or belief without taking thought they feel that there is not time to examine thought While you think they say the house is burning They are the kin of those who rush and struggle and make panics in theatre fires      First and Last Things H. G. Wells,2020-04-02 As a preliminary to that experiment in mutual confession from which this book arose I found it necessary to consider and state certain truths about the nature of knowledge about the meaning of truth and the value of words that is to say I found I had to begin by being metaphysical In writing out these notes now I think it is well that I should state just how important I think this metaphysical prelude is There is a popular prejudice against metaphysics as something at once difficult and fruitless as an idle system of enquiries remote from any human interest I suppose this odd misconception arose from the vulgar pretensions of the learned from their appeal to ancient names and their quotations in unfamiliar tongues and from the easy fall into technicality of men struggling to be explicit where a high degree of explicitness is impossible But it needs erudition and accumulated and alien literature to make metaphysics obscure and some of the most fruitful and able metaphysical discussion in the world was conducted by a number of unhampered men in small Greek cities who knew no language but their own and had scarcely a technical term The true metaphysician is after all only a person who says Now let us take a thought for a moment before we fall into a discussion of the broad questions of life lest we rush hastily into impossible and needless conflict What is the exact value of these thoughts we are thinking and these words we are using He wants to take thought about thought Those other ardent spirits on the contrary want to plunge into action or controversy or belief without taking thought they feel that there is not time to examine thought While you think they say the house is burning They are the kin of those who rush and struggle and make panics in theatre fires      First and Last Things: a Confession of Faith and Rule of Life (Large Print) H. our ideas of right and wrong And yet we reckoned ourselves people of the educated class and some of us talk and lecture and write with considerable confidence We thought it would be of very great interest to ourselves and each other if we made some sort of frank mutual confession We arranged to hold a series of meetings in which first one and then another explained the faith so far as he understood it that was in him We astonished ourselves and our hearers by the irregular and fragmentary nature of the creeds we produced clotted at one point inconsecutive at another inconsistent and unconvincing to a quite unexpected degree It would not be difficult to caricature one of those meetings the lecturer floundering about with an air of exquisite illumination the audience attentive with an expression of thwarted edification upon its various brows For my own part I grew so interested in planning my lecture and in joining up point and point that my notes soon outran the possibilities of the hour or so of meeting for which I was preparing them The meeting got only a few fragments of what I had to say and made what it could of them And after that was over I let myself loose from limits of time and length altogether and have expanded these memoranda into a book
