Reimagining Adult Education as World Building Aliko Nicolaides, Ahreum Lim, Neal Herr, Trisha Barefield, 2024-03-18 Reimagining Adult Education as World Building offers a new way of thinking about adult education by re-envisioning how adult education works. It explores how the process of world building or the invention of a new world or a set of concepts can be translated into actual and feasible action when turning towards complex real-life problems. Cultivating contexts where adult educators can become change agents who recognize that the individual and community are intricately entangled demands that educators grow new capacities, make new tools, develop thicker networks, and cultivate intentional links amongst each other to foster ecologies of transformation. This book shows how educators can create an ecology or environment for transformative thinking where students can learn to collaborate and use world building tools to create new responses to current issues. It begins by explaining the philosophical underpinnings of world building and the tools that translate pragmatic imagination into scaffolds for individual and collective capacity building. It also illustrates how the worldbuilding protocol makes a difference in adult learning and how this pedagogical tool introduces the ecological approach to adult education. Each chapter explores a practical case study showing how learners have applied worldbuilding tools to complex challenges. Showing how to apply the world building protocol in a classroom setting, this edited collection will be valuable to Adult Education scholars, researchers, practitioners, and learning facilitators.

An Introduction to the US Health Care Industry David S. Guzik, 2020-10-13 Why does US health care have such high costs and poor outcomes? Dr. David S. Guzik offers this critique of the American health care industry and argues that it could work more effectively by rebalancing care cost and access. For decades, the United States has been faced with a puzzling problem. Despite spending much more money per capita on health care than any other developed nation, its population suffers from notoriously poorer health. In comparison with 10 other high-income nations, in fact, the US has the lowest life expectancy at birth, the highest rates of infant and neonatal mortality, and the most inequitable access to physicians when adjusted for need. In An Introduction to the US Health Care Industry, Dr. David S. Guzik takes an in-depth look at this troubling issue. Bringing to bear his unique background as a physician, economist, former University of Rochester medical school dean, and former president of the University of Florida Health System, Dr. Guzik shows that what we commonly refer to as the US health care system is actually an industry forged by a unique collection of self-interested and disjointed stakeholders. He argues that the assumptions underlying well-functioning markets do not align with health care.

The resulting market imperfections combined with entrenched industry stakeholders have led to a significant imbalance of care cost and access. Using a nontechnical framework, Dr. Guzik introduces readers to the economic principles behind the function and dysfunction of our health care industry. He shows how the market-based approach could be expected to remedy these problems while detailing the realities of imperfections, regulations, and wealth inequality on those functions. He also analyzes how this industry developed, presenting the conceptual underpinnings of the health care industry while detailing its history and tracing the creation and entrenchment of the current federation of key stakeholders: government, insurance companies, hospitals, doctors, employers, and drug and device manufacturers. In the final section of the book, Dr. Guzik looks to the future, describing the prevention, innovation, and alternative financing models that could help to rebalance the priorities of care cost and access that Americans need. Introduction to Electronics Design Ferdinand Haverman Mitchell (Jr.), Ferdinand Haverman Mitchell, 1992 Nation-Building and Identity in the Post-Soviet Space Rico Isaacs, Abel Polese, 2016-04-14 Nation building as a process is never complete and issues related to identity, nation state, and regime building are recurrent in the post-Soviet region. This comparative, interdisciplinary volume explores how nation building tools emerged and evolved over the last twenty years. Featuring in-depth case studies from countries throughout the post-Soviet space, it compares various aspects of nation building and identity formation projects. Approaching the issue from a variety of disciplines and geographical areas, contributors illustrate chapter by chapter how different state and non-state actors utilize traditional instruments of nation construction in new ways while also developing non-traditional tools and strategies to provide a contemporary account of how nation formation efforts evolve and diverge.
