

Dialogue with an Atheist

DR. MOSTAFA MAHMOUD

'Who created the Creator, that God you talk about?' 'If God preordained my deeds, why should He judge me?' 'Why did God create Evil?' 'What about those not reached by the Qur'an?' 'Is religion an opiate?' 'What evidence is there that mankind have spirits and will be resurrected after death?

These are among the fundamental questions that a Muslim believer may expect to hear, and be challenged to answer, while carrying out his or her obligation of da'wa. This term, which literally means 'calling' or 'inviting', denotes actions and words directed towards helping others to have faith – to rediscover the believer who lies deep within every human soul as part of its fiṭra, or primordial nature.

At the same time, within human souls – including those of people who believe in God and in Divine Revelation – there is also a nafs, or ego, which is prone to doubts and hesitation. This ego or self, too, needs to be 'called', or 'invited', back to full commitment through understanding, acknowledgement, and repentance.

Questions of the type 'Who created God' are characteristic, as the Prophet ﷺ pointed out, of the Last Days, times when through the influence of Satanic beliefs and cultural norms the very notion of a God of any kind has been made to appear ridiculous in the eyes of many. Particularly prone to this problem are people of the 'intellectual' type, to whom it appears only natural and logical to question everything that human beings have traditionally held most dear.

In Dialogue with an Atheist, Dr Mostafa Mahmoud uses a series of imaginary conversations to guide the believer in their task of helping those seemingly deprived of faith in God, His Message, and His Messenger. First published in 1994, the book has been thoroughly revised and updated in the light of events and trends that have emerged during the last two decades.
