditions First to look through glass was to look through the residues of the breath of an unknown artisan because glass was mass produced by incorporating glassblowing into the division of labour Second literally a new medium glass brought the ambiguity of transparency and the problems of mediation into the everyday It intervened between seer and seen incorporating a modern philosophical problem into bodily experience Thus for poets and novelists glass took on material and ontological political and aesthetic meanings Reading glass forwards into Bauhaus

modernism Walter Benjamin overlooked an early phase of glass culture where the languages of glass are different The book charts this phase in three parts Factory archives trade union records and periodicals document the individual manufacturers and artisans who founded glass culture the industrial tourists who described it and the systematic politics of window breaking Part Two culminating in glass under glass at the Crystal Palace reads the glassing of the environment including the mirror the window and controversy round the conservatory and their inscription in poems and novels Part Three explores the lens from optical toys to philosophical instruments as the telescope and microscope were known A meditation on its history and phenomenology Victorian Glassworlds is a poetics of glass for nineteenth century modernity , Historic Residential Suburbs David L. Ames, Linda Flint McClelland, 2002 The Reprint Bulletin , 1978 The Orient on the Victorian Stage Edward Ziter, 2003-09-25 The Orient on the Victorian Stage examines the representation of the Middle East in a variety of nineteenth century entertainment forms such as panoramas melodrama pantomime ballet and opera Ziter argues that changes in stage craft reflected the emerging idea that the significance of objects was evident in contextual relations and relates the development of this stage craft to orientalist exhibitions and museum displays Unlike other theatre histories and studies of orientalism this book examines broader strategies of spatial representation and focuses on performance and popular culture Ziter explores the plays and productions at a number of venues including Drury Lane Covent Garden the Great Exhibition of 1851 the Crystal Palace at Sydenham and the British Museum among others The book also includes an analysis of Byron's image in the theatre and an analysis of his play Sardanapalus Nineteenth Century Prose , 2011 Victorian Cities Asa Briggs, 1993-03-24 A comparative study in urban history Victorian Cities examines the 19th century history of four developing cities in England in a period of rapid growth with chapters on London and Melbourne and references to Los Angeles and Chicago as well Toronto Architect Edmund Burke Angela Carr, 1995 Burke's contributions to Canadian architecture include introducing the technology of the Chicago men to Canada and helping to establish a formal professional organization for architects in Ontario The Spectator , 1891 A weekly review of politics literature theology and art Medicine by Design Annmarie Adams, In the history of medicine hospitals are usually seen as passive reflections of advances in medical knowledge and technology In Medicine by Design Annmarie Adams challenges these assumptions examining how hospital design influenced the development of twentieth century medicine and demonstrating the importance of these specialized buildings in the history of architecture At the center of this work is Montreal's landmark Royal Victoria Hospital built in 1893 Drawing on a wide range of visual and textual sources Adams uses the Royal Vic along with other hospitals built or modified over the next fifty years to explore critical issues in architecture and medicine the role of gender and class in both fields the transformation of patients into consumers the introduction of new medical concepts and technologies and the use of domestic architecture and regionally inspired imagery to soften the jarring impact of high tech medicine Identifying the roles played by architects in medical history and those played by patients doctors nurses and other medical professionals in the design of hospitals Adams also links architectural spaces to everyday hospital activities from meal preparation to the ways in which patients entered the hospital and awaited treatment Methodologically and conceptually innovative Medicine by Design makes a significant contribution to the histories of both architectural and medical practices in the twentieth century Annmarie Adams is William C Macdonald Professor of Architecture at McGill University and the author of Architecture in the Family Way Doctors Houses and Women 1870 1900 and coauthor of Designing Women Gender and the Architectural Profession Dandridge Lisa Whillock Ellis, 2011-03-21 Join author and Professor Lisa Whillock Ellis as she details the rich history of Dandridge Tennessee through vintage images Dandridge Tennessee the second oldest town in the state was founded in 1783 by a group of Scotch Irish settlers It was 13 years before Tennessee became the 16th state The town began as a small frontier settlement along the banks of the French Broad River in the short lived state of Franklin In 1793 Dandridge became the county seat for the newly formed Jefferson County The county was named for then U S secretary of state Thomas Jefferson Dandridge is the only town in the United States named for first lady Martha Dandridge Custis Washington Davy Crockett married his first wife near Dandridge and the courthouse still has his marriage bond in its archives Over the years it has played host to presidents Andrew Jackson James K Polk and Andrew Johnson During the Civil War the Battle of Dandridge was fought there in winter 1864 In 1942 the town was saved when the Tennessee Valley Authority built a dike to protect it from the waters of Douglas Lake The Builder ,1876
