Lumpy Skin Disease (LSD) field manual Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-09-27. The lumpy skin disease (LSD) is a viral disease of cattle that has dramatic effects on rural livelihoods which are strongly dependent on cattle. The disease slashes milk production and may lead to sterility in bulls and fertility problems in females. It damages hides and causes death due to secondary bacterial infections. Although traditionally limited to sub-Saharan Africa, LSD has slowly been invading new territories such as the Middle East and Turkey, and since 2015 most of the Balkan countries, the Caucasus and the Russian Federation where the disease continues to spread and the risk of an imminent incursion into other unaffected countries is very high. Veterinarians, cattle farmers and others along the value chain are facing the disease for first time and are unfamiliar with LSD's clinical presentation its transmission routes and the available prevention and control options This manual aims to fill these gaps by providing veterinary professionals and paraprofessionals with the information they need to promptly diagnose and react to an outbreak of LSD Cattle farmers will also benefit from reading it adjusted member of the family Behavioural and Ecological Consequences of Urban Life in Birds Caroline Isaksson, Amanda D. Rodewald, Diego Gil, 2018-06-19 Urbanization is next to global warming the largest threat to biodiversity. Indeed it is becoming increasingly evident that many bird species get locally extinct as a result of urban development. However many bird species benefit from urbanization especially through the abundance of human provided resources and increase in abundance and densities. These birds are intriguing to study in relation to its resilience and adaption to urban environments but also in relation to its susceptibility and the potential costs of urban life. This Research Topic consisting of 30 articles, one review, two meta-analyses and 27 original data papers provides insights into species and population responses to urbanization through diverse lenses including biogeography, community ecology, behaviour, life history, evolution and physiology.
