into the normative and political complexities involved in evolving a truly democratic and widely acceptable constitutional order in Africa

The Foundations of International Investment Law Zachary Douglas, Joost Pauwelyn, Jorge E. Viñuales, 2014-05-01 International investment law is one of the fastest growing areas of international law. It has led to the signing of thousands of agreements mostly in the form of investment contracts and bilateral investment treaties. Also in the last two decades there has been an exponential growth in the number of disputes being resolved by investment arbitration tribunals. Yet the legal principles at the basis of international investment law and arbitration remain in a state of flux. Perhaps the best illustration of this phenomenon is the wide disagreement among investment tribunals on some of the core concepts underpinning the regime such as investment property, regulatory powers, scope of jurisdiction, applicable law or the interactions with other areas of international law. The purpose of this book is to revisit these conceptual foundations in order to shed light on the practice of international investment law. It is an attempt to bridge the growing gap between the theory and the practice of this thriving area of international law. The first part of the book focuses on the infrastructure of the investment regime or more specifically on the structural arrangements that have been developed to manage foreign investment transactions and the potential disputes arising from them. The second part of the book identifies the common conceptual bases of an array of seemingly unconnected practical problems in order to clarify the main stakes and offer balanced solutions. The third part addresses the main sources of regime stress as well as the main legal mechanisms available to manage such challenges to the operation of the regime. Overall the book offers a thorough investigation of the conflicting theoretical positions underlying international investment law, testing their worth by reference to concrete issues that have arisen in the jurisprudence. It demonstrates that many of the most important practical questions arising in practice can be addressed by a carefully dosed resort to theory.

Liberal Bourgeois Protestantism Paul Mocombe, 2012-06-07 This work analyzes the Protestant metaphysical origins and basis underlying the sociological process of globalization. Specifically it outlines the different conceptions of globalization in the sociological literature and then examines the nature of identity and identity politics in the age of globalization. The work concludes by drawing a connection between the nature of identity politics and the globalizing process.

Language, Literacy, and Pedagogy in Postindustrial Societies Paul C. Mocombe, Carol Tomlin, 2013-01-17 In postindustrial economies such as the United States and Great Britain the black-white achievement gap is perpetuated by an emphasis on language and language skills with which black American and black British Caribbean youths often struggle. This work analyzes the nature of educational pedagogy in the contemporary capitalist world system under American hegemony. Mocombe and Tomlin interpret the role of education as an institutional or ideological apparatus for capitalist domination and examine the sociolinguistic means or pedagogies by which global and local social actors are educated within the capitalist world system to serve the needs of capital, i.e. capital accumulation. Two specific case studies, one in the United States and one in the United Kingdom, are utilized to demonstrate how contemporary educational emphasis on language and literacy parallels the organization of work and contributes to the debate on academic underachievement of black students vis a vis their white and Asian counterparts Sex Research and Sex Therapy Ross Morrow, 2013-06-17 Exploring the theoretical conceptual and historical issues surrounding the topic of sex research and sex therapy this book examines the influential scientific sex research completed by Masters and Johnson and its implications for sex therapy and the study of human sexuality Philosophy of Social Science Mark Risjord, 2022-07-25 Philosophy of Social Science A Contemporary Introduction examines perennial questions of philosophy through engaging the empirical study of society Questions of normativity concern the place of values in social scientific inquiry Questions of naturalism concern the relationship between the natural and the social sciences And questions of reductionism ask how social institutions relate to the people who constitute them This accessible text offers a comprehensive overview of debates in the field with special attention to new research programs Topics include the relationship of social policy to social science interpretive research cognitive and evolutionary explanations intentional action explanation rational choice theory conventions and social norms joint intentionality causal inference and experimentation Detailed examples of social scientific research motivate the philosophical questions and illustrate the important concepts Treating philosophical commitments as implicit in social science students of the social sciences will benefit from its application of philosophical argument to methodological and theoretical problems The text argues that social science transforms philosophical questions and students of philosophy will benefit from its direct engagement with contemporary debates The Second Edition provides updates with the most recent literature and adds two new chapters one on modeling and one on the role of race and gender in the social sciences Key Updates to the Second Edition A new chapter on Modeling and Explaining which explores how models represent social systems and whether highly idealized models explain A new chapter on Race and Other Social Constructions capturing much of the recent empirical research and philosophical interest in the social construction of categories like race and gender Revised and updated chapters throughout clarifying earlier presentations and bringing discussions from the First Edition into line with new research Updated annotated Further Reading lists which now include relevant publications from 2013 to 2022

Getting Things Done at Work Bernadette Vine, 2004-06-24 The linguistic study of workplace language is a new and exciting area of research This book explores the expression of power in a New Zealand workplace through examination of 52 everyday interactions between four women and their colleagues The main focus of this research is the expression of three types of control acts i e directives requests and advice The women include two managers who demonstrate an interactive participative style of management They tend to minimise rather than exert power although their status is still evident in their speech The study is original in its combination of a quantitative and a qualitative approach as well as in its combination of a detailed categorisation of head acts and an analysis of context and role relationships Through the design of the study and the methodology used the results which are brought forward challenge earlier research both on power and control acts The data analyzed is drawn from the Wellington Language in the Workplace Project Social Work and Disadvantage Peter Burke, Jonathan Parker, 2007 Providing key messages for practice they outline a range of protection measures against disability by association to reduce the risk of stigma and victimisation Culture and Learning Mark Olssen, 2006-11-01

In Search of the Real Max Weber Colin Campbell, 2025-09-01 This book uses the contrast between the theoretical positions of the two Max Webers that is the Weber of the Protestant Ethic thesis and the Weber of the theory of action as the basis for developing a theory of agency and an associated dynamic interpretive approach to action The book critiques traditional theories of action for neglecting the physical dimension for conflating agency with action and contrasting the latter with behaviour It argues that action is not just cerebral or communicative but inherently tied to effort emotion and imagination with voluntarism understood in terms of attention instead of intention and the exercise of will rather than choice This is the basis of a dynamic interpretivist approach one that integrates behavioural insights with interpretive sociology highlighting how actors actively maintain their power of agency The concept of character is also introduced as a crucial link between individual agency ethical values and cultural systems This book will be of interest to researchers and students of sociology anthropology media studies and criminology as well as social theorists Catalyst , 1999 New Directions in Social Theory Kate Reed, 2006-05-18 This book contributes to the growing debates about social theory and its role through a discussion of the ways in which gender and race contributed to the exclusion of important thinkers from the sociological canon John Hughes Lancaster University Who makes up the canon of sociology and who doesn't Does sociology need a canon in the first place Beyond Social Theory offers an innovative and passionate contribution to debates on the history and development of sociology and the exclusion of theorists who are female black or both from the mainstream of social theorizing With compelling biographical sketches bringing the dynamics behind the canon to life Kate Reed focuses sharp analysis on the exclusion of theorists on race and gender from important debates on inequality An important contribution to the debate on non exclusionary theory this book critically examines existing accounts of the history of the discipline situating the development of social theory within a wider social and political context
