explains how this now familiar definition of culture emerged during the late nineteenth century through the intersection of two separate endeavors that shared a commitment to recording group based difference American literary realism and scientific ethnography Elliott looks at early works of cultural studies as diverse as the conjure tales of Charles Chesnutt the Ghost Dance ethnography of James Mooney and the prose narrative of the Omaha anthropologist turned author Francis La Flesche His reading of these works which struggle to find appropriate theoretical and textual tools for articulating a less chauvinistic understanding of human difference is at once a recovery of a lost connection between American literary realism and ethnography and a productive inquiry into the usefulness of the culture concept as a critical tool in our time and times to come
