Resources in Education, 1984 SCM Studyguide to Christian Ethics Neil Messer, 2006 This book is a wide ranging introduction to Christian ethics that assumes no prior knowledge of the subject It introduces a range of approaches to Christian moral reasoning and discusses numerous practical ethical issues Throughout the book ethical theory and practical ethics are integrated with one another in order to show how each informs the other Topics often neglected in Christian ethics are dealt with here including Christian ethics and science and Christian ethics and pastoral care Case studies and exercises give readers the opportunity to formulate their own responses to the moral issues discussed in the book and to reflect on the sources of their own moral deliberation and action Chapter bibliographies list print and web resources offering more detailed coverage of the topics introduced in the book Ecological Aquaculture Laurence

Hutchinson,2005 Ecological Aquaculture offers a design framework for successful ecological aquaculture in all but the most extreme climates and regions The systems described are not wasteful or polluting they are self sustaining While primarily aimed at people with a freshwater resource who want to make use of it in a sustainable way Ecological Aquaculture is also a work of groundbreaking ideas and practices for those interested in environmental management and aquatic ecosystem enhancement and repair It serves as a reference work for academic research and a practical guide for planning authorities and conservation programs The book includes two AIDGAP freshwater identification guides The Ecological Impacts of Wastewater on Wetlands ,1984 Ecosystem Goods and Services from Plantation Forests Jürgen Bauhus,Markku

Kanninen,Peter van der Meer,2010 Plantation forests often have a negative image They are typically assumed to be poor substitutes for natural forests particularly in terms of biodiversity conservation carbon storage provision of clean drinking water and other non timber goods and services Often they are monocultures that do not appear to invite people for recreation and other direct uses Yet as this book clearly shows they can play a vital role in the provision of ecosystem services when compared to agriculture and other forms of land use or when natural forests have been degraded This is the first book to examine explicitly the non timber goods and services provided by plantation forests including soil water and biodiversity conservation as well as carbon sequestration and the provision of local livelihoods The authors show that if we require a higher provision of ecosystem goods and services from both temperate and tropical plantations new approaches to their management are required These include policies methods for valuing the services the practices of small landholders landscape approaches to optimise delivery of goods and services and technical issues about how to achieve suitable solutions at the scale of forest stands While providing original theoretical insights the book also gives guidance for plantation managers policy makers conservation practitioners and community advocates who seek to promote or strengthen the multiple use of forest plantations for improved benefits for society Published with CIFOR Biogeochemistry of a

Forested Ecosystem Gene E. Likens,F.Herbert Bormann,2013-12-01 When we originally published Biogeochemistry of a Forested Ecosystem in 1977 the Hubbard Brook Ecosystem Study HBES had been in existence for 14 years and we included data through 1974 or a biogeo chemical record of 11 years Now our continuous long term biogeo chemical records cover more than 31 years and there have been many changes The most notable change however is that three of our coauthors on the original volume are now deceased They are deeply missed in so many ways In spite of the longer records different trends and new insights we believe that the basic concepts and approaches we presented in 1977 represent the most valuable contribution of the original edition They are still valid and useful particularly for an introductory study of or course in biogeochemistry Our goal in this revision is to preserve these features correct errors and revise or eliminate misleading or ambiguous short term data 11 years while maintaining approximately the original length and the modest cost
