Cybertypes Cybertypes:

Cybertypes Lisa Nakamura, 2002 This volume is a comprehensive collection of critical essays on The Taming of the Shrew and includes extensive discussions of the play's various printed versions and its theatrical productions. Aspinall has included only those essays that offer the most influential and controversial arguments surrounding the play. The issues discussed include gender, authority, female autonomy, and unruliness, courtship and marriage, language and speech, and performance and theatricality.

Cybertypes Lisa Nakamura, 2013-09-13 First published in 2002. In Cybertypes, Lisa Nakamura turns her assumption that the Net is color blind on its head. Examining all facets of everyday web life, she shows that racial and ethnic stereotypes or cybertypes are hardwired into our online interactions. Identity tourists masquerade in chat rooms as Asian_Geisha or Alatiniolover. Web directories sharply delimit racial categories. Anonymous computer users are assumed to be white. Lively and provocative, Cybertypes takes up the computer relationship between race, ethnicity, and technology and offers a candid and nuanced understanding of identity in the information age.

Cultural Production in Virtual and Imagined Worlds Tracey Bowen, Mary-Lou Nemanic, 2009-12-14 Cultural Production in Virtual and Imagined Worlds foregrounds how the two important fields of visual culture and Internet culture interact. This collection of essays explores the intersections, overlaps, and disparities in terms of how the two discourses illuminate our everyday negotiations as we become increasingly dependent on the Internet and virtual visual imaginings for constructing who we are. What is being examined here are the ways in which we use visual/virtual lenses to see the world both individually and collectively. This book represents a transnational effort that began as a series of conversations during the Mid-Atlantic Popular American Culture conferences from 2005-2009. The editors, a Canadian and an American, have included contributors across national and geographic contexts. Cultural Production is aimed at raising questions, crossing borders, and presenting points of departure for future scholarship in the relatively new and very rapidly changing disciplines of visual and virtual cultures. Our critical approach to this study includes viewing Internet images as contested sites of cultural activity and also as sites that advance ideologies related to cultural transformation.

Historiographies of Game Studies Alisha Karabinus, 2025-07-25 Historiographies of Game Studies offers a first of its kind reflection on how game studies as an academic field has been shaped and sustained. Today, game studies is a thriving field with many dedicated national and international conferences, journals, professional societies, and a strong presence at conferences in disciplines like computer science, communication, media studies, theater, visual arts, popular culture, and others. But when did game studies start? And what and who is at the core or center of game studies? Fields are defined as much by what they are not as by what they are, and their borderlands can be hotly contested spaces. In this anthology, scholars from across the field consider how the boundaries of game studies have been established, codified, contested, and protected, raising critical questions about who and what gets left out of the field. Over more than two dozen chapters and interviews with leading figures, including Espen Aarseth, Kishonna Gray, Henry Jenkins, Lisa Nakamura, Kentaro

Matsumoto Ken McAllister and Janet Murray the contributors offer a dazzling array of insightful provocations that address the formation propagation and cultivation of game studies interrogating not only the field s pasts but its potential futures and asking us to think deliberately about how academic fields are collectively built

Open World Empire Christopher B. Patterson, 2020-04-14 Finalist 2021 John Hope Franklin Prize given by the American Studies Association Seeking ways to understand video games beyond their imperial logics Patterson turns to erotics to re invigorate the potential passions and pleasures of play Video games vastly outpace all other mediums of entertainment in revenue and in global reach On the surface games do not appear ideological nor are they categorized as national products Instead they seem to reflect the open and uncontaminated reputation of information technology Video games are undeniably imperial products Their very existence has been conditioned upon the spread of militarized technology the exploitation of already existing labor and racial hierarchies in their manufacture and the utopian promises of digital technology Like literature and film before it video games have become the main artistic expression of empire today the open world empire formed through the routes of information technology and the violences of drone combat unending war and overseas massacres that occur with little scandal or protest Though often presented as purely technological feats video games are also artistic projects and as such they allow us an understanding of how war and imperial violence proceed under signs of openness transparency and digital utopia But the video game as Christopher B Patterson argues is also an inherently Asian commodity its hardware is assembled in Asia its most talented e sports players are of Asian origin Nintendo Sony and Sega have defined and dominated the genre Games draw on established discourses of Asia to provide an Asiatic space a playful sphere of racial otherness that straddles notions of the queer the exotic the bizarre and the erotic Thinking through games like Overwatch Call of Duty 4 Modern Warfare Shenmue II and Alien Isolation Patterson reads against empire by playing games erotically as players do seeing games as Asiatic playthings that afford new passions pleasures desires and attachments
