

- Initially, nasal pressure can be used in all directions, but finish rolling each area with downward, then stroke directed toward the outer face to facilitate lymph drainage. (See adjacent diagram)
- The eyes and eyelids should be gently stroked to avoid accidental injury to the eye. Have the patient close their eyes while rolling the area. Roll the skin down below the eye, so as to position it lower down. Good manual pressure is needed to ensure the skin is pinched. Also angle the roller at about 45 degrees, allowing the outermost row of needles closest to the eye to reach the skin close to the lid margin. This angling will allow counter pressure along the entire lid.
- Roll away from the center below the eyes out toward the nose because the outer areas push blood into the venous plexus, causing veins to bulge. Rolling there will cause a rash to form. Also endocapillary under the medial half of the lower lid.

- When this area bulges, e.g. around the mouth, hold the eyelids open with firm pin stretch, but not in excess of normal distance. Those that are already the greatest concern to the patient, take time and care to ensure these areas are treated carefully.
- Knapping, tapping and skin wrap after treating an area does not seem effective and may lead to permanent lid damage. Depending on the surface area and time.
- Just the briefest tug, so that the anesthetic has time to sink in. Put enough anesthetic along the hair line and over the eyebrows.
- If bleeding or oozing occurs during the procedure, wipe the skin down with normal saline. Alcohol clings too much and increases redness. It is important not to allow blood to harden on the skin surface. It prevents absorption of active ingredients in the underlying layer and increases downtime.
- Wash the roller every now and then during the procedure with normal saline, being careful not to touch the needles on any surface.
- If the anesthetic wears off, the car starts to move and then continue working, but the process really slows things down. Check areas with infrared testing devices, any pinprick, but otherwise focus a lot of care and place more a little more. The reason you have not to squish.

Best Practice Rolling Technique

On the opposite page is a best practice rolling technique that has proven to deliver good results in all skin conditions. Arrow direction is the primary intent. Backward stroke is pressure off, suction to the skin under the eye, where a downward only action is used when rolling vertically.

Best Practice rolling pattern technique for rolling areas of the face.
Note the combination of "long" strokes.

- 1st directionally blue First pressure off with slight roll toward and face down approach.
- 2nd directionally red Upward and pressure off as downward strokes.
- 3rd directionally green Downward upward strokes, just one upward stroke only and up under the eye.
