

THEORIES OF LANGUAGE ACQUISITION

Two opposing claims

1. Nativist (domain specific) approach: language is too complex to be learned; children acquire language with their innate knowledge of language, universal grammar (UG).
  - a. Introduced by Chomsky in response to Skinner's operant conditioning. Chomsky noted three hypotheses:
    - i. No negative evidence hypothesis: parents don't correct children
    - ii. Poverty of the stimulus hypothesis: there is grammatical errors and rare words in spoken language.
    - iii. Universal grammar hypothesis: children's early proficiency suggests they are born with an innate knowledge of language.

Acquisition only via their LAD (language acquisition device), child directed speech is necessary but not sufficient.

2. Interactionist (domain general) approach: language is learnable; children acquire language by analyzing their input using general learning principles. Acquisition via interaction of input, cognition and social.

Child directed speech: slow and careful pronunciation, longer pauses, higher pitch, simple and familiar words, structurally simple, grammatically accurate, emotionally warm and expressive.

- Not cross-culturally universal.

LANGUAGE PERIODS

Pre-verbal periods: children begin to acquire language before they learn to talk.

- They have a preference to prosody for their native language.
- They are born with the ability to perceive and produce every possible phoneme in the world's language, but lose this during exposure to native language. E.g. Japanese people often cannot distinguish between 'r' and 'l'.

Evidence for critical periods

- Feral children: Genie and Victor
- Acquiring a second language is harder with age.
