Dayton® High-Intensity Heaters

Description

Dayton high-intensity heaters become highly efficient generators of infrared radiation by heating a ceramic refractory material to incandescence. The principal operation is to pass a gas-air mixture through a perforated ceramic refractory, and ignite it on the refractory surface. This causes the ceramic material to be heated to approximately 1780°F and generate large amounts of infrared radiation that may be directed anywhere heat is desired. Infrared radiation heats people and objects it strikes and not the intervening air. Included is a direct spark ignition system, manifold pressure tap, porous ceramic grids, a polished aluminum reflector and a chain set for hanging the heater. Typical applications are loading docks, warehouses, service garages, factories, aircraft hangars, etc.
