Feminist Methodologies for Critical Researchers Joey Sprague, 2005-08-31 This brief text on social research methodology teaches students of sociology and related disciplines how standard methods can be adapted toward critical ends by thinking more carefully about the links between epistemology and methodology Written in a clear balanced fashion Joey Sprague's treatment of qualitative and quantitative methods shows that all can be used effectively by progressive researchers She describes and evaluates a wide array of methodological options for the production of knowledge Unique to this volume Sprague avoids the stereotype that tarnishes all quantitative research as inherently anti feminist showing through an analysis of model studies how surveys and experimental designs are being used by critical scholars She traces how the social organization of the academy has produced a bias against feminist methodology and proposes a program to overcome these limitations Sprague's book will be of value to scholars of many disciplines and a essential text or supplement for methods classes

Feminist Measures in Survey Research Catherine E. Harnois, 2012-01-18 How can multiracial feminism inform social science survey research What would it mean in practical terms to bring an intersectional approach to survey design and statistical analysis How might such an approach change our understanding of the social world Feminist Measures in Survey Research offers a new approach for bridging feminist theory and quantitative social science research Catherine E Harnois demonstrates how a multiracial feminist perspective can inform virtually every aspect of the research process from survey design and statistical modeling to the frameworks used to interpret the results Harnois argues for an interdisciplinary approach to social research rooted in multiracial feminist theorizing Such an approach she suggests enables a critical reexamination of the assumptions embedded in everyday research practices It also provides a new and important framework for critiquing and producing quality survey research Catherine E Harnois was honored with the 2012 Distinguished Article Award from the American Sociological Association This award recognizes scholars who have made a distinguished and significant contribution to the development of the integrative field of race gender and class through the publication of a journal article or book chapter on the cutting edge of sociological inquiry

Complicit Sisters Sara de Jong, 2017-02-14 NGOs headquartered in the North have been for some time prominent actors in attempts to address the poverty lack of political representation and labor exploitation that disproportionately affect women from the global South Feminist NGOs and NGOs focusing on women s rights have been successful in attracting attention to their causes but critics argue that the highly educated elites from the global North and South who run them fail to effectively question the power hierarchies in which they operate In order to give depth to these criticisms Sara de Jong interviewed women NGO workers in seven different European countries about their experiences and perspectives on working on gendered issues affecting women in the global South as well as migrant women in the global North Complicit Sisters untangles and analyzes the complex tensions women NGO workers face and explores the ways in which they negotiate potential complicities in their work Unlike other studies looking at development workers on the ground this book examines the women NGO workers in the global North who work to influence high level gender advocacy and policy alongside women NGO workers supporting migrant women within the global North a unique combination Weighing the women s first hand accounts against critiques arising from feminist theory postcolonial theory global civil society theory and critical development literature de Jong brings to life the dilemmas of doing good ECMLG 2022 18th European Conference on Management, Leadership and Governance Florinda Matos,2022-11-10 Theorising and Representing Maternal Realities Julie Kelso,Marie Porter,2009-05-05 Maternal research is a rapidly expanding multi disciplinary form of scholarship Prior to second wave feminism most motherhood literature was written from a male perspective This literature focused on telling mothers how to practice mothering without acknowledging the expertise of the mothers themselves Research on motherhood as it is experienced in all its facets by mothers has only emerged in recent decades This book is aimed at expanding academic knowledge of motherhood from a feminist perspective looking particularly at how maternal subjectivities can be represented and theorised When mothers themselves academic or not are responsible for theorisation and representation of maternal realities dominant theories and representations of motherhood are radically challenged In Theorising and Representing Maternal Realities the contributors argue that it is no longer acceptable to regard mothers as mere objects of knowledge and research They are primarily the subjects of knowledge and research Cultural Methods in Psychology Kate C. McLean,2022 As I sat down to write this chapter about the use of life story methods for capturing cultural historical aspects of LGBTQ identity development I was transported back in time It was a hot summer day in 2004 I had travelled back from the big city where I was attending university to visit my family This was my first summer away from home At that moment my family and I sat in the parking lot of a diner having just finished breakfast at a local greasy spoon a ritualistic send off before I started my four hour return drive In those moments our car felt unusually cramped My dad was in the back seat with me my mom and brother in the front I didn t have much of an appetite that morning knowing that in mere minutes I would come out to my family as gay On our way out of the restaurant walking to our separate cars I somehow managed to muster up the courage to tell my family there was something important I wanted them to know So there I was in the backseat of the car with a message for my family Looking back on it the message was more like an ultimatum They could learn to love this new version of me as I had done or our routine see you later might be a goodbye This is the beginning of my story both my coming out story and in some ways my life story Thankfully my family is still an important part of this story Distributing Condoms and Hope Chris Barcelos,2020-12-01 Distributing Condoms and Hope is a feminist ethnographic account of how youth sexual health programs in the racially and economically stratified city of Millerston reproduce harm in the marginalized communities they are meant to serve Chris A Barcelos makes space for the stories of young mothers who often recognize the narrow ways that public health professionals respond to pregnancies

Barcelos's findings show that teachers, social workers, and nurses ignore systemic issues of race, class, and gender and instead advocate for individual level solutions such as distributing condoms and promoting hope. Through a lens of reproductive justice, Distributing Condoms and Hope imagines a different approach to serving marginalized youth: a support system that neither uses their lives as a basis for disciplinary public policies nor romanticizes their struggles. Qualitative Research in Theological Education Mary Clark Moschella, Susan Willhauck, 2018. Qualitative Research in Theological Education brings together a diverse group of scholars to consider the theological values arising from and contributing to their use of qualitative research in scholarship and teaching. The book offers a careful consideration of the pedagogical and administrative challenges involved in teaching qualitative research and its various sub-disciplines such as ethnography. As a whole, the book argues that the teaching of QR methods is critical to the theological, ethical, spiritual, and/or pastoral formation of ministers and theological scholars. With contributions from Jody Clarke David, M. Csinos, Elaine Graham, Brett C. Hoover, Tone Stangeland, Kaufman, Bernardine Ketelaars, Boyung Lee, Dawn Llewellyn, David M. Mellott, Nichole Renée Phillips, Apipa Prachyapruit, Anthony G. Reddie, Siroj Sorajjakool, Todd D. Whitmore, and Natalie Wigg Stevenson. Handbook of Gender Research in Psychology Joan C. Chrisler, Donald R. McCreary, 2010-03-12. Donald R. McCreary and Joan C. Chrisler. The Development of Gender Studies in Psychology. Studies of sex differences are as old as the field of psychology and they have been conducted in every sub-field of the discipline. There are probably many reasons for the popularity of these studies but three reasons seem to be most prominent. First, social psychological studies of person perception show that sex is especially salient in social groups. It is the first thing people notice about others and it is one of the things we remember best. Fiske, Haslam, Stangor, Lynch, Duan, Glass, 1992. For example, people may not remember who uttered a witty remark but they are likely to remember whether the quip came from a woman or a man. Second, many people hold firm beliefs that aspects of physiology suit men and women for particular social roles. Men's greater upper body strength makes them better candidates for manual labor and their greater height gives the impression that they would make good leaders, i.e. people we look up to. Women's reproductive capacity and the caretaking tasks, e.g. breastfeeding, baby minding, that accompany it make them seem suitable for other roles that require gentleness and nurturance. Third, the logic that underlies hypothesis testing in the sciences is focused on difference. Researchers design their studies with the hope that they can reject the null hypothesis that experimental groups do not differ. Intersectional Approach Guidroz, Kathleen, Berger, Michele, Tracy, 2010-05-07. Intersectionality or the consideration of race, class, and gender is one of the prominent contemporary theoretical contributions made by scholars in the field of women's studies that now broadly extends across the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences. Taking stock of this transformative paradigm. The Intersectional Approach guide. Children and Youth Speak for Themselves Heather Beth Johnson, 2010-03-23. The volume is a collection of articles from scholars who pay particular attention to children and/or adolescents' voices, interpretations, perspectives, and experiences within specific social and cultural contexts Contributions include research stemming from a broad spectrum of methodological and theoretical orientations      Quantitative Research Methods in Communication Erica Scharrer, Srividya
