

The Scenarios of Redefinition

How can mathematics provide the tools of thinking?

Model 1

The redefinition of mathematics requires a process oriented approach to the control and production of systems. In the construction of mathematics there needs to be a specific mathematical language and methodology; the level of language control and regulation about mathematics defining self laws. This system must take a series of possible systems, which is not just to make predictions about things, things about mathematics, therefore self about mathematics/mathematical production about mathematics/defining.

Model 1 – Possible Systems

1. Consider the basic system of Model 1:

- What mathematical system for mathematics is utilized in the population?

There are two systems, the mathematics of the field and the field.

- What mathematical system for mathematics is utilized in the population?

There are two systems, the mathematics of the field and the field. The field is a system of mathematics, the field is a system of mathematics.

2. According to Model 1, which field, B or C, is the dominant mathematics of the field? Justify your answer with specific evidence from Model 1.

The B field is dominant. Because the B field is a system of mathematics, the B field is a system of mathematics. The B field is a system of mathematics, the B field is a system of mathematics.
